

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

THE many incorrect editions of this book, published of late years, have occasioned much trouble and vexation to instructors of youth, who have therefore long wished to see an edition accurately revised and corrected. To attain an object so important to master and scholar, the proprietor of the Scotch edition (from which this is carefully printed) obtained the assistance of the Rector of the Grammar school of Aberdeen: who has not only carefully compared this with the latest editions published in the Author's life time, and under his own inspection; but, by marking the quantity of the Penult Syllable, where it is most liable to be mistaken, has also, it is hoped, made it easier for beginners to acquire a just pronunciation of the language.

NOTES.

GRAMMAR is the art of speaking any language rightly ; as, Hebrew, Greek, Latin, English, &c.

Latin grammar is the art of speaking rightly the Latin tongue.

The Rudiments of that grammar are plain and easy instructions, teaching beginners the first principles, or the most common and necessary rules of Latin.

The Rudiments may be reduced to these four heads ; I. Treating of letters. II. Of syllables. III. Of words. IV. Of sentences.

These are naturally made up one of another ; for one or more letters make a syllable, one or more syllables make a word, and two or more words make a sentence.

A letter is a mark or character representing an uncompound sound.

K, Y, Z, are only to be found in words originally Greek ; and H, by some, is not accounted a letter, but a breathing.

We reckon the J, called Jod (or Je), and the V, called Vau, two letters distinct from I, and U ; because not only their figures, but their powers or sounds, are quite different : J sounding like G before E, and V almost like F.

A vowel is a letter that makes a full and perfect sound by itself.

A consonant is a letter that cannot sound without a vowel.

A syllable is any one complete sound.

There can be no syllable without a vowel ; and any of the six vowels alone, or any vowel with one or more consonants before or after it, make a syllable.

There are, for the most part, as many syllables in a word as there are vowels in it ; only there are two kinds of syllables in which it is otherwise, viz. 1. When U, with any other vowel, comes after G, Q, or S ; as in Lingua, Qui, Suadco, where the sound of U vanishes, or is little heard. 2. When two vowels join to make a diphthong or double vowel.

A diphthong is a sound compounded of the sounds of two vowels, so as both of them are heard.

Of diphthongs, three are proper, viz. au, eu, ei, in which both vowels are heard ; and two improper, viz. æ, œ, in which the a and o are not heard, but they are pronounced as e simple.

Some, not without reason, to these five diphthongs add other three; as, ai in Maia, oi in Troia, yi or ui in Harpyia or Harpuia.

PARS SECUNDA.

De Dictionibus.

M. QUOT sunt partes Oratoris?

D. Octo; Nomen, Pronomen, Verbum, Participium; Adverbium, Præpositio, Interjectio, Conjunctio.

M. Quomodo, dividuntur?

D. In Declinabiles et Indclinabiles.

M. Quot sunt declinabiles?

D. Quatuor; Nomen, Pronomen, Verbum, Participium.

M. Quot sunt Indclinabiles?

D. Item quatuor; Adverbium, Præpositio, Interjectio, Conjunctio.

PART SECOND.

Of Words.

M. HOW many parts of speech are there?

S. Eight; noun, pronoun, verb, participle; adverb, preposition, interjection, conjunction.

M. How are they divided?

S. Into declinable and indeclinable.

M. How many are declinable?

S. Four; noun, pronoun, verb, participle.

M. How many are indeclinable?

S. Likewise four; adverb, preposition, interjection, conjunction.

A Word, (vox or dictio) is one or more syllables joined together, which men have agreed upon to signify something.

Words are commonly reduced to eight classes, called parts of speech; but some comprise them all under three classes, viz. noun, verb, and adverb. Under noun they comprehend also pronoun, and participle; and under adverb also preposition, interjection, and conjunction. Others, to these, add a fourth class, viz. adnoun, comprehending adjectives under it, and restricting nouns to substantives only. These, by some, are otherwise called names, qualities, affirmations, and particles.

The declinable parts of speech are so called, because there is some change made upon them, especially in the last syllables; and this is what we call declension, or declining of words. But the indeclinable parts continue unchangeably the same.

The last syllable on which these changes do fall, is called the ending or termination of words.

These changes are made by what grammarians call accidentie, i. e. the accidence of words.

These accidents are commonly reckoned six, viz. gender, case, number, mood, tense, and person. Of these, gender and case are peculiar to three of the declinable parts of speech, viz. noun, pronoun, and participle; and mood, tense, and person are peculiar to one of them, viz. verb: and number is common to them all.

NOTE 1. That person may also be said to belong to noun or pronoun; but then it is not properly an accident, because no change is made by it in the word.

NOTE 2. That figure, species, and comparison, which some call accident, do not properly come under that name, because the words have a different signification from what they had before. See Chap. IX.

NOTE 3. That the changes that happen to a noun, pronoun, and participle are in a stricter sense called declension or declination of them; and the changes that happen to a verb are called conjugation.

CAP. I.

M. How many declensions are there?

S. Five; first, second, third, fourth, and fifth.

REGULÆ GENERALES.

1. Nomina neutrius generis habent nominativum, accusativum, et vocativum, similes in utroque numero : et hi casus in plurali semper desinunt in a.

2. Vocativus in singulari plerumque, in plurali semper, est similis nominativo.

3. Dativus et ablativus pluralis sunt similes.

4. Nomina propria plerumque carent plurali.

GENERAL RULES.

1. Nouns of the neuter gender have the nominative, accusative, and vocative, alike in both numbers : and these cases in the plural end always in a.

2. The vocative, for the most part in the singular [and] always in the plural, is like the nominative.

3. The dative and ablative plural are alike.

4. Proper names for the most part want the plural.

A NOUN is that part of speech which signifies the name or quality of a thing ; as Homo, a man ; bonus, good.

A noun is either substantive or adjective.

A substantive noun is, that which signifies the name of a thing ; as arbor, a tree ; virtus, virtue ; bonitas, goodness.

An adjective noun is, that which signifies an accident, quality, or property of a thing ; as albus, white ; felix, happy ; gravis, heavy.

A substantive may be distinguished from an adjective these two ways : 1. A substantive can stand in a sentence without an adjective, but an adjective cannot without a substantive ; as, I can say, A stone falls ; but I cannot say, heavy falls. 2. If the word thing, be joined with an adjective, it will make sense : but if it be joined with a substantive, it will make nonsense. Thus we say, A good thing, a white thing ; but we do not say, A man thing, a beast thing.

A substantive noun is divided into proper and appellative.

A proper substantive is, that which agrees to one particular thing of a kind ; as, Virgilius, a man's name ; Penelope, a woman's name ; Scotia, Scotland ; Edinburgum, Edinburgh ; Taus, the Tay.

An appellative substantive is, that which is common to a whole kind of things ; as, vir, a man ; femina, a woman ; regnum, a kingdom ; urbs, a city ; fluvius, a river.

NOTE. That when a proper name is applied to many, it becomes an appellative, as, Duodēcim Cæsares, The twelve Cæsars.

GENDER, in a natural sense, is the distinction of sex, or the difference between male and female: but in a grammatical sense, we commonly understand by it, the fitness that a substantive noun hath to be joined to an adjective of such a termination, and not of another.—Therefore,

Of the names of animals, the hes are of the masculine, and the shes of the feminine gender; but of things without life, and where the diversity of sex is not considered, even of things that have life, some are of the masculine, others of the feminine, and others of the neuter gender, according to the use of the best authors of the Latin tongue.

Besides these three principal genders, there are reckoned also other three less principal, which are nothing else but compounds of the three former, viz. The gender common to two, the gender common to three, and the doubtful gender.

I. The common gender, or gender common to two (Genus commune, or Commune duum), is masculine and feminine: and belongs to such nouns as agree to both sexes; as Parens, a father or mother; Bos, an ox or cow.

II. The gender common to three, (Genus commune trium) is masculine, feminine, and neuter, and belongs only to adjectives: whereof some have three terminations, the first masculine, the second feminine, and the third neuter; as, Bonus, bona, bonum, good. Some have two, the first masculine and feminine, and the second neuter; as, Mollis, molle, soft. And some have but one termination, which agrees indifferently to any of the three genders; as, Prudens, wise.

III. The doubtful gender (Genus dubium), belongs to such nouns as are found in good authors, sometimes in one gender and sometimes in another; as, Dies, a day, mas. or fem. Vulgus, the rabble, mas. or neut.

[We have excepted out of the number of genders the epicene or promiscuous gender; for, properly speaking, there is no such gender distinct from the three chief ones, or the doubtful. There are indeed epicene nouns, that is, some names of animals, in which the distinction of sex is either not at all, or very obscurely considered: And these are generally of the gender of their termination, as, Aquila, an eagle, fem. because it ends in a; Passer, a sparrow, mas. because it ends in er (See p. 12. and 15.). So, Homo, a man or woman, mas. Mancipium, a slave, neut. Anguis, serpent, doubtful.]

To distinguish these genders we make use of these three words, Hic, hæc, hoc ; which are commonly, though improperly, called articles. Hic, is the sign of the masculine, hæc, of the feminine, hoc, of the neuter gender ; Hic et hæc, of the common to two ; hic, hæc, hoc, of the common to three ; hic aut hæc, hic aut hoc, &c. of the doubtful.

By CASES we understand the different terminations that nouns receive in declining ; so called from cado, to fall, because they naturally fall or flow from the nominative, which is therefore called Casus rectus, the straight case ; as the other five are named Obliqui, crooked.

The singular number denotes one single thing ; as, Homo, a man ; the plural denotes more things than one ; as, Homines, men.

¶ Before the Learner proceeds to the Declension of Latin Nouns, it may not perhaps be improper to give him a general view of

THE DECLENSION OF ENGLISH NOUNS.

I. The English Language hath the two genders of nature, viz. Masculine and Feminine ; for animals in it are called HE or SHE, according to the difference of their sex ; and almost every thing without life is called IT. But because all the adjectives of this language are of one termination, it has no occasion for any other genders.

II. The English, properly speaking, has no cases, because there is no alteration made in the words themselves, as in the Latin : but instead thereof we use some little words called PARTICLES.

Thus the nominative case is the simple noun itself. The particle OF put before it, or 's after it, makes the genitive ; TO or FOR before it, makes the dative ; the accusative is the same with the nominative ; the vocative hath O before it ; and the ablative hath WITH, FROM, IN, BY, &c.

NOTE 1. That when a substantive comes before a verb, it is called the nominative ; when it follows after a verb active, without a preposition intervening, it is called the accusative.

NOTE 2. The genitive of words ending in s or es, or of plural nouns ending in s, is expressed by adding the apostrophe ; as, the soldiers' valour ; for righteousness' sake ; the muses' aid.

NOTE 3. That TO, the sign of the dative, and O of the vocative, are frequently omitted or understood.

Besides these, there are other two little words called ARTICLES, which are commonly put before substantive nouns. viz. A (or AN before a vowel or H) called the indefinite article, and THE, called the definite.

A or AN signifies as much as the adjective one, and is put for it; as, a man, that is one man. The is used pronominally and signifies almost the same with this or that, and these or those.

NOTE 1. That proper names of men, women, towns, kingdoms, and appellatives, when used in a very general sense have none of these articles; as, man is mortal, i. e. every man : God abhors sin, i. e. all sins : but proper names of rivers, ships, hills, &c. frequently have the : as, the Thames, the Britannia, the Alps.

NOTE 2. That the vocative has none of these articles, and the plural wants the indefinite.

NOTE 3. That when an adjective is joined with a substantive, the article is put before both; as, a good man, the good man : and the definite is put before the adjective when the substantive is understood; as, the just shall live by faith, i. e. the just man.

III. The English hath two numbers as the Latin, and the plural is commonly made by putting an s to the singular; as, book, books.

Exc. Such as end in ch, sh, ss, and x, which have es added to their singular; as, church-es, brush-es, witness-es, box-es. Where it is to be noticed, that such words have a syllable more in the plural than in the singular number; which likewise happens to all words ending in ce, ge, se, ze; as, faces, ages, houses, mazes. The reason of this proceeds from the near approach these terminations have in their sound to an s, so that their plural could not be distinguished from the singular, without the addition of another syllable. And for the same reason, verbs of these terminations have a syllable added to them in their third person singular of the present tense.

Exc. 2 Words that end in f or fe, have their plural in ves; as, calf, calves; leaf, leaves; wife, wives; but not always; for hoof, roof, grief, mischiefe, dwarf, strife, muff, &c. retain f; staff has staves.

Exc. 3. Some have their plural in en; as, man, men; woman, women; child, children; chick, chicken; brother, brothers or brethren; (which last is seldom used except in sermons or in a burlesque sense.)

Exc. 4. Some are more irregular ; as, die, dice ; mouse, mice ; house, lice ; goose, geese ; foot, feet ; tooth, teeth ; penny, pence ; sow, sows, and swine ; cow, cows, and kine.

Exc. 5. Some are the same in both numbers ; as, sheep, hose, swine, chicken, pease, deer ; fish and fishes, mile and miles, horse and horses.

NOTE, That as nouns in y do often change y into ie, so these have rather ies than ys in the plural ; as, cherry, cherries.

A is a Latin termination ; e, as, and es are Greek.

Nouns in a and e are feminine, in as and es masculine.

RULE. Filia, a daughter ; Nata, a daughter ; Dea, a goddess ; Anima, the Soul, with some others, have more frequently abus than is in their Dat. and Abl. plural, to distinguish them from masculines in us of the second declination.

¶ In declining Greek Nouns, observe the following rules :

1. Greek nouns in as [and a] have sometimes their Accusative [with the poets] in an ; as, Æneas, Æneam, vel Ænean ; Ossa, Ossan, vel Ossam.

2. Those in es have their accusative in en, and their vocative and ablative in e : as,

Nom. Anchises,
Voc. Anchise,

Acc. Anchisen,
Abl. Anchise.

3. Nouns in e, have their genitive in es, their accusative in en, their dative, vocative, and ablative in e ; as,

Nom. Penelope,
Dat. Penelope,
Voc. Penelope,
Abl. Penelope.

Gen. Penelopes,
Acc. Penelopen.

[As to the dative of words in e, I have followed Probus and Priscian, among the ancients ; Lilly, Alvarus, Vossius, Messieurs de Port Royal, Johnson, &c. among the moderns. And though none of them cite any example ; yet I remember to have observed three such datives, viz Cybele in Virg. Æn. XI, 768—Penelope in Martial, Epig. XI, 8, 9 ; and Epigone in Reinesii Syntag. Inscrisp. Class. 14. Num. 85. But Diomedes and Despauter seem to be of opinion, that these nouns have æ in their dative. The reason that moved the former is, because they thought it incongruous, that seeing nouns in e generally follow the Greek, in all their other cases, they should follow the Latin in their dative only, especially since their ablative, which answers to the Greek dative, ends in e. As, on the contrary, they maintain, that if such nouns have æ in their dative, it must come from a nominative in a ; of which there are some examples yet extant ; And then they may likewise have their accusative in am ; as, Penelopam, Circam, in Plautus ; Lycambam in Terentianus Maurus. Thus Heleneæ or Helenes, Helenam, or Helenen, are frequently to be met with in Poets, who also turn such words as commonly end in a into e in the nominative and vocative, when the measure of their verse requires it. And here it may not be improper to remark, that even Greek words in es, have sometimes their nominative and vocative in a, (whence comes their genitive and dative in e). And if Mr. Johnson's citations are right, both es and e have sometimes their accusative in em.]

Filius hath also fili, and deus hath deus in the vocative; and in the plural more frequently dii and diis than dei and deis.

The most common terminations of the second declension, are er and us of the masculine, and um of the neuter gender.

There is only one noun in ir of this declension, viz. vir, a man, with its compounds, levir, duumvir, triumvir, &c. and only one in ur, viz. satur, full, (of old satūrus), an adjective. Os and on are Greek terminations, and generally changed into us, and um in their nominative. These, with other Greek nouns in us have sometimes their accusative in on.

[We have excluded the termination eus from this declension, as belonging more properly to the third; as, Orpheus, Orpheos, Orphei, Orpheæ, Orpheu: For when it is of the second declension it is e-us of two syllables, and so falls under the termination us; Orphe-us, Orphe-i (contracted Orphei and Orphi), Orphe-o, Orphium, (or Orphe-on, Orpheo.)]

Of the final letters of the third declension, six are peculiar to it, o, c, d, l, t, x; the other five are common to other declensions, viz. a, e, n, r, s.

The copious final letters are, o, n, r, s, x.

The copious final syllables are, io, do, go, en, er, or, as, es, is, os, us, ns, rs, ex.

All nouns in a of this declension, are originally Greek, and have always an m before it. There are only two words in c; lac, milk; and halec, a herring. Words in d are proper names of men, and very rare. There are only three words in t, viz. caput, the head; sinciput, the fore-head; occiput, the hind-head.

4. Neutra quæ habent e in ablativo singulari, habent a in nominativo, accusativo, et vocativo plurali.
5. At quæ habent i in ablativo, faciunt ia.

RULES.

1. Nouns in e, and neuters in al and ar, have i in the ablative.
2. Those which have e only in the ablative, make their genitive plural in um.
3. Those which have i only, or e and i together, make ium.
4. Neuters which have e in their ablative singular, have a in the nominative, accusative, and vocative plural.
5. But those which have i in the ablative, make ia.

1. EXCEPTIONS IN THE ACCUSATIVE SINGULAR.

1. Some nouns in is have im in the accusative ; as, vis, vim, strength ; tussis, the cough ; sitis, thirst ; buris, the beam of a plough ; ravis, hoarseness ; amussis, a mason's rule. To which add names of rivers in is ; as, Tybris, Thamësis, which the poets sometimes make in im.

2. Some in is have em or im ; as, navis, a ship : puppis, the stern ; securis, an axe ; clavis, a key ; febris, a fever : pelvis, a basin ; restis, a rope : turris, a tower ; navem vel navim, &c.

2. EXCEPTIONS IN THE ABLATIVE SINGULAR.

1. Nouns which have im in the accusative, have i in the ablative; as, vis, vim, vi, &c. Those that have em or im have e or i; as, navis, navem vel navim, nave vel navi.

2. Canālis, vectis, biennīs, have i; avis, amnis, ignis, unguis, rus, and imber, with some others, have e or i, but most commonly e.

3. These neuters in ar, have e; far, jubar, nectar, and hepar: Sal also has sale.

3. EXCEPTIONS IN THE GENITIVE PLURAL.

1. Nouns of one syllable in as, is, and s, with a consonant before it, have ium; as, as assium; lis litium; urbs urbium.

2. Also nouns in es and is, not increasing their genitive; as, vallis, vallium; rufes, rufium. Except fanis, canis, vates, and volucris.

3. To which add caro, cor, cōs, dos, mus, nix, nox, linter, sal, os, ossis.

NOTE. That when the genitive plural ends in ium, the accusative frequently, instead of es, has eis, or is; as, omneis, parteis, or omnis, partis, for omnes, partes.

OF GREEK NOUNS.

I. Greek nouns have sometimes their genitive in os. And these are 1. Such as increase their genitive with d; as, Arcas, Arcadis vel Arcados, an Arcadian; Brisēis, -eidis vel -eidos, a woman's name. 2. Such as increase in os pure, i. e. with a vowel before it, as hærēsis, -eos vel -ios, a heresy. 3. To these add Sphingos, Strymōnos, and panos.

NOTE. That is is more frequent, except in the second kind, and patronymics of the first.

II. 1. Greek words which increase their genitive in is or os not pure (i. e. with a consonant before it) have frequently their accusative singular in a and plural in as; as, Lampas, lampadis, lampada, lampadas; also, Minos, Minōis, Minoa; Tros, Trōis, Troa, Troas; Heros, herōis, heroa, herōas.

2. Words in is or ys, whose genitive ends in os pure, have their accusative in im or in, and ym or yn; as hæresis, -eos, hæresim or -in; Chelys, -lyos, a lute; chelyra or -lyn. Of words in is, which have their genitive in dis or dos, masculines have their accusative for the most part in im or in, seldom in dem, and never in da, that I know of; as, Paris, Parim, vel Parin, &c.

Paridem : Feminines have most commonly dem or da, and seldom in or in ; as, Briseis, Briseidem vel Briseida.

III. Feminines in o have us in their genitive, and o in their other cases ; as, Dido, Didus, Dido, &c. or they may be declined after the Latin form, Didonis, Didoni, &c. which Juno (as being of a Latin original) always follows.

IV. Greek nouns in e frequently throw away e in their vocative ; as, Chalchas, Achilles, Paris, Tiphys, Orpheus ; Calcha, Achille, Pari, Tiphy, Orpheu.

V. Greek nouns have um, (and sometimes on in their genitive plural ; as Epigrammaton Hæreseon), and very rarely ium.

VI. Greek nouns in ma, have most frequently is in their dative and ablative plural ; as, Poëma, poëmätis, because of old they said poëmatum, -ti. Bos has boum, and bobus or bubus.

Nouns in us of this declension are generally masculine, and those in u all neuter, and indeclinable in the singular number.

RULE. Some nouns have ûbus in their dative and ablative plural, viz. Arcus, a bow ; artus, a joint ; lacus, a lake ; acus, a needle ; portus, a port or harbour ; partus, a birth ; tribus, a tribe ; veru, a spit.

NOTE. That of old, nouns of this declension belonged to the third, and were declined as, grus, gruis, a crane ; thus, fructus, fructuis, fructui, fructuem, fructue : Fructues, fructuum, fructuibus, fructues, fructues, fructuibus. So that all the cases are contracted, except the dative sing. and genitive plur. es, es.

Nouns of the fifth declension are not above fifty ; and are all feminine, except dies, a day, masc. or fem. and meridies, the mid-day or noon, masc.

All nouns of this declension end in ies, except three ; Fides, faith ; spes, hope ; res, a thing.

And all nouns in ies, are of the fifth, except these four ; abies, a fir-tree ; aries, a ram ; paries, a wall ; and quies, rest ; which are of the third.

Most nouns of this declension want the genitive, dative, and ablative plural ; and many of them want the plural altogether.

GENERAL REMARKS ON ALL THE DECLENSIONS.

1. The genitive plural of the first four is sometimes contracted, especially by poets : as, Cœlicolũm, Deũm, Mensũm, Currũm ; for Cœlicolarum, Deorum, Mensium, Curruum.

2. When the genitive of the second ends in ii, the last i is sometimes taken away by poets ; as, Tugũri, for Tugurii. We read also, Aulãi for aulæ, in the first ; and fide for fidei in the fifth ; and so of other like words.

Declinatio Adjectivorum.

ADJECTIVA sunt vel primæ et secundæ declinationis, vel tertiæ tantum.

Omnia adjectiva habentia tres terminationes (præter* undecim) sunt primæ et secundæ : At quæ unam vel duas terminationes habent, sunt tertiæ.

The Declension of Adjectives.

ADJECTIVES are either of the first and second declension, or of the third only.

All adjectives having three terminations (except* eleven) are of the first and second ; but those which have one or two terminations are of the third.

Adjectives of the first and second have their masculine in us† or er ; their feminine always in a ; and their neuter always in um ; as,

Bõnus, bona, bonum, good ; Tẽner, tenẽra, tenerum, tender.

* Viz. Acer, alãcer, celer, celẽber, saltũber, volũcer, campester, equester, pedester, paluster, silvester, which are of the third, and have their masculine in er or is, their feminine in is, and neuter in e.

A. ten-ero,	-era,	-ero.	A. ten-eris,	-eris,	-eris.

Adjectives are declined as three substantives of the same terminations, and declensions: As in the examples above, bonus, like dominus; tener, like gener; bona and tenera, like pena; bonum and tenerum, like regnum. Therefore the ancients, as is clear from Varro, lib. 3. de Anal. declined every gender separately, and not all three jointly, as we now commonly do: And perhaps it may not be amiss to follow this method at first, especially if the boy is of a slow capacity.

Of adjectives in er, some retain the e, as tener. So miser, -era, -erum, wretched; liber, -era, -erum, free; and all compounds in ger and fer; others lose it, as pulcher, pulchræ, pulchrum, fair; niger, nigra, nigrum, black.

These following adjectives, unus, one; totus, whole; solus, alone; ullus, any; nullus, none; alius, another of many; alter, another, or one of two; neuter, neither; uter, whether, with its compounds; uterque, both; uterlibet, utervis, which of the two you please; alteruter, the one or the other; have their genitive singular in ius, and dative in i.

REGULÆ.

1. Adjectiva tertię declinationis habent e vel i in ablativo singulari.

2. At si neutrum sit in e, ablativus habet i tantum.

RULES.

1. Adjectives of the third declension have e or i in the ablative singular.

2. But if the neuter be in e, the ablative has i only.

3. Genitivus pluralis desinit in ium; et neutrum nominativum, accusativum, et vocativum in ia.

3. The genitive plural ends in ium; and the neuter of the nominative, accusative, and vocative in ia.

4. Excipe comparativa, quæ um et a postulant.

4. Except comparatives which require um and a.

EXCEPTIONS.

1. Dives, hospes, sospes, superstes, juvenis, senex, and pauper, have e in the ablative singular, and consequently um in the genitive plural.

2. Compos, impos, consors, inops, vigil, supplex, uber, degener, and puber: also compounds ending in ceps, fex, pes, and corpor; as princeps, artifex, bipes, tricorpor, have um not ium.

NOTE. That all these have seldom the neuter singular, and never almost the neuter plural in the nom. and acc. To which add memor, which has memōri and memorum, and locuples, which has locupletium; also deses, reses, hebes, perpes, præpes, teres, concolor, versicolor; which being hardly to be met with in the genitive plural, 'tis a doubt whether they should have um or ium, though I incline most to the former.

3. Par has pāri; vetus, vetēra, and veterum; plus (which hath only the neuter in the singular) has plure, and plures, plura, (or pluria) plurium.

NOTE 1. That comparatives and adjectives in ns, have more frequently e than i, and participles in the ablatives called absolute have generally e; as Carolo regnante, not regnanti.

NOTE 2. That adjectives joined with substantives neuter hardly ever have e, but i; as, victi fci ferro, not victrice.

NOTE 3. That adjectives, when they are put substantively, have oft-times e; as, affinis, familiāris, rivālis, sodālis, &c. So par, a match; as, Cum pare quæque suo coeunt. Ovid.

OF NUMERAL ADJECTIVES.

1. THE ordinal and multiplicative numbers (see Chap. IX.) are regularly declined. The distributive want the singular, as also do the cardinal, except unus, which is declined as in h. 16, and hath the plural, when joined with a substantive that wanteth the sing. as, unæ literæ, one letter; una mœnia, one wall; or when several particulars are considered complexly, as making one compound ; as, Uni sex dies, i. e. One space of six days ;

Una vestimenta, i. e. One suit of apparel. Plaut.

Duo and Tres are declined after this manner.

Plur.			Plur.
N. duo	duæ	duo	N. tres	tres	tria
G. duorum	duarum	duorum	G. trium	trium	trium
D. duobus	duabus	duobus	D. tribus	tribus	tribus
A. duos v. o	duas	duo	A. tres	tres	tria
V. duo	duæ	duo	V. tres	tres	tria
A. duobus	duabus	duobus	A. tribus	tribus	tribus

Ambo, both, is declined as duo.

2. From quatuor to centum are all indeclinable.

3. From centum to mille they are declined thus ; ducenti, ducentæ, ducenta ; ducentorum, ducentarum, ducentorum, &c.

4. As to mille, Varro and all the grammarians after him down to the last age, make it (when it is put before a gen. plur.) a substantive indeclinable in the sing. and in the plur. declined, millia, millium, millibus ; but when it hath a substantive joined to it in any other case, they make it an adjective plural indeclinable. But Scioppius, and after him Gronovius, contend that mille is always an adjective plural ; and under that termination of all cases and genders ; but that it hath two neuters, hæc mille, and hæc millia ; that the first is used when one thousand is signified, and the second when more than one. And that, where it seems to be a substantive governing a gen. multitudo, numerus, manus, pecunia, pondus, spatium, corpus, or the like, are understood. I own that formerly I was of this sentiment ; but now the weighty reasons adduced by the most accurate Perizonius incline me rather to follow the ancient grammarians.

After the declension of substantives and adjectives separately, it may not be improper to exercise the learner with some examples of a substantive and adjective declined together ; which will both make him more ready in the declensions, and render the dependence of the adjective upon the substantive more familiar to him.—Let the examples at first be of the same terminations and declensions ; as, Dominus justus, a just lord ; Penna bona, a good pen ; Ingenium eximium, an excellent wit ; afterwards let them be different in one or both ; as, Puer probus, a good boy ; Lectio facilis, an easy lesson ; Poeta optimus, an excellent poet ; Fructus dulcis, sweet fruit ; Dies faustus, a happy day, &c. And if the boy has as yet been taught writing, let him write them either in the school, or at home, to be revised by the master next day.

OF IRREGULAR NOUNS.

THESE (for we cannot here make a full enumeration of them) may be reduced to the following scheme :

IRREGULAR NOUNS are,

1. DEFECTIVE.
1. Substantives.	Wanting.	1. Number,	{ Sing. as, Iberi, Minæ, Arma. Plur. as, Aër, Humus, Ævum.

In Gender,
In Declension,

NOTE 1. That the defective nouns are not so numerous as is commonly believed.

NOTE 2. That those which vary too little, may be ranked under the defective; and those which vary too much, under the redundant, e. g. cæli, cælorum, comes not from cælum, but from cælus; and vasa, vasorum, not from vas, vasis, but from vasum, vasi; but custom, which alone gives laws to all languages, has dropt the singular, and retained the plural; and so of others.

DE COMPARATIONE.

M. QUOT sunt gradus comparationis?

D. Tres; positivus, comparativus, et superlativus.

M. Quotæ declinationis sunt hi gradus?

D. Positivus est adjectivum primæ et secundæ declinationis, vel tertiæ tantum; comparativus est semper tertiæ; superlativus semper primæ et secundæ.

M. Unde formatur comparativus gradus?

D. A proximo casu, positivi in i, addendo pro masculino et fœminino syllabam or, et us pro neutro; ut, Doctus, learned; gen. docti, doctior, and doctius, more learned; mitis, meek; dat. miti; mitior and mitius, more meek.

M. Unde formatur superlativus?

D. 1. Si positivus desinat in er, superlativus formatur addendo rimus; ut, Pulcher, fair, pulcherrimus, most fair; pauper, poor, pauperimus, most poor.

OF COMPARISON.

M. HOW many degrees of comparison are there?

S. Three; the positive, comparative, and superlative.

M. Of what declension are these degrees?

S. The positive is an adjective of the first and second declension, or third only; the comparative is always of the third; the superlative always of the first and second.

M. Whence is the comparative degree formed?

S. From the next case of the positive in i, by adding for the masculine and feminine the syllable or, and us for the neuter; as,

M. Whence is the superlative formed?

S. 1. If the positive ends in er, the superlative is formed by adding rimus; as,

. Si positivus non desinat in er, superlativus formatur a proximo casu in i, addendo issimus, ut,

2. If the positive ends not in er, the superlative is formed from the next case in i, by adding issimus; as,

Gen. Docti, doctissimus, most learned : Dat. Miti, mitissimus, most meek.

By grammatical COMPARISON, we understand three adjective nouns, of which the two last are formed from the first, and import comparison with it; that is, heightening or lessening of its signification.

Consequently those adjectives only which are capable of having their signification increased or diminished, can be compared.

The POSITIVE signifies the quality of a thing simply and absolutely; as, durus, hard; parvus, little.

The COMPARATIVE heightens or lessens that quality; as, durius, harder; minor, less.

The SUPERLATIVE heightens or lessens it to a very high or very low degree; as, durissimus, hardest or most hard; minimus, very little or least.

The positive hath various terminations; the comparative ends always in or and us; the superlative always in mus, ma, mum.

[The positive, properly speaking, is no degree of comparison, for it does not compare things together; however, it is accounted one, because the other two are founded upon, and formed from it.]

The sign of the comparative in our language is the syllable er added to an adjective, or the word more put before it.

The sign of the superlative is the syllable est added to an adjective, or the word very or most put before it.

NOTE. That when the positive is a long word, or would otherwise sound harsh by having er or est added to it, we commonly make the comparative by the word more, and the superlative by most or very put before it.

And for the like reason, the Latin comparative is sometimes made by magis, and the superlative by valde or maxime, put before the positive. And these are particularly used, when the positive ends in us with a vowel before it; as, Pius, godly; arduus, high; idoneus, fit; though not always.

IRREGULAR COMPARISONS.

1. Bonus	melior	optimus:	Good	better	best.
Malus	pejor	pessimus:	Evil	worse	worst.
Magnus	major	maximus:	Great	greater	greatest.
Parvus	minor	minimus:	Little	less	least.

Multus, plurimus; multa, plurima; multum, plus, plurimum; much, more, most.

2. Facilis, easy; humilis, low; similis, like; make their superlative by changing is into issimus; thus, facillimus, humillimus, simillimus.

3. Extē, outward; citer, hither; supērus, above; inferus, below; postērus, behind; have regular comparatives; but their superlatives are, extrēmus (or extīmus), uttermost; citīmus, hithermost; suprēmus (or summus), uppermost, highest, last; infīmus (or imus), lowest; postrēmus (or postūmus), latest or last.

4. Compounds in dicus, loquus, ficus and volus, have entior and entissimus; as, maledīcus, one that railleth; magnilōquus, one that boasteth; benefīcus, beneficent; malevōlus, malevolent.

But these seem rather to come from participles or nouns in ens. Besides, the comparatives and superlatives of adjectives derived from loquor and facio are very rare; and Terence has mirificissimus, and Plautus has mendaciloquius.

5. Prior, former, has primus, first; ulterior, farther, ultīmus, farthest or last; proprior, nearer, proximus, nearest or next; ocior, swifter, ocissimus, swiftest; their positives being out of use, or quite wanting. Proximus hath also another comparative formed from it, viz. proximior.

6. There are also a great many other adjectives capable of having their signification increased, which yet want one or more of these degrees of comparison; as, albus, white, without comparative and superlative; ingens, great, ingentior, greater, without the superlative; sacer, holy, sacerrimus, most holy, without the comparative; anterior, former, without positive and superlative.

¶ These three degrees of comparison being nothing else but three distinct adjectives, may be declined either severally, each by itself, or jointly together; respect still being had to their declensions. But the first way is much easier, and will answer all the purposes of comparison as well as the other.

A PRONOUN is an irregular kind of noun ; or it is a part of speech which has respect to, and supplies the place of a noun ; as, instead of your name, I say, tu, thou or you ; instead of Jacobus fecit, James did it, I say, Ille fecit, He did it, viz. James.

NOTE 1. That the dative mihi, is sometimes by the poets contracted into mi.

NOTE 2. That of old the genitive plural of ego was nostrorum and nostrarum ; of tu, vestrorum and vestrarum, (of which there are several examples in Plautus and Terence) which were afterwards contracted into nostrum and vestrum.

NOTE 3. That we use Nostrum and Vestrum after numerals, partitives, comparatives, and superlatives; and Nostrī and Vestri after other nouns and verbs; though there want not some examples of these last with Nostrum and Vestrum, even in Cicero himself, as Fossius shews.

Meus, my or mine ; tuus, thy or thine ; suius, his own, her own, its own, their own, are declined like bonus, -a, -um ; and, noster, our or ours ; vester, your or yours ; like pulcher, -chra, -chrum, of the first and second declension. But tuus, suius, and vester, want the vocative ; noster and meus have it, in which this last hath mi (and sometimes meus) in the masculine singular.

Nostras, of our country ; vestras, of your country ; cujus, of what or which country, are declined like felix, of the third declension ; gen. nostratis, dat. nostrati, &c.

NOTE 1. That all nouns and pronouns which one cannot call upon, or address himself unto, want the vocative. In consequence of which rule, many nouns, as, nullus, nemo, qualis, quantus, quot, &c. and several pronouns, as, ego, cui, quis, &c. want the vocative ; but not so many, either of the one or the other, as is commonly taught. For which reason, we have given vocatives to ille, ipse, hic, and idem, therein following the judgment of the great Vossius, Messieurs de Port Royal, and Johnson, which they support by the following authorities :

Esto nunc, Sol, testis, et hæc mihi terra precanti. Virg. Æn. 12.

Tu mihi libertas illa paterna veni. Tibul. lib. 2. El. 4.

O nox illa, quæ, pene æternas huic urbi tenebras attulisti. Cic. pro Flac.

And the vocative of Idem seems to be confirmed by that of Ovid, Met. 15.

————— Quique fuisti

Hippolites, dixit, nunc idem Virbius esto.

Though all authors before them will only allow four pronouns, viz. Tu, meus, noster, and nostras, to have the vocative.

NOTE 2. That qui is sometimes used for quis ; as, Cic. qui tantus fuit labor ? Ter. qui erit rumor populi, si id feceris ?

NOTE 3. That quod, with its compounds, aliquod, quodvis, quoddam, &c. are used when they agree with a substantive of the same case ; quid, with its compounds, aliquid, quidvis, quiddam, &c. either have no substantive expressed, or govern one in the genitive ; whence it is, that these last are commonly reckoned substantives. But that quid, as well as quod, is originally an adjective, its signification plainly shews ; otherwise, we shall make multum, plus, tantum, quantum, &c. also substantives, wher they govern the genitive ; which yet most grammarians agree to be adjectives, having the common word negotium understood.

NOTE 4. That qui, the relative, hath sometimes qui in the ablative, and that (which is remarkable) in all genders and numbers, as Mr. Johnson evinces by a great many examples out of Plautus and Terence ; to which he might have added one out of C. Nepos. III. 3.

NOTE 5. That nostras, vestras, and cujas, are declined like Gentile or national nouns in as in the third declension, in imitation of which they are formed ; as, Arpinas, Fidenas, Privernas, a man, woman, or thing, of or belonging to the town of Arpinum, Fidenæ, or Privernum, and may have the neuter as well as these ; (for, as Cic. has Iter Arpinas ; and Liv. Bellum Privernas, so Colum. has arbutum nostras ; and Cic. nostratia verba) contrary to what Linacer teaches.

[I pass over taking notice, that in old authors, especially Plautus, we find quis and quisquis sometimes of the feminine gender ; mis and tis for mei and tui ; hiæc for hi ; hibus, ibus, for his, iis ; illæ, ipsæ, istæ, quæ, in the genitive or dative singular feminine ; em for cum ; istes for istos ; quouis, quoi, for cujus, cui ; because they are extraordinary.]

OF COMPOUND PRONOUNS.

I. Some are compounded of quis and qui, with some other word or syllable. In these quis is sometimes the first, and sometimes the last part of the word compounded ; but qui is always the first.

1. The compounds of quis, when it is put first, are quisnam, who ; quispiam, quisquam, any one ; quisque, every one ; quisquis, whosoever ; which are thus declined :

		Nom.		Gen.	Dat.
Quisnam	quænam	quodnam	v. quidnam.	cujusnam.	cuinam.
Quispiam	quæpiam	quodpiam	v. quidpiam.	cujuspiam.	cuipiam.
Quisquam	quæquam	quodquam	v. quidquam.	cujusquam.	cuiquam.
Quisque	quæque	quodque	v. quidque.	cujusque.	cuique.
Quisquis	—	quidquid	v. quicquid.	cujuscujus.	cuicui.

And so forth in their other cases, according to the simple quis. But quisquis hath no feminine at all, and the neuter only in the nominative and accusative. Quisquam has also quicquam for quidquam, accusative, quenquam without the feminine. The plural is scarcely used.

2. The compounds of quis, when it is put last are, aliquis, some; ecquis, who? To which some add nequis, siquis, numquis; but these are more frequently read separately, ne quis, si quis, num quis. They are thus declined:

		Nom.		Gen.	Dat.
Aliquis	aliqua	aliquod	v. aliquid.	alicujus.	alicui.
Ecquis	ecqua v. ecquæ	ecquod	v. ecquid.	eccujus.	eccui.
Si quis	si qua	si quod	v. si quid.	si cujus.	si cui.
Ne quis	ne qua	ne quod	v. ne quid.	ne cujus.	ne cui.
Num quis	num qua	num quod	v. num quid.	num cujus.	num cui.

NOTE. That these, and only these have qua in the nominative singular feminine, and nominative and accusative plural neuter.

3. The compounds of qui are quicunque, whosoever; quidam, some; quilibet, quivis, any one whom you please; and are thus declined:

		Nom.		Gen.	Dat.
Quicunque	quæcunque	quodcunque.		cujuscunque.	cuicunque.
Quidam	quædam	quoddam v. quiddam.		cujusdam.	cuidam.
Quilibet	quælibet	quodlibet v. quidlibet.		cujuslibet.	cuilibet.
Quivis	quævis	quodvis v. quidvis.		cujusvis.	cuivis.

Some of these are twice compounded; as, ecquisnam, who? unusquisque, every one. The first is scarce declined beyond its nominative, and the second wants its plural.

NOTE 1. That all these compounds want the vocative, except quisque, aliquis, quilibet, unusquisque, and perhaps some others. Vid. Voss. p. 335.

NOTE 2. That all these compounds have seldom or never queis, but quibus, in their dative and ablative plural.

NOTE 3. That quidam hath quendam, quandam, quoddam vel quiddam, in the accusative singular; and quorundam, quarundam, quorundam, in the genitive plural; n being put instead of m for the better sound, as it is for the same reason in these cases of idem.

II. Some reckon amongst compound pronouns ego, tu, and sui, with ipse; but in the best books they are generally read separately; which seems necessary, because of te ipse, and se ipse, where the two words are of different cases.

III. Is is compounded with the syllable dem, and contracted into idem, the same; which is thus declined:

	Sing.			Plur.
Nom. idem	eadem	idem	Nom. iidem	eædem	eadem
Gen. ejusdem	ejusdem	ejusdem	Gen. eorundem	earundem	eorundem
Dat. eidem	eidem	eidem	Dat. eisdem v. iisdem
Acc. eundem	eandem	idem	Acc. eosdem	easdem	eadem
Voc. idem	eadem	idem	Voc. iidem	eædem	eadem
Abl. eodem	eadem	eodem.	Abl. eisdem v. iisdem

IV. Most of the other compound pronouns are only to be found in certain cases and genders ; as,

1. Of iste and hic is compounded, Nom. isthic, isthac, isthoc vel isthuc. Acc. isthunc, isthanc, isthoc vel isthuc. Abl. isthoc, isthac, isthoc. Nom. and Acc. plur. neut. isthac.

2. Of ecce and is, is compounded, eccum, eccam, plur. eccos, eccas ; and from ecce and ille, ellum, ellam ; ellos, ellas, in the accusatives.

3. Of modus and is, hic iste and quis, are compounded these genitives, ejusmodi, hujusmodi, istiusmodi, ejusmodi ; and sometimes with the syllable ce put in the middle, ejuscemodi, hujuscemodi, &c.

4. Of cum, and these ablatives, me, te, se, nobis, vobis, qui or quo, and quibus, are compounded mecum, tecum, secum, nobiscum, vobiscum, quicum or quodcum, and quibuscum.

5. To these add some pronouns compounded with these syllabical adjections, met, te, ce, pte, cine, to make their signification more pointed and emphatical ; as, egomet, tute, hujusce, meapte, hiccine.

REMARKS ON ENGLISH PRONOUNS.

1. In the nominative or foregoing state (as the English grammarians call it) we use I, thou, he, she, we, ye, they, and who ; but in the other cases (which they name the following state) we use me, thee, him, her, us, you, them, and whom.

2. When we speak of a person, we use who and whom, whether we ask a question or not ; as who did it ? the man who did it. But if we speak of a thing, with a question, we use what ; as, what book is that ? Without a question, we use which ; as, the book which you gave me ; and then it is frequently understood ; as, the book you gave me.

NOTE. That what is often used, even without a question, instead of the thing which or that which ; as, I know what you design, i. e. The thing which, or that which, you design. As on the contrary, when it refers to some particular thing mentioned before, we make use of which even with a question ; as, give me the book, which book ? which of the books ?

3. This makes in the plural these, and that makes those

NOTE. That that is frequently used instead of who, whom, or which ; as, the man that told you, the man that we saw, the book that I lent you.

4. We use my, thy, her, our, your, their, when they are joined with substantives, or the word own ; and mine, thine, hers, ours, yours, theirs, when the substantive is left out or understood, as, my book, this book is mine, &c.

NOTE. That with own, or a substantive beginning with a vowel, we sometimes use mine and thine; as, my eye or mine eye; thy own, or thine own.

5. We often use here, there, where, compounded with these particles, of, by, upon, about, in, with, instead of this, that, which, and what, with these same particles; as, hereof, hereby, hereupon, hereabouts, herein, herewith; for of this, by this, upon this, about this place, in this, with this, &c.

6. Whose and its are genitives, instead of, of whom, of it; and it is a fault to use it's for 'tis or it is, as some do.

A VERB is a part of speech which signifies to be, to do, or to suffer. Or, a verb is that part of speech which expresses what is affirmed or said of things.

A verb may be distinguished from any other part of speech these two ways:—1. A verb being the most necessary, and essential part of a sentence, without which it cannot subsist, whatever word with a substantive noun makes full sense, or a sentence, is a verb; and that which does not make full sense with it is not a verb. 2. Whatever word, with he, or it shall, before it, makes sense, is a verb; otherwise not.

I. In most verbs there are two forms or voices; the active ending in o, and the passive in or. The former expresses what is done by the nominative or person before it; the latter what is suffered by or done to the nominative or person before it; as, amo, I love; amor, I am loved.

II. The moods are divided into finite and infinite. The first three, viz. The indicative, subjunctive, and imperative, are called finite, because they have certain fixed terminations answering to certain persons both singular and plural. The last is called infinite or infinite, because it is not confined to one number or person more than another.

1. The indicative mood affirms or denies positively; as, amo, I love; non amo, I do not love; or else asks a question; as, an amas? dost thou love? annon amas? dost thou not love?

2. The subjunctive mood generally depends upon another verb in the same sentence, either going before or coming after; as, Si me ametis, precepta mea servate, If you love me, keep my commandments.

[This mood is commonly branched out into three moods, viz. the Optative, the Subjunctive, more strictly taken, and the Potential. 1. It is called OPTATIVE, when a word importing a wish, as, utinam, would to God, O si, O if, goes before it. 2. It is named SUBJUNCTIVE, when it is subjoined to some other conjunction or adverb, or to interrogatives becoming indefinites (See Chap. IX.) 3. It is called POTENTIAL when with the simple affirmation of the verb is also signified some modification or affection of it, such as, a power, possibility, liberty, duty, will, &c. The signs whereof, in our language, are may, can, might, could, would, should, and had (for would have or should have; as, They had repented, for would have). But because the terminations of these moods are the same, we have comprehended them all under one, viz. the SUBJUNCTIVE, to which with small difficulty they may be reduced. Otherwise, if we will constitute as many moods as there are various modifications, wherewith a verb or affirmation can be affected, we must multiply them to a far greater number, and so we shall have a promissive, hortative, precativè, concessive, mandative, interrogative mood; nay, a volitive and debitivè, which is commonly included in the potential. As for the optative, it is plain that the wish is not in the verb itself, (which signifies only the matter of it, or is wished) but in the verb opto, which is understood, with ut, uti, or utinam, which really signifies no more but that. And it is very probable that in like manner some verb or other word, may also be understood to what is called the potential mood, such as, ita est, res ita est, feri potest ut, &c. as Vossius, Sanctius, Perizonius, and others do contend; though, Mr. Johnson is of another opinion.]

3. The imperative mood commands, exhorts, or intreats; as, ama, love thou.

4. The infinitive mood expresses the signification of the verb in general, and is Englished by to; as, amare, to love.

III. The tenses are either simple or compound. The simple tenses are the present, the preter-perfect, and the future.

- | | | |
|------------------------------|----------------------|------------|
| 1. The present | } Speaks of time now | { present. |
| 2. The preter-perfect | | { past. |
| 3. The future | | { to come. |

The compound tenses are the preter-imperfect, and the preter-pluperfect.

4. The preter-imperfect refers to some past time, and imports, that the thing was present and unfinished then; as, amabam, I did love (viz. then).

5. The preter-pluperfect refers to some past time, and imports, that the thing was past at, or before that time; as, scripseram epistolam, I had written a letter, (i. e. before that time).

There is also a compound future tense, called the future perfect, or exact, which refers to some time yet to come, and imports that a thing as yet future shall be past and finished at; or before that time; as, cum cœnavero, tu leges, when I shall have supped, (i. e. after supper) you shall read. This future is only in the subjunctive mood, and the sign of it is shall have; as the other future, called the future imperfect, is only in the indicative. Which, when joined with another future, imports that two things yet future shall be contemporary, or exist at one time; as, cum cœnabo, tu leges, when I shall sup, (i. e. in time of supper) you shall read.

[And not only the tenses, but even the Moods themselves may be divided into Simple and Compound. I call the indicative a simple mood, because it simply affirms something of its person or nominative. But the other three moods I call compound, because they have some other ideas or modifications of our thoughts superadded to the simple signification of the verb; such as, a command, a desire, prohibition, possibility, liberty, will, duty, wish, concession, supposition, condition, purpose, &c. These modifications are either really included in the verb; as, a command &c. in the imperative, and, according to Johnson, power, will, duty, &c. in the mood called potential; or closely interwoven with it by the help of a conjunction, adverb, or other verb expressed or understood; and because these also generally denote time, they very frequently make all the tenses of these moods to become compound tenses. For, with respect to their execution, they are generally future; but with respect to their modal signification, they may fall under any of the other distinctions of time as well as the future. Thus, for instance, lege, read thou, with respect to its execution, is future, but with respect to the command, it is present. Again, in legam, I may or can read, the action (if done at all) must be future, but the liberty or possibility is present; and so of others.—Now, as it seems evident that from these modifications of the verb, more than from the bare execution of it, the tenses of these moods have at first been distinguished; so I am of opinion, that had grammarians taken their measures accordingly, they had not rendered this matter so intricate as they have done. For some of them, as Sanctius, &c. determining the times of these moods by the execution only, have made the whole imperative and subjunctive of the future time, and the infinitive and participles of all times, or rather of no time; others, viz. Vossius, Linacer, Alvarus, Verepæus, &c. though they will not go so far as Sanctius, yet upon the same grounds, make utinam legam the future of the optative; utinam legerem the present of it. By the same rule, they make a future of the potential in rim; as, citius crediderim, I should, or shall sooner believe; and another of the subjunctive in issem; as, juravit se illum statim interfectorum, nisi jusjurandum sibi dedisset, he swore he would presently kill him, if he would not swear to him. Cic. But with all imaginable deference to these great men, I humbly think that these tenses may be more easily accounted for, if we consider them as compound, i. e. respecting one time as to their execution, and another as to their various modifications, superadded to or involved in their signification. To instance in the two last examples, (because they seem to have the greatest difficulty) citius crediderim seems to import these two things, 1st. That I have and continue to have a reason why I should not believe it; which reason is of the imperfect or past time. And 2dly. That I shall sooner have believed it, than another thing, with respect to which it shall be past. For there are a great many examples where the preterite in rim hath the same signification with the future-perfect in ro; as, si te inde exemerim. Terent. for exemero. See Voss. lib. v. cap. 15. and Aul. Gell. lib. xviii. cap. 2. As to the other example, the composition of two times is yet more evident; for though jusjurandum dedisset be posterior, and consequently future with respect to juravit, yet it is prior, not only to the time of the relation, but to interfecturum, to prevent which it behoved it necessarily to be past; and so of others. The same rule, in my opinion, will likewise hold in the infinitive, and participles, which, of themselves, have always one fixed time; and when they seem to be of another time, that is not in them, but in the verb that goes before them or comes after them. Thus, for instance, scribere is always present, or co-existent with the verb before it; and scripsisse is always prior to the same verb in all its tenses; as, dicat, dixit, or dicet; jurat, juravit, or jurabit me scribere and me scripsisse. So also the participles have a fixed time, past, present, or future; and when any part of the verb sum is joined with them, they retain their own times, and have these of that verb superadded to them. But because there are innumerable occasions of speaking, wherein the nice distinctions of times are not necessary, therefore it frequently happens that they are promiscuously used; as I could evince by a great many examples, not only in the passive, but active voice, both in the Latin and other languages, if there were place for it. Which yet, in my judgment, does not hinder, but that every part of a verb hath formally, and of its own nature, a certain time, simple, or compound, to which it is fixed and determined.]

IV. There are two numbers, the singular and the plural, answering to the same numbers of a noun or pronoun.

V. There are three persons in each number; the first speaks of itself, the second is spoken to, and the third is spoken of.—The first hath only ego and nos, the second only tu and vos, and the third any substantive noun, singular and plural, put before the respective terminations of the verb, answering to them through all voices, moods, and tenses.

[A verb hath the same respect to its nominative that an adjective hath to its substantive; and therefore, as an adjective hath not properly either genders or numbers, but certain terminations fitted for those of its substantive, so a verb hath properly neither persons nor numbers, but certain terminations answering to the persons and numbers of its nominative.]

NOTE 1. That ego and tu are seldom expressed, because the terminations of the verb immediately discover them, without any hazard of a mistake.

NOTE 2. That if a substantive noun be joined with ego or tu, the verb is of the person of these pronouns, not of the noun.

NOTE 3. That in the continuation of a discourse, the third person is also frequently understood, because easily known by what went before; and these pronouns, ille, ipse, iste, hic, is, idem, quis and qui, do often supply the place of it.

De Conjugationibus.

M. QUOT sunt conjugationes ?

D. Quatuor ; prima, secunda, tertia, et quarta.

M. Quæ sunt notæ harum conjugationum ?

Of Conjugations.

M. HOW many conjugations are there ?

S. Four ; first, second, third, and fourth.

M. What are the marks of these conjugations ?

Disc.			Schol.
Prima	} habet	A longum	First	} hath	A long
Secunda		E longum	Second		E long
Tertia		E breve	Third		E short
Quarta		I longum	Fourth		I long ante re In- finitivi.			before of the Infinit.

The common characteristic or mark by which these conjugations are distinguished from one another, is one of these three vowels, a, e, i, before the re of the infinitive active, though they also may be known by the same vowels in several other parts of them ; for A long is most frequent in the first, E long in the second, E or I short in the third, and I long in the fourth ; only E before bam, bas, bat, &c. and before mus, and tis, and mur, and mini, is always long in whatever congregation it is found.

But it is to be observed, that the preterites and supines, and all the parts formed from them (because of the great irregularity of their middle syllables, and constant agreement in their last vowel, and in their terminations arising from it, in all conjugations) cannot properly be said to be of any one conjugation more than another ; for there is nothing for example in fricui, docui, elicui, amicui, or in frictum, doctum, elicum, amictum, or in the parts that come from them, whereby to distinguish their congregations.

NOTE. That in the examples of the second, third, and fourth conjugations, we have omitted such parts of the passive voice as are supplied by the participle perfect with the verb sum, viz. the perfect and pluperfect of the indicative, and the perfect, pluperfect, and future, of the subjunctive, as being the same in all conjugations with the example of the first, the change of the participle only excepted: But it is carefully to be observed, that the participle being an adjective, must agree in gender, number, and case, with its substantive, or (which is the same thing) with the person before it.

I. REMARKS shewing when a LATIN VERB is to be rendered otherwise in ENGLISH than in the foregoing examples.

1. WHEN the continuation of a thing is signified, the English verb may be varied in all its tenses by the participle in ing with the verb am; as,

Pr. I am reading	} for {	I read.
Im. I was reading		I did read.
Pe. I have been reading		I have read.
Pl. I had been reading		I had read.
Fu. I shall be reading		I shall read.

E

So, also in the passive voice, the house is building, domus edificatur ; the lesson was prescribing, lectio præscribebatur. Sometimes a is set before the participle ; as, while the house is a-building ; it is a-doing ; he is a-dying.

2. When a question is asked, the nominative case or person is set after the verb, or the sign of the verb ; as, love I ? do I love ? can I love ? should he be loved ?

3. We have made thou the second person singular, to distinguish it from the plural : But it is customary with us, (as also with the French and others) though we speak but to one particular person, to use the plural you, and never thou, but when we address ourselves to Almighty God, or otherwise when we signify familiarity, disdain, or contempt.

4. The perfect of the indicative is often Englished as the imperfect ; as, Nunquam amavi hunc hominem, I never loved (or did love) this man.—See a train of examples in Ovid, Metamorph. lib. I. from v. 21 to 39.

5. The perfect tense is frequently Englished by had after antequam, postquam, ubi or ut for postquam ; as, postquam superavimus isthmum, after we had (were) passed over the isthmus. Ov. Hæc ubi dicta dedit, when he had spoken these words. Liv. Ut me salutavit, statim Romam profectus est, after he had saluted me, &c. Cic.

6. We have chosen, may, can, might, could, &c. for the English of the subjunctive mood, because these are the most frequent signs of it, and distinguish it best from other moods ; but very often it is the same with the indicative, save only that it hath some conjunction or indefinite word before it ; such as, if, seeing, lest, that, although, I wish, &c. as, si amem, if I love ; ne amem, lest I love ; causa est cur amem, it is the cause why I love. Ov. And frequently it hath both ; as, oro ut ames, I intreat that you may love. Ov.

7. The present of the subjunctive after quasi, tantum, and the like, is sometimes Englished as the imperfect ; as, quasi intelligant qualis sit, as if they understood what kind of person he is. Cic.

8. When a question is asked, the present of the subjunctive is frequently Englished by shall or should ; as, eloquar an sileam ? shall I speak or be silent ? Virg. Singula quid referam ? why should I mention every thing ? Ov. Likewise after non est quod ? Non est (supply causa) quod eas, there is no reason why you should go, or you need not go. Sometimes it is Englished by would ; as, in facinus jurasse putes, you would think they had sworn to (commit) wickedness. Ov.

9. We have Englished the perfect of the subjunctive in rim by may have ; as, ne frustra tales viri venerint, that such men as these may not have come in vain. Cic. Forsitan audieris, you may perhaps have heard of it; to distinguish it from the present and pluperfect, by the signs of which it is also most frequently Englished; as, ut sic dixerim, that I may so speak. Ubi ego audiverim? where should I have heard it? Unus homo tantas strages ediderit? could one man make so great a slaughter? Virg. Fortasse errārim, perhaps I might be in an error. Plin. Oratores quos viderim peritissimi, the ablest orators I have seen (or could see). Quintil.

10. This perfect in rim sometimes inclines very much to a future signification, and then it is Englished by should, would, could, can, will, shall; as, citius crediderim, I should sooner believe. Juv. Libenter audierim, I would gladly hear. Cic. Ciceronem cuicunque eorum, facile opposuerim, I could easily match Cicero with any of them. Quintil. Non facile dixerim, I cannot well tell. Cic. Nec tamen excluderim alios, and yet I will not exclude others. Plin. Si paululum modo quid te fugerit, ego perierim, if you but trip in the least, I shall be undone. Ter. But all those ways of speaking, though indeed they respect the future as to the execution, yet they seem also to look a little beyond it to a time when their futurity shall be past; and so come near in signification to the future in ro.

11. The perfect of the subjunctive after quasi tquam, and the like, may sometimes be Englished by had; as, quasi affuerim, as if I had been present. Plaut. Perinde ac si jam vicerint, as if they had already overcome. Cic.

12. The pluperfect in issem is sometimes Englished by should; as, imperaret quod vellet, quodcunque imperavisset, se esse facturum, he might command what he pleased, whatever he commanded (should command), they would do. Cic. Fœdus ictum est, his legibus, ut cujus populi civēs eo certamine viciissent, is alteri imperaret, an agreement was made on these terms, that that people, whose countrymen should be victorious in that combat, should have the sovereignty over the other. Liv. And this happens when a thing is signified as future at a certain past time referred to; and commonly takes place, when what was formerly said directly is afterwards recited indirectly; as, ne dubita, dabitur quodcunque optāris, doubt not, whatsoever thou shalt choose, shall be given thee. Ov. Sol Phaethonti facturum se esse dixit, quicquid optāisset, the Sun told Phaethon that he would do whatsoever he should choose. Cic. Where it is worth noticing, that, what was the future of the subjunctive in the direct speech, becomes the pluperfect in the indirect recital of it. See Turner's Exercises, p. 21, &c. But as we have said, p. 30, the pluperfect, notwithstanding its coming in the place of a future, still retains its own proper compound time, that is, it was prior to a thing now past at the time of the recital by Cicero, though it was future when first spoken by the Sun. And therefore there is no reason for making this termination issem a future tense, as Mr. Turner does.

13. Though the proper English of the future in ro be shall have, yet generally the have or the shall, and frequently both, are omitted; as, qui Antonium oppresserit, is bellum confecerit, he who shall cut off Anthony shall put an end to the war. Cic. Haud desinam donec perfecero hoc, I will not give over till I have effected this. Ter. Si negaverit, If he denies it. Cic. Sometimes it is Englished by will; as, Dixerit fortasse aliquis, somebody will perhaps say. Cic. Aut consolando, aut consilio, aut re, juvero, I will assist you either by comforting you, or with council or with money. Cic. But though we thus render the future in ro in our language, and though (which is more material) very frequently it and the future of the indicative are used promiscuously, yet I cannot be persuaded that in any instance the formal significations of these are the same, as Mr. Johnson contends, p. 339, but still think with the great Vossius, that the future in ro is always a future perfect, that is, that there is a time insinuated when a thing yet future shall be finished or past; and that even when a future of the indicative is joined with it, which in order of time should be done before it; as, pergratum mihi feceris, si disputabis, you shall have done (shall do) me a great favour, if you shall dispute. Cic. For what hinders that we may not faintly hint at the finishing of an action yet future, without formally considering the finishing of another action on which it depends; and on the contrary? But if the promiscuous usage of tenses, one for another, be sufficient to make them formally the same, then we shall confound all tenses, and overthrow the very arguments Mr. Johnson makes use of against Sanctius, with respect to the tenses of the infinitive.

14. The to of the infinitive is generally omitted after may, can, might, would, could, (which are sometimes verbs themselves, and not the bare signs of them); also after must, bid, dare, let, help, and make.

15. But what is most to be regarded in the infinitive is, that when it hath an accusative before it, it is commonly Englished as the indicative mood, the participle that being sometimes put before it, but oftener understood. And it is carefully to be remarked, that the same tenses of the infinitive are differently Englished, according as the verb varies in its tenses; as will appear in the following scheme:

Dicit me scribere,	He says (that) I write.
Dixit me scribere,	He said (that) I was writing.
Dicet me scribere,	He shall say (that) I am writing.
Dicit me scripsisse,	He says (that) I wrote or did write.
Dixit me scripsisse,	He said (that) I had written.
Dicet me scripsisse,	He shall say (that) I have written, or did write.
Dicit me scripturum (esse),	He says (that) I will write.
Dixit me scripturum (esse),	He said (that) I would write.
Dicet me scripturum (esse),	He shall say (that) I will write.
Dicit me scripturum (fuisse),	He says (that) I would have written.
Dixit me scripturum (fuisse),	He said (that) I would have written.
Dicet me scripturum (fuisse),	He shall say (that) I would have written.

It will be of great use to accustom the learner to render the infinitive after this manner, both in English and Latin, especially after he has been taught something of construction; and then to cause him to vary the accusative me, into te, se, illum, hominem, fœminam, &c. and these again into the plural, nos, vos, se, illos, homines, fœminas, &c. But he must be careful to make the participles agree with them in gender, number, and case.

NOTE 1. That when the preceding verb is of the present or future tense, the future of the infinitive with esse, it is rendered by shall or will; and when it is of the perfect tense, the future of the infinitive is rendered by would, as in the examples above; and sometimes by should; as, dixit te sciturum esse, he said that you should know.

NOTE 2. That when the preceding verb is of the imperfect or pluperfect tenses, the English of the infinitive is the same as when it is of the perfect.

16. The perfect of the indicative and subjunctive passive, made up with sum or sim, are Englished by am, art, is, are, instead of have been, when the thing is signified to be just now past; as, vulneratus sum, I am wounded; opus finitum est, the work is finished; cum tempora mutata sint, since the times are changed.

17. When it is made up by fui, it is frequently Englished by was, wast, were, wert; as, Roma fuit capta, Rome was taken; as is also what is called the pluperfect, with eram and essem; as, labor finitus erat, the labour was finished; si labor finitus esset, if the labour were finished.

II. REMARKS ON THE LATIN CONJUGATIONS.

1. A GREAT part of the passive voice, and some of the active is made up of two of its own participles, and the auxiliary verb sum, (of which you have the full conjugation, p. 62) after this manner :

The Participle Perfect with	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{Sum or fui} \\ \textit{eram or fueram} \\ \textit{sim or fuerim} \\ \textit{essem or fuisset} \\ \textit{fuero} \\ \textit{esse or fuisse} \end{array} \right\}$	makes the	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Perf.} \\ \text{Plu.} \\ \text{Perf.} \\ \text{Plu.} \\ \text{Fut.} \\ \text{Perf.} \end{array} \right\}$	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Indicat.} \\ \\ \text{Subjunct.} \\ \text{Infinit.} \end{array} \right\}$	} Passive.
The Participle Fut. Act. with	esse or fuisse	}	Fut.	Infinit.	Active.

2. Having, p. 40, laid it down as a probable opinion, that every part of a verb, with all its participles, have a certain fixed time simple or compound, which they formally and of their own nature signify, it will perhaps be here expected that I should account for that great variety that is found in the passive voice. To put this matter in the clearest light I am able, I must premise another division of the tenses, viz. into passing and past; or into such as import the continuance of an action or thing, without regard to the ending or finishing of it; and such as import that the thing is finished (or to be finished) and done. Of the first sort are the present, imperfect, and future-imperfect; of the second sort are the present, imperfect, and future-perfect. See page 29. From this division of the tenses, together with what we have formerly said, we are furnished with an easy method of distinguishing all the parts of the passive. Thus, for instance, let the subject of discourse be the building of a house.

1. When I say domus ædificatur, I mean that it is just now a-building, but not finished. 2. When ædificabatur, that it was then, or at a certain past time, a-building, but not then finished. 3. Ædificabitur, that some time hence it shall be a-building, without any formal regard to the finishing of it. But when I make use of the participle-perfect, I always signify a thing completed and ended; but with these subdistinctions :—1. Ædificata est; I mean simply, that it is finished, without any regard to the time when. 2. Ædificata fuit; it is finished, and some time since has intervened. 3. Ædificata erat; it was finished at a certain past time referred to, with which it was contemporary. 4. Ædi- ficata fuerat ; it was finished before a certain past time referred to, to which it was prior. 5. Ædificata erit ; it shall be finished sometime hereafter, either without regard to a particular time when, or with respect to a certain time yet future, with which its finishing shall be contemporary. 6. And lastly, ædificata fuerit ; it shall be finished and past before another thing yet future, to which its finishing shall be prior. And thus we have nine different times, or complications of times, without confounding them with one another. But then, how comes it to pass that these are so frequently used promiscuously ? I answer, that this proceeds from one or more of these four reasons : 1. Because it very frequently happens in discourse that we have no occasion particularly to consider these various relations and complications of times ; and it is the same thing to our purpose whether the thing is or was done, or a-doing ; or whether it was done just now, or some time ago ; or whether another thing was (or shall be) contemporary with, or prior to it ; and the matter being thus, we reckon ourselves at liberty to take several parts of the verb at random, as being secured not only of being understood, but also that, in these circumstances, whatever we pitch on, even when examined by the rules above, shall be found literally true. 2. It is usual with us to state ourselves as present with, and as it were, eye-witnesses of the things we relate, though really they were transacted long before ; whence it is that we frequently use the present instead of some time past. 3. It is to be remarked, that there are some verbs, the action whereof is in some sense finished when begun ; in which case it will sometimes be all one whether we use the passing or past tenses. And 4. The present tense (which strictly speaking, is gone before we pronounce it) is generally taken in a larger acceptation, and sometimes used for the future, when we signify that the execution is very near, or (according to Perizonius) when, together with the action, we take in also the preparation to it. The brevity we are confined to, will not allow us to illustrate these things with examples. But by them I think we may account for the promiscuous usage of the tenses, in both voices ; and what cannot be reduced to these, seems to be an abuse of the language, and being very rarely to be met with, and perhaps only among the poets, ought not to be made a common standard. I shall only add for a proof, that these tenses are not always to be used indifferently, that when we signify a thing to be just now finished, we cannot use fui or fuerim or fuisse, but sum, sim, and esse.

3. Whether the learner should be obliged to get by heart those parts of the passive that are supplied by sum, or if should be referred to construction (to which they seem more naturally to belong) I refer to the discretion of the master.

4. Besides those parts which are thus made up, all the other parts may be resolved into its own participles and the verb sum, though their significations are not precisely the same ; as,

Amo	amabam	amavi	amaveram	amabo.
Sum amans	eram amans	fui amans	fueraam amans	ero amans or sum amaturus.
Amor	amabar	amabor	amer	amarer.
Sum amatus	eram amatus	ero amatus	amatus sim	amatus essem.

5. The participle in rus with the verb sum is frequently used instead of the future of the indicative, especially if purpose or intention is signified ; as, profecturus sum or proficiscar, I will go, or I am to go ; and with sim and essem, instead of the future-imperfect, or pluperfect of the subjunctive ; as, non dubito quin sit facturus, I doubt not but he will do it. Non dubitavi quin esset facturus, I doubted not but he would do it ; and not quin fecerit, or faceret, or fecisset.

6. We have not joined ero with fuero for the future of the subjunctive, because we thought it incongruous to couple words of different moods ; though it must be owned that it comes nearer in signification to the future of the subjunctive, than that of the indicative ; as Ov. Qui cum victus erit, is much the same as victus fuerit ; and so those ancient lawyers, Scævola, Brutus, and Manilius, understand the words of the Attinian law, quod subreptum erit, ejus rei æterna auctoritas esto. But that a preterite time is there insinuated, is owing, not to the word erit, but to the preterite participle with which it is joined, as they learnedly argue. See Aulus Gellius, lib. xvii. cap. 7.

7. We have omitted the termination minor in the second person plural of the imperative, not thinking it fit to make that an ordinary standard, (as the common Rudiments do) which is to be found only once or twice in Plautus, Epid. 5. 2. Facto opere arbitraminor. And Pseud. 2. 2. Pariter progrediminor.

8. For the same reason we have excluded the ancient termination asso, in the future-subjunctive of the first conjugation ; as, excantasso, in the laws of the twelve tables, levasso in Ennius ; abjurasso, invitasso, cænasso, irritasso, servasso, &c. in Plautus, for excantavero, levavero, &c. to which may be added esso of the second conjugation ; as, licessit, Plaut. Prohibessit, Cic. for licuerit, prohibuerit. To these some add jusso for jussero, in that of Virg. Æn. 11. v. 467.

Cætera, quæ jusso, mecum manus inferat arma,

But though I was once of that opinion, yet now I incline with Vossius to think that it is only a syncope; but not for the reason brought for it by him, namely, that the other examples in ss change r into ss, as levaro, levasso; but because I believe these old futures were formed not from the common futures in ero, as he supposes, but from the second person singular of the present of the indic. by adding so; as, levas, levasso; prohibes, prohibesso: According to which rule jubeo must have formed jubesso not jusso.

9. Upon the same account we have omitted the future of the infinitive in assere formed from asso; as, impetrassere, reconciliassere, expugnassere, in Plautus; for impetraturum esse, &c.

10. Though we frequently meet with amaturus and amatus esse vel fuisse, &c. in the nominative; as, dicitur amaturus esse, yet we have contented ourselves with the accusative amaturum and amatum, as most common, reserving the distinction between these to construction.* [See page 85.]

11. The future of the infinitive passive is made up of the first supine and iri the infinitive passive of eo: And therefore it is not varied in numbers and genders, as the parts made up of the participle with sum.

12. But the supine with ire is not the future of the infinitive active as some teach; for such phrases as these, amatum ire, doctum ire, are rather of the present than future tense.

13. The participle in dus with esse and fuisse, is not properly the future of the infinitive passive, as is commonly believed: For it does not so much import futurity, as necessity, duty, or merit. For there is a great difference between these two sentences, dicit literas a se scriptum iri, and dicit literas a se scribendas esse; the first signifying, that a letter will be written by him; or that he will write a letter; and the second, that a letter must be written by him, or he is obliged to write a letter. For though Sanctius, and Messieurs de Port Royal contend that this participle is sometimes used for simple futurity, yet I think Perizonius and Johnson have clearly evinced the contrary.

14. It is to be noted, that the imperative mood wants the first person both singular and plural, because no man can or needs command or exhort himself: Or, if he does, he must jostle himself out of the first into the second person, as in that of Catullus, speaking to himself, at tu, Catulle, destinatus obdura, but do you, Catullus, continue obstinate.

* The nominative has been adopted in this edition.

15. The present of the subjunctive is most frequently used instead of the imperative, especially in forbidding, after ne, nemo, nullus, &c. as, valcas, farewell; for vale. Ne facias, do it not, rather than ne fac. And sometimes the future of the subjunctive; as, tu videris, see you to it. Ne dixeris, Dont say that. And sometimes also the future of the indicative; as, non occides, thou shalt not kill; for ne occide, or occidito. Sed valebis, meaque negotia videbis. Cic. i. e. sed vale meaque negotia vide. Referes ergo hæc, et nuncius ibis Pelidæ genitori. Virg. i. e. refer, et ito. But it is to be remarked that none of these are proper imperatives; for to the first is understood, oro, rogo, hæto, or the like with ut; as also to the second, with ut understood, or ne expressed; and the third is only a command by consequence, because of the authority, influence, or power of the speaker. For which reason, and to keep the moods from interfering with one another, we have excluded these from the imperative: Though the common rudiments take in the first, and Alvarus the second and third. However, it is observable that we shew most civility and respect when we use the subjunctive, and most authority by the future of the indicative, and ito of the imperative; which last is the ordinary strain in which laws are delivered. But this rule is not always followed.

16. The ris of the second person passive is more usual than re; and erunt of the perfect of the indicative active than ere; especially in prose, in which, if a vowel follow, they are very rarely to be met with.

III. REMARKS UPON ENGLISH VERBS.

1. AN English verb hath only two tenses, distinguished by different terminations, and both in the active voice, viz. the present and preterite. The present is the verb itself, and the preterite is commonly made by adding ed to it, or d when it ends in e; as, fill, filled; love, loved.

2. All the other parts of the active, and the whole passive is made up of the auxiliary verbs, do, have, shall, will, may, can, and am; as in page 41, and in the example, to love, page 42, &c.

3. An English verb hath different terminations for the persons of the singular number. The present hath three or four. The first person is the verb itself; the second ends in est or st; the third in eth, es, or s. The preterite hath only two ; the first commonly ending in ed, and the second in edst or dst : But the third person singular of the preterite, and all the persons plural, both of it and the present, cannot otherwise be distinguished than by the nominatives before them ; which therefore can never be omitted as in the Latin.

4. We have two participles, the present endings always in ing, and the preterite ending regularly in ed, but very frequently in en, and t.

5. There are a great many irregular English verbs ; but it is to be noted, 1. That that irregularity relates only to the termination of the preterite tense, and the passive participle. 2. That it reaches only such words as are native and originally English. 3. That it is to be found only in words of one syllable, or derived from words of one syllable. 4. That where the preterite is regular, the passive participle is the same with it. Except hewed, mowed, showed, snowed, sowed ; which have hewn, mown, shown, snown, sown.

6. These irregularities may be reduced to the following heads :

(1.) The d is changed into t after c, ch, sh, f, k, p, x ; and after s and th when pronounced hard ; and sometimes after l, m, n, r, when a short vowel goes before it ; as plac't, snatch't, fish't, walk't, dwelt, smelt. But when a long vowel goes before t, it is either shortened, or changed into a short one ; as, kept, slept, wept, crept, swept, leapt, from keep, sleep, weep, creep, sweep, leap ; as also sometimes before l, m, n, r, and v, turned into f ; as, feel, felt ; dream, dreamt ; mean, meant ; leave, left.

(2.) When the present ends in d or t, the preterite is sometimes the same with it ; as, read, cast, hurt, burst, hit, quit ; and when two vowels precede, the last is left out ; as, spread, spred ; lead, led ; feed, fed ; bleed, bled ; meet, met. When a consonant comes before d, it is sometimes changed into t ; as, bend, bent ; lend, lent ; send, sent ; rend, rent ; gird, girt.

(3.) Most of the other irregular verbs may be comprehended under the following lists :

I. Such as have their preterite and participle passive the same.

Awake	awoke	Find	found	Pay	paid	Sting	stung
Abide	abode	Flee	fled	Say	said	Swing	swung
Beseech	besought	Fling	flung	Seek	sought	Swim	swum
Bind	bound	Grind	ground	Sell	sold	Teach	taught
Bring	brought	Gild	gilt	Sit	sat	Tell	told
Buy	bought	Hang	hung	Shine	shone	Think	thought
Catch	caught	Hear	heard	Spin	spun	Work	wrought
Dig	dug	Lay	laid	Spring	sprung	Win	won
Drink	drunk	Lose	lost	Stand	stood	Wind	wound
Fight	fought	Make	made	Stick	stuck	Wring	wrung.

II. Such as have the preterite and participle passive different.

Bear	bore	born	Freeze	froze	frozen	Shrink	shrank	shrunk
Begin	began	begun	Get	got	gotten	Sink	sank	sunk
Bid	bade	bidden	Give	gave	given	Slay	slew	slain
Beat	beat	beaten	Go	went	gone	Slide	slid	slidden
Bite	bit	bitten	Grow	grew	grown	Smite	smote	smitten
Blow	blew	blown	Hew	hewed	hewn	Strike	struck	stricken
Chide	chid	chidden	Hide	hid	hidden	Speak	spoke	spoken
Choose	chose	chosen	Hold	held	holden	Spit	spat	spitten
Cleave	clove	cleft	Know	knew	known	Strive	strove	striven
Come	came	come	Ly	lay	lain	Swear	swore	sworn
Crow	crew	crowed	Ride	rode	ridden	Swell	swelled	swollen
Dare	durst	dared	Ring	rang	rung	Take	took	taken
Do	did	done	Rise	rose	risen	Tear	tore	torn
Draw	drew	drawn	Run	ran	run	Thrive	throve	thriven
Drive	drove	driven	See	saw	seen	Throw	threw	thrown
Eat	ate	eaten	Seethe	sod	sodden	Tread	trode	trodden
Fall	fell	fallen	Shake	shook	shaken	Wear	wore	worn
Fly	flew	flown	Shear	shore	shorn	Weave	wove	woven
Forsake	forsook	forsaken	Shoot	shot	shotten	Write	wrote	written.

These preterites, bare, share, sware, tare, ware, clave, gat, begat, forgat, brake, spake, slang, sprang, swang, wan, stank, sank, are seldom used. But beseech'd, catch'd, work'd, digg'd, gild-ed, girded, hang'd, swam, writ, for besought, caught, &c. are frequently to be met with.

NOTE 1. That when the verb ends in one consonant, that consonant is for the most part doubled before ing, ed, est, edst, and eth; as, worship, worshipping, worshipped, worshippest, worshippedst, worshippeth; As also before en; as, bid, bidden.

NOTE 2. That the apostrophus, (which was become too common in English verbs; as, lov'd, lov'st, for loved, lovest,) begins now to be disused by the most polite writers in prose; but poets still use it, though not so much as formerly.

NOTE 3. That the preterite active and the participle passive (when one word serves for both) are thus distinguished: When it hath nothing before it but the nominative alone, or have or had with it, it is the preterite active; but when it hath any part of the helping verb am, it is the participle passive.

Except come, gone, run, set, risen, fallen, grown, withered, and such like intransitive verbs, which have frequently the passive signs, am, art, &c. instead of have in the perfect tense; and was, wast, &c. instead of had, in the pluperfect; as, veni, I am come; veneram, I was come.

NOTE 4. That though the Latin perfect frequently answers both to have and did, (or the preterite termination ed, &c.) yet they seem to be thus distinguished; did or ed, &c. respects a certain past time, in which the thing was finished, or a-finishing; as, I wrote, or did write yesterday; have either speaks of a thing as but just now past, or at least does not refer to any particular time that it happened at; as, I have written my letter, i. e. just now; I have read of Julius Cæsar, i. e. some time or other. The first of these is called the preterperfect definite, and the other the preterperfect indefinite.

NOTE 5. That shall and will, by Mr. Brightland, are thus distinguished:

In the first person simply shall foretells;

In will a threat, or else a promise dwells.

Shall in the second and the third does threat;

Will simply then foretells the future feat.

By Mr. Turner thus :

Will imports the will or purpose of the person it is joined with; shall implies the will of another, who promises or threatens to do the thing, or cause it to be done, permits it, or commands it, or the like.

De Formatione Verborum.

QUATUOR sunt terminationes verbi, a quibus reliquæ omnes formantur; viz. o præsentis, i præteriti, um supini, et re infinitivi, hoc modo :

1. Ab o formantur am et em.

2. Ab i formantur ram, rim, ro, sse, et ssem.

3. Ab um formantur u, us, et rus.

4. A re formantur reliquæ omnes; nempe, bam, bo, rem, a, e, i, ns, dus, dum, di, do.

Of the Formation of Verbs.

THERE are four terminations of a verb, from which all the rest are formed? namely o of the present, i of the preterite, um of the supine, and re of the infinitive, after this manner :

1. From o are formed am and em.

2. From i, ram, rim, ro, sse, and ssem.

3. U, us, and rus are formed from um.

4. All other sorts from re do come; as, bam, bo, rem, a, e, and i, ns, and dus, dum, do, and di.

In every complete verb there are commonly four principal parts, viz. the present of the indicative in o, the preterite or perfect in i, the first supine in um, and the present of the infin:

tive in re. The first (which is therefore called the theme or root of the verb) gives origin to the whole verb, either mediately or immediately. The preterite, the first supine, and the present of the infinitive, come from it immediately, and all the rest from them; except the future of the indicative in am, and the present of the subjunctive in em or am, which by this scheme are also formed immediately from the present in a.

It is to be noted, that the preterites and supines of the first conjugation end commonly in avi and atum, of the second in ui and itum, and of the fourth in ivi and itum. But the third conjugation cannot be reduced to any general rule, and there are a great many exceptions in the other three, which are therefore to be learned by daily practice, till the scholar is advanced to that part of grammar that treats particularly of them.

But the present of the infinitive, and all the other parts of the verb, are regularly formed after one fixed and uniform manner.

In the foregoing rules of formation, I have for the ease of the memory, put the terminations instead of the moods and tenses; but for the greater plainness they may be thus expressed :

I. From the present of the indicative are formed the future of the indicative of the third and fourth conjugations in am, and the present of the subjunctive of the first in em, and of the other three in am.

II. From the perfect of the indicative are formed the pluperfect of it, the perfect, pluperfect, and future of the subjunctive, and the perfect of the infinitive.

III. From the first supine are formed the last supine, the participle perfect, and the future active.

IV. From the present of the infinitive are formed the imperfect of the indicative, the future of the same when it ends in bo, (viz. in the first and second conjugations) the imperfect of the subjunctive, the imperative, the participles present and future passive, and the gerunds.

NOTE 1. That verbs in io of the third conjugation retain i before unt, unto, ebam, am, ens, endus, endum; but lose it in the present of the infinitive, and imperfect of the subjunctive.

NOTE 2. That the last person plural of the imperative may be formed by adding o to the same person of the present of the indicative; as, amant, amanto; docent, docento.

NOTE 3. That the passive voice is formed from the same tenses of the active, (except where sum is used) by adding r to a, or changing m into r.

NOTE 4. That the present of the infinitive passive of the third conjugation may be formed by taking s from the second person of the present of the indicative active; as, legis, legi; or, when the verb is deponent, by changing or, or ior, into i; as, proficiat, proficiat; morior, mori.

NOTE 5. That the present of the infinitive active, and the second person of the indicative and imperative passive in re, are always the same.

NOTE 6. That the second person plural of the present of the indicative, and of the imperative, are the same in the passive voice.

NOTE 7. That where any of the principal parts are wanting, those parts are commonly wanting that come from them. For which reason grammarians give supines to a great many verbs, which yet are not to be found in any author, because the participles formed from them are found: And they suppose, likewise, all deponent words of old to have had the active voice, and consequently supines, though now lost.

NOTE 8. That all verbs of the second conjugation end in eo, and all verbs of the fourth in io, except eo and queo. There are eight verbs in eo, of the first conjugation, viz. beo, creo, screeo, meo, calceo, laqueo, nauseo, nucleo. There are twenty-four in io of the first, viz. amplio, basio, brevisio, concilio, crucio, furio, glacio, hio, lanio, luxurio, macio, nuncio, pio, propitio, radio, repudio, satio, saucio, socio, somnio, spolio, suavio, or rather suavior, vario, vitio; with some others less common; as, decurio, succenturio, fascio, retalio, strio, tertio, &c. and twelve of the third, viz. cupio, facio, jacio, lacio, specio, fodio, fugio, cupio, rapio, sapio, pario, quatio, with their compounds.

It is not, in my opinion, necessary to trouble the learner with a particular account how the respective changes in the moods, tenses, numbers, and persons, are made; they being obvious from the examples above, in which I have distinguished them from the body, or essential part of the verb by a division or hyphen. And perhaps this alone, without any other particular rule, might be a sufficient direction. For to conjugate one verb by the example of another, we have no more to do, but instead of the essential part of the one (which is all that stands before e, eo, or io of the present of the indicative) to substitute the essential part of the other, and then to add to it, the additional syllables it receives in conjugation as before. Only we are to advert, 1. That in the preterites and supines, and the parts that come from them, we are to reckon all before i and um for the body of the verb, adding the usual syllables to it, as in the active voice of lego. 2. In verbs in io we are to retain or omit the i, as in note 1.

There is yet another way of the formation of verbs, differing only from the first method in this, that what parts, according to it, are formed from the infinitive, are by this formed from the first or second person of the present of the indicative. But though this may be the more natural way, yet the other is more easy and uniform.

Also fer is contracted of fere; which in like manner has happened to the imperatives of dico, duco, facio, they having dic, duc, fac, instead of dice, duce, face.

The compounds of fero, are conjugated the same way as the simple; as, affero, attuli, allatum; aufero, abstuli, ablatum; differo, distuli, dilatatum; confero, contuli, collatum; infero, intuli, illatum; offero, obtuli, oblatum; effero, extuli, elatum: So circumfero, perfero, transfero, defer, profero, antefero, præfero.

NOTE 1. That fito is the passive of facio, to make, (which is regular) instead of faior, which is not in use: Yet the compounds of facio, which change a into i are regular; as, afficio, affectus, affici; perficio, perfectus, perfici.

NOTE 2. That the compounds of facio, with verbs, nouns, or adverbs, retain the a, and have their imperative active, fac, and their passive form, (when used) fito; as, calefacio, lucrifacio, benefacio; calefac, calefito, &c. But those compounded with a preposition change the a into i, and have fice and ficior. There are some compounded of facio and a noun, where facio is changed into ficio of the first conjugation; as, magnifico, significo.

To the irregular verbs may be reduced edo, to eat; which in some of its parts falls in with the verb sum; thus,

Likewise its compounds, comedo, comes, comest, &c. and exedo, exes, exest, &c. But all these may likewise be regularly conjugated, edo, edis, edit, &c. Ederem, ederes, ederet, &c.

OF DEFECTIVE VERBS.

THOUGH some of the irregular verbs already mentioned want some of their parts, and upon that account may be called also defective verbs, yet by defective verbs here we chiefly un-

* Though fi is rejected by some grammarians of great note, yet we have given it a place here, not only because it is to be found in Plautus, but also in Horace, Lib. 2. Sat. 5. ver. 38. Pi cognitor ipse, according to the best manuscripts and editions.

derstand such as want considerable branches, or are used only in few tenses and persons. We shall set down those that most frequently occur.

I. Aio, I say; inquam, I say; forem, I should be; ausim, I dare; faxim, I will see to it, or I will do it; ave and salve, God save you, Hail, Good-morrow; cedo, tell, or give me; quæso, I pray.

	{	Avêto	{	avetôte	}		{	salvêre	}
	{	Salve	{	salvête	}		{	salvêre	}
	{	Salvêto	{	salvetôte	}
	{	Cedo	{	cedite	}

IND. Pr. Quæso quæsumus.

II. These three verbs, odi, memini, cœpi, have only the preterite tense, and what is formed from it, and therefore are by some called preteritive verbs.

Odi	oderam	oderim	odissem	odero	odisse.
Memini	memineram	meminerim	meminissem	meminero	meminisse.
Cœpi	cœperam	cœperim	cœpisse	cœpero	cœpisse.

But under these they comprehend also the signification of the other tenses; as, memini, I remember, or I have remembered; memineram, I remembered, or I had remembered, &c. So odi, I hate, or I have hated; cœpi, I begin, or I have begun. Though I am not fully satisfied as to this last, for I do not know any example where cœpi doth clearly signify the present tense.

Memini hath also the imperative memento, remember thou ; mementote, remember ye. Some add meminens, remembering, which is scarcely to be imitated.

To these some add novi, because it frequently hath the signification of the present, I know, as well as I have known ; though it comes from nosco, which is complete.

NOTE 1. That odientes is to be found in Petronius ; odiatur in Seneca ; cœpio in Plautus and Terence. See Voss. Analog. Lib. iii. cap. 9.

NOTE 2. That the participles cœptus, and osus, with its compounds perosus, exosus, are in use among the best authors ; but perodi and exodi are not.

III. Faris, to speak, wants the first person of the present indicative, and perhaps the whole present of the subjunctive, for we do not say for or fer, and rarely feris, fetur, &c. So likewise daris and deris, but not dor or der, to be given. The compounds of the first, as, effor, affor, are rare ; but the compounds of the other, as, addor, reddor, are common.

IV. Most of the other defective verbs are but single words, and rarely to be found but among poets ; as, infit, he begins ; defit, it is wanting. Some are compounded of a verb with the conjunction si ; as, sis for si vis, if thou wilt ; sultis, for si vultis, if ye will ; sodes, for si audeas, if thou darest.

OF IMPERSONAL VERBS.

THESE are also a kind of defective verbs, which for the most part are used only in the third person singular. They have the sign it before them in English ; as, pœnitet, it repents ; placet, it pleases ; and are thus conjugated :

	Pres.	Imper.	Per.	Plusq.	Fut.
IND.	Pœnitet	pœnitebat	pœnituit	pœnituerat	pœnitebit.
SUB.	Pœniteat	pœniteret	pœnituerit	pœnituisset	pœnituerit.
INF.	Pœnitere		pœnituisse.

Most verbs may be used impersonally in the passive voice, especially such as otherwise have no passive ; as,

	Pres.	Impr.	Perf.	Plusq.	Fut.
IND.	Pugnatur	pugnabatur	pugnatum	{ est fuit -atum	{ erat fuerat -atum
SUB.	Pugnetur	pugnaretur	pugnatum	{ sit fuerit -atum	{ esset fuerit -atum
INF.	Pagnari		pugnatum	{ esse fuisse	pugnatum iri.

NOTE 1. That impersonals are applied to any person or number, by putting that which stands before other verbs, after the impersonals in the cases which they govern ; as, *pœnit*et me, te, illum, I repeat, thou repentest, he repenteth, instead of ego pœniteo, &c. which is scarcely Latin. Placet mihi, tibi, illi, it pleases me, thee, him ; or, I please, thou pleasest, &c. Pugnatur a me, a te, ab illo, I fight, thou fightest, he fighteth, &c.

NOTE 2. That impersonals are not used in the imperative, but instead of it we take the subjunctive.

NOTE 3. That impersonal verbs are very often used personally, especially in the plural number ; as, accidit, contingit, evenit, pertinet, decet, dolet, licet, noceat, patet, placet, præstat, &c. For we say, tu mihi sola places ; nulli noceat ; multa homini accidunt, contingunt, eveniunt ; parvum parva decet, &c. But it is to be remarked, that they are generally impersonal, when an infinitive or subjunctive mood follows ; for though I can say, tu places mihi, yet I cannot say, si places audire, but si placet tibi audire. Again, we cannot say, ego contigit esse domi, but, me contigit esse domi, or, mihi contigit esse domi. Likewise, evenit illum mori, or ut ille moreretur, but not ille evenit mori.

[I shall not here enquire what is the word understood to impersonal verbs, whether it is a noun of the like signification ; as, pugna pugnatur, or the word res or negotium, or the infinitive mood. Though I incline to think that any one of these will not answer to them all, but that there are some to which the first, to others the second, and to others the third, may be most fitly understood, as the nature of the verb and good sense shall direct us. This we are sure of, that the word understood can never be a person properly so called, but a thing ; for which reason, and the want of two primary persons, viz. the first and second, they are called impersonal, though some are much offended with the name.]

CAP. IV.

De Participio.

TRIA sunt præcipue consideranda in participio, viz. tempus, significatio, et declinatio.

I. Tempora participiorum sunt tria, præsens, præteritum, et futurum.

Particip.	Pr.	Temp. desinunt in	ns.
	Pe.		tus, sus, xus.
	Fu.		rus, dus.

II. Significatio participiorum est vel activa vel passiva, vel

CHAP. IV.

Of Participle.

THERE are three things especially to be considered in a participle, viz. time, signification, and declension.

I. The tenses of participles are three, the present, preterite, and future.

Particip. of the	Pr.	Tens. end in	ns.
	Pe.		tus, sus, xus.
	Fu.		rus, dus.

II. The signification of participles is either active or pas-neutra, ad modum verborum a quibus descendunt.

Participia { in ns, et rus plerumque sunt activa.
in dus semper passiva.
in tus, sus, xus, plerumque sunt passiva, interdum vero activa, vel etiam communia.

III. Omnia participia sunt adjectiva : quæ desinunt in ns sunt tertiæ declinationis, reliqua autem omnia primæ et secundæ.

sive, or neuter, after the manner of the verbs from which they come.

Participles { in ns, and rus are generally active.
in dus always passive.
in tus, sus, xus, are generally passive, sometimes active, or also common.

III. All participles are adjectives : those which end in ns are of the third declension, but all the rest are of the first and second.

A participle is a kind of adjective formed from a verb, which in its signification always imports some time.

It is so called because it partakes of a noun and a verb, having genders and cases from the one, time and signification from the other, and number from both.

1. Active verbs [See chap. ix.] have two participles, one of the present time ending in ns ; as, amans, loving ; and another of the future ending in rus ; as, amaturus, about to love.

2. Passive verbs have likewise two participles, one of the preterite ending in tus, sus, or xus ; as, amatus, loved ; visus, seen ; flexus, bowed ; (to which some add one in uus, viz. mortuus, dead,) and another of the future ending in dus ; as, amandus, to be loved.

3. Neuter verbs have two participles, as the active ; as, sedens, sitting ; sessurus, about to sit.

4. Active intransitive verbs have frequently three participles ; as, carens, wanting ; cariturus, about to want ; carendus to be wanted ; dolens, grieving ; doliturus, about to grieve ; dolendus, to be grieved : And sometimes four ; as, vigilans, watching ; vigilaturus, about to watch ; vigilatus, watched ; vigilandus, to be watched.

5. Deponent and common verbs have generally four participles ; as, loquens, speaking ; locuturus, about to speak ; locutus, having spoken ; loquendus, to be spoken ; dignans, vouchsafing ; dignaturus, about to vouchsafe ; dignatus, having vouchsafed, or being vouchsafed ; dignandus, to be vouchsafed.

NOTE 1. That in some deponent verbs the participle perfect hath both an active and passive signification, though that of the verb itself is only active ; as, testatus, having testified, or being testified. So mentitus, meditatus, oblitus, &c.

NOTE 2. That it is essential to a participle, 1. That it come immediately from a verb. 2. That in its signification it also include time. Therefore, tunicatus, coated ; larvatus, masked ; and such like, are not participles, because they come from nouns, and not from verbs. And ignarus, ignorant ; elegans, neat ; circumspectus, circumspect ; tacitus, silent ; falsus, false ; profusus, prodigal, &c. are not participles, because they do not signify time.

There are a kind of adjective-nouns ending in undus, which approach very near to the nature of participles, such as, errabundus, ludibundus, populabundus. They are formed from the imperfect of the indicative, and the signification is much the same with the participle of the present time ; only they signify abundance (or a great deal) of the action, according to A. Gellius, Lib. 11. Cap. 15. or according to others, they signify the same with the participles of frequentative verbs, when these are not in use. See Gronovius on Gellius, as above cited.

APPENDIX OF GERUNDS AND SUPINES.

GERUNDS and supines (which because of their near relation to verbs, are by some not improperly called participial words) are a sort of substantive-nouns, expressing the action of the verb in general, or in the abstract. Gerunds are substantives of the second declension, and complete in all their cases, except the vocative. Supines are substantives of the fourth declension, having only two cases, the accusative in um, which makes the first supine, and the ablative in u, which makes the second.

[Vossius, Lib. 8. Cap. 54. thinks that the last supine may sometimes be a dative ; as, durum tactu, i. e. tactui ; for the datives of the fourth declension of old ended in u. Also Lib. 7. Cap. 8. he takes notice, that though these supines have sometimes other cases, (as irrisui esse) yet they are only reckoned supines by grammarians when the first come after verbs of motion, and the second after adjective-nouns ; thus dignus irrisu is a supine (according to them), non sine irrisu audientium is not.]

De Adverbio.

IN adverbio potissimum spectanda est ejus significatio.

Adverbiorum significationes variae sunt: earum vero præcipuæ ad sequentia capita revocari possunt.

Of the Indeclinable Parts of Speech.

CHAP. V.

Of Adverb.

IN an adverb is chiefly to be considered its signification.

The significations of adverbs are various: but the chief of them may be reduced to the following heads.

An adverb is an indeclinable part of speech, which being joined to a noun, verb, or another adverb, expresses some circumstance, quality, or manner of their signification.

I. Adverbs denoting circumstance are chiefly those of place, time, and order.

1. Adverbs of PLACE are five-fold, viz. Adverbs signifying motion,		2. Adverbs of TIME are three-fold, viz. such as signify,
		(1.) Being in time either
(or rest) (1) in a place.	UBI ?	Where ?	nunc Now.
	Hic	Here.	Hodie To day.
	Illic	} There.	} Then.
	Isthid
	Ibi
	Intus		} Yesterday.
	Foris
	Ubique	Every where.	} Heretofore.
	Nusquam	No where.
	Alicubi	Some where.	} The day before.
Alibi	Else where.
Ubivis	Any where.	} Three days ago.
Ibidem	In the same place.
quo ?	Whither ?	} Lately.
Huc	Hither.
(2) to a place.	Illuc	} Thither.	} Presently.
	Isthuc
	Intro	To within.	} Immediately.

	Cœlitus	From heaven.

	Illac	} That way.
	Isthae		} Long.

			(3) Vicissitude or repetition of time.
		} QUOTIES ? How often ?

		} Iterum
		} Subinde
		} Identidem } SEMEL Once.
		} Bis Twice.
		} Ter Thrice.
		} Quater Four times, &c.

3. Adverbs of ORDER; as,

Inde	Then.	Deinceps	So forth.	Primo	-um First.
Deinde	Thereafter.	Denuo	Of-new.	Secundo	-um Secondly.
Dehinc	Henceforth.	Denique	Finally.	Tertio	-um Thirdly.
Porro	Moreover.	Postremo	Lastly.	Quarto	-um Fourthly.

II. The other adverbs expressing QUALITY, MANNER, &c. are either absolute or comparative.

ABSOLUTE, denoting,

1. Quality simply; as, bene, well; male, ill; fortiter, bravely: and innumerable others that come from adjective-nouns, or participles.
2. Certainty; as, profecto, certe, sane, plane, nã, utique, ita, etiam, truly, verily, yes; quidni, why not? omnino, certainly.
3. Contingence; as, forte, forsan, fortassis, fors, happily, perhaps, by chance, peradventure.
4. Negation; as, non, haud, not; nequaquam, not at all; neutiquam, by no means; minime, nothing less.
5. Prohibition; as, ne, not.
6. Swearing; as, hercle, pol, edepol, mecastor, by Hercules, by Pol-lux, &c.
7. Explaining; as, utpote, videlicet, scilicet, nimirum, nempe, to wit, namely.
8. Separation; as, seorsum, apart; separatim, separately; sigillatim, one by one; viritim, man by man; oppidatim, town by town, &c.
9. Joining together; as, simul, unã, pariter, together; generaliter, generally; universaliter, universally; plerumque, for the most part.
10. Indication or pointing out; as, en, ecce, lo, behold.
11. Interrogation; as, cur, quare, quamobrem, why, wherefore? num, an, whether? quomodo, qui, how? to which add, ubi, quo, quor-sum, unde, qua, quando, quamdiu, quoties?

COMPARATIVE, denoting,

1. Excess; as, valde, maxime, magnopere, summopere, admodum, oppido, perquam, longe, very much, exceedingly; nimis, nimium, too much; prorsus, penitus, omnino, altogether, wholly; magis, more; melius, better; pejus, worse; fortius, more bravely; and optime, best; pessime, worst; fortissime, most bravely; and innumerable others of the comparative and superlative degrees.
2. Defect; as, ferme, fere, prope, propemodum, pene, almost; parum, little; paulo, paululum, very little.
3. Preference; as, potius, satius, rather; potissimum, præcipue, præsertim, chiefly, especially; imo, yes, nay, nay rather.
4. Likeness or equality; as, ita, sic, adeo, so; ut, uti, sicut, sicuti, velut, veluti, ceu, tanquam, quasi, as, as if; quemadmodum, even as; satis, enough; itidem, in like manner.
5. Unlikeness or inequality; as, aliter, secus, otherwise; alioqui, or alioquin, else; nedum, much more or much less.
6. Abatement; as, sensim, paulatim, pedetentim, by degrees, piecemeal; vix, scarcely; ægre, hardly, with difficulty.
7. Exclusion; as, tantum, solum, modo, tantummodo, duntaxat, de-mum, only.

NOTE 1. That adverbs seem originally to have been contrived to express compendiously in one word what must otherwise have required two or more; as, sapienter, wisely; for cum sapientia; hic, for in hoc loco; semper, for in omni tempore; semel, for una vice; bis, for duabus vicibus; Hercule, for Hercules me juvet, &c. Therefore many of them are nothing else but adjective-nouns or pronouns, having the preposition and substantive understood; as, quo, eo, eodem; for ad quæ, ea, eadem [loca] or cui, ei, eidem [loco]; for of old these datives ended in e. Thus, qua, hac, illac, &c. are plain adjectives in the ablative singular, fem. the word via, a way, and in being understood. Many of them are compounds; as, quomodo, i. e. quo modo; quemadmodum, i. e. ad quem modum; quomobrem, i. e. ob quam rem; quare, i. e. [pro] qua re; quorsum, i. e. versus quem [locum]; scilicet, i. e. scire licet; videlicet, i. e. videre licet; ilicet, i. e. ire licet; illico, i. e. in loco; magnopere, i. e. magno opere; nimirum, i. e. ni [est] mirum, &c.

NOTE 2. That of adverbs of place, those of the first kind answer to the question ubi? the second to quo? the third to quorsum? the fourth to unde? and the fifth to qua? to which might be added a sixth, quousque? how far? answered by usque, until; hucusque, hitherto; eousque, so far; hactenus, hitherto, thus far; atenus, so far as; quadantenus, in some measure. But these are equally applied to time and place.

NOTE 3. That adverbs of time of the first kind answer to quando? of the second to quamdiu, and quamdudum or quampridem? of the third to quoties?

NOTE 4. That adverbs of quality generally answer to the question quomodo?

NOTE 5. That some adverbs of time, place, and order are frequently used the one for the other; as, ubi, where, and when; inde, from that place, from that time, thereafter, next; hactenus, thus far, with respect to place, time, or order, &c. Other adverbs also may be classed under different heads.

NOTE 6. That some adverbs of time are either past, present, or future; as, jam, already, now, by and by; olim, long ago, some time hereafter.

NOTE 7. That interrogative adverbs of time and place doubled, or with the adjection cunque answer to the English adjection soever; as, ubiubi or ubicunque, wheresoever; quoquo or quocunque, whithersoever, &c. And the same holds also in other interrogative words; as, quisquis, or quicunque, whosoever; quotquot or quotcunque, how many soever; quantusquantus or quantuscunque, how great soever; qualisqualis or qualiscunque, of what kind or quality soever; utut or utcunque, however, howsoever, &c.

CAP. VI.

De Præpositione.

I. PRÆPOSITIONES quæ regunt accusativum sunt viginti-octo, viz.

-CHAP. VI.

Of Preposition.

I. THE prepositions which govern the accusative are twenty-eight, viz.

Ad,	To.	Infra,	Beneath.
Apud,	At.	Juxta,	Nigh to.
Ante,	Before.	Ob,	For.
Adversus,	} Against.	Propter,	For, hard by.
Adversum,		Per,	By, through.
Contra,	} On this side.	Præter,	Besides, except.
Cis,		Penes,	In the power of.
Citra,		Post,	After.
Circa,		Pone,	Behind.
Circum,	} About.	Secus,	By, along.
Erga,		Secundum,	According to.
Extra,	Without.	Supra,	Above. [side.
Inter,	Between, among.	Trans,	On the farther
Intra,	Within.	Ultra,	Beyond.

II. Præpositiones quæ regunt ablativum sunt quindecim; nempe,

A,	} From.
Ab,
Abs,
Absque,	Without.
Cum,	With.
Clam,	Without the knowledge of.
Coram,	Before.

II. The prepositions which govern the ablative are fifteen; namely,

De,	Of, concerning.
E,	} Of, out of.
Ex,
Pro,	For.
Præ,	Before. [ledge of.
Palam,	With the know-
Sine,	Without.
Tenus,	Up to.

III. Hæ quatuor interdum accusativum, interdum ablativum, regunt;

In,	In, into.
Sub,	Under.

III. These four govern sometimes the accusative, and sometimes the ablative;

Super,	Above.
Subter,	Beneath.

A preposition is an indeclinable word, showing the relation of one substantive-noun to another.

NOTE. That pone and secus rarely occur; and prope, nigh; usque, unto; circiter, about; versus, towards; which are commonly reckoned among the prepositions governing the accusative; and procul, far, among those governing the ablative, are adverbs; and do not govern a case of themselves, but by the preposition ad, which is understood to the first four, and a or ab to the last. To which perhaps may be added clam, which is joined very frequently with the accusative; as, clam patre or patrem; a being understood to the one, and quod ad to the other.

Besides the separate use of these prepositions, there is another use in them, viz. their being put before a vast number of nouns and verbs in composition, which creates a great variety, and gives a peculiar elegance and beauty to the Latin tongue.

There are five or six syllables, viz. am, di or dis, re, se, con, which are commonly called inseparable prepositions, because they are only to be found in compound words : however they generally add something to the signification of the words with which they are compounded ; thus,

A n	} signifies	{ round about	as,	{ ambio	to surround.
Di					divello to pull asunder.
Dis					distrabo to draw asunder.
Re					relego to read again.
Se					sepono to lay aside.
Con		{ together		{ concreasco	to grow together.

CHAP. VII. OF INTERJECTION.

AN interjection is an indeclinable word thrown into discourse to signify some passion or emotion of the mind.

- Some of them express,
1. Joy ; as, evax, hey, braue, io.
 2. Grief ; as, ah, hai, heu, eheu, ah, alas, woe's me.
 3. Wonder ; as, papæ, O strange ; Vah, hah.
 4. Praise ; as, euge, well done.
 5. Aversion ; as, apæge, away, begone, fy, tush.
 6. Exclaiming , as, eh, prob, O.
 7. Surprise or fear ; as, atat, ha,, aha.
 8. Imprecation ; as, væ, wo, fox on it.
 9. Laughter ; as, ha, ha, ha.
 10. Silencing ; as, au, 'st, pax, silence, hush, 'et.
 11. Calling ; as, eh, io, ho, soho, ho, O.
 12. Derision ; as, hui, away with.
 13. Attention ; as, hem, hah.

NOTE 1. That the same interjection denotes sometimes one passion, and sometimes another ; as, vah, which is used to express joy, and sorrow, and wonder, &c.

NOTE 2. That some of them are natural sounds, common to all languages.

NOTE 3. That nouns are used sometimes for interjections ; as, malum ! with a pox ! with a mischief ! Infandum ! O shame ! fy ! fy ! Miserum ! O wretched ! Nefas ! O the villainy !

Interjection is a compendious way of expressing a whole sentence in one word ; and used only to represent the passions and emotions of the soul, that the shortness of the one might the sooner express the suddenness and quickness of the other.

CHAP. VIII.

OF CONJUNCTION.

A conjunction is an indeclinable word that joins sentences together ; and thereby shews their dependence upon one another.

Of these, some are called,

1. Copulative ; as, et, ac, atque, que, and ; etiam, quoque, item, also ; cum, tum, both, and. Also their contraries, nec, neque, neu, neve, neither, nor.
2. Disjunctive ; as, aut, ve, vel, seu, sive, either, or.
3. Concessive ; as, etsi, etiamsi, tametsi, licet, quanquam, quamvis, tho', altho', albeit.
4. Adversative ; as, sed, verum, tamen, at, ast, atqui, but ; tamen, attamen, veruntamen, verumenimvèro, yet, notwithstanding, nevertheless.
5. Causal ; as, nam, namque, enim, for ; quia, quippe, quoniam, because ; quod, that, because.
6. Illative or rational ; as, ergo, ideo, igitur, idcirco, itaque, therefore ; quapropter, quocirca, wherefore ; proinde, therefore ; cum, quum, seeing, since ; quandoquidem, forasmuch as.
7. Final or perfective ; as, ut, uti, that, to the end that.
8. Conditional ; as, si, sin, if ; dum, modo, dummodo, provided, upon condition that ; siquidem, if indeed.
9. Exceptive or restrictive ; as, ni, nisi, unless, except.
10. Diminutive ; as, saltem, certe, at least.
11. Suspensive or dubitative ; as, an, anne, num, whether ; ne, annon, whether, not ; necne, or not.
12. Expletive ; as, autem, vero, now, truly ; quidem, equidem, indeed.
13. Ordinate ; as, deinde, thereafter ; denique, finally ; insuper, moreover ; cæterum, moreover, but, however.
14. Declarative ; as, videlicet, scilicet, nempe, nimirum, &c. to wit, namely.

NOTE 1. That the same words, as they are taken in different views, are both adverbs and conjunctions ; as, an, anne, &c. are suspensive conjunctions and interrogative adverbs. The same may be said of the ordinative and declarative conjunctions, which under another view may be ranked under adverbs of order and explaining. So likewise utinam, which is commonly called an adverb of wishing, when more narrowly considered is nothing else but the conjunction ut [that] with the syllable nam added to it ; and opto, [I wish] understood ; as, utinam adfuisset ; ut te deus ma- le perdat ; supple. opto. But since both of them are indeclinable, there is no great need of being very nice in distinguishing them.

NOTE 2. That other parts of speech compounded together, supply the place of conjunctions ; as, postea, afterwards ; præterea, moreover ; propterea, because, &c. which are made up of the prepositions post, præter, and propter, with ea, the pronoun.

NOTE 3. That some conjunctions, according to their natural order stand first in a sentence ; as, et, aut, nec, si, &c. Some, contrary to their natural order, stand in the second place, viz. autem, vero, quoque, quidem, enim : and some may indifferently be put either first or second, viz. namque, etenim, siquidem, ergo, igitur, itaque, &c. Hence arose the division of them into prepositive, subjunctive, and common.

† CHAP. IX.

APPENDIX, containing some observations concerning the various divisions and significations of words, especially noun and verb.

1. All words whatsoever are either simple or compound. A simple word (simplex) is that which was never more than one ; as, justus, lego. A compound (compositum) is that which is made up of two or more words, or of a word and some syllabical adjection ; as, injustus, perlēgo, derelinquo, egōmet.

2. All words whatsoever are either primitive or derivative. A primitive word (primitivum) is that which comes from no other word ; as, justus, lego. A derivative (derivativum) is that which comes from another word ; as, justitia, lectio.

I. Besides the more general divisions of nouns and pronouns, mentioned p. 5, and p. 26, there are other particular divisions of them, taken from their various significations and derivations : The most remarkable whereof are these :

I. With respect to Signification.

1. A collective (collectivum) is a substantive-noun which signifies many in the singular number ; as, populus, a people ; exercitus, an army.

2. An interrogative noun or pronoun (interrogativum) is that by which we ask a question ; as, quis ? who ? uter ? which of the two ? qualis ? of what kind ? quantus ? how great ? quot ? how many ? And these, when they are used without a question are called indefinites.

3. A relative noun or pronoun (relativum) is an adjective that has respect to something spoken before ; as, qui, ille, ipse, &c. Alius, alter, reliquus, cetera, -um, qualis, quantus, &c.

4. A partitive noun or pronoun (partitivum) is an adjective which signifies many severally, and as it were, one by one ; as, omnis, nullus, quisque, &c. or a part of many ; as, quidam, aliquis, neuter, nemo, &c.

5. A numeral noun (numerale) is an adjective which signifies number, of which there are four principal kinds.

(1.) Cardinal (numerus cardinalis) ; as, unus, duo, tres, &c.

(2.) Ordinal (ordinalis) ; as, primus, secundus, tertius, &c.

(3.) Distributive (distributivus) ; as, singuli, bini, terni, &c.

(4.) Multiplicative (multiplicativus) ; as, simplex, duplex, triplex, &c.

II. With respect to the Signification and Derivation.

1. A patronymic noun (patronymicum) is a substantive-noun derived from another substantive proper, signifying one's pedigree or extraction ; as, Priamides, the son of Priamus ; Priamis, the daughter of Priamus ; Ætias, the daughter of Æetes ; Nerine, the daughter of Nereus. Patronymics are generally derived from the name of the father, but the poets (for others seldom use them) derive them also from the grandfather, or some other remarkable person of the family ; nay, sometimes from the founder of a nation or people, and also from countries and cities ; as, Æacides, the son, grandson, great grandson, or one of the posterity of Æacus ; Romulida, the Romans, from their first king Romulus ; Sicelis, Troas, a woman of Sicily, of Troy, &c. Patronymics of men end in des ; of women in is, as, and ne. Those in des, and ne, are of the first, and those in is, and as of the third declension.

2. An abstract noun (abstractum) is a substantive derived from an adjective expressing the quality of the adjective in general, without regard to the thing in which the quality is ; as, bonitas, goodness ; dulcedo, sweetness ; from bonus, good ; dulcis, sweet. With respect to these abstracts, the adjectives from which they come are called concretes, because, besides the quality, they also confusedly signify something as the subject of it, without which they cannot make sense.

3. A gentile or patrilal noun (gentile or patrium) is an adjective derived from a substantive proper, signifying one's country ; as, Scotus, Macedo, Arpinas, Edinburgensis, Taodunanus ; a man born in Scotland, Macedonia, Arpinum, Edinburgh, Dundee ; from Scotia, Macedonia, Arpinum, Edinburgum, Taodunum.

4. A possessive noun (possessivum) is an adjective derived from a substantive whether proper or appellative, signifying possession or property : as, Scoticus, Herculeus, paternus, herilis, fœminicus, of or belonging to Scotland, Hercules, a father, a master, a woman ; from Scotia, Hercules, pater, herus, fœmina.

5. A diminutive noun (diminutivum) is a substantive or adjective derived from another substantive or adjective respectively, importing a diminution or lessening of its signification ; as, libellus, a little book ; chartŭla, a little paper ; opusculum, a little work ; from liber, charta, opus ; parvulus, very little ; candidulus, pretty white ; from parvus, candidus. These for the most part end in lus, la, or lum, and are generally of the same gender with their primitives.

6. A denominative noun (denominativum) is a substantive or adjective derived from another noun ; as, gratia, favour ; vinca, a vineyard ; senātor, a senator ; from gratus, vinum, senex ; cœlestis, heavenly ; humānus, humane ; aureus, golden ; from cœlum, homo, aurum.

7. A verbal noun (verbale) is a substantive or adjective derived from a verb ; as, amor, love ; doctrīna, learning ; lectio, a lesson ; auditus, hearing, from amo, doceo, lego, audio ; amabilis, lovely ; capax, capable ; volūter, swift ; from amo, capio, volo.

8. Lastly, There are some nouns derived from participles, adverbs, and prepositions ; as, fictitius, counterfeit ; crastīnus, belonging to the morrow ; contrarius, contrary ; from fictus, cras, contra.

NOTE. That the same nouns, according to the different respects in which they are considered, may sometimes be ranked under one, and sometimes under another of the above mentioned classes ; as, quis, is an interrogative, relative, or partitive ; pietas, an abstract, or denominative.

II. Pronouns are divided into four classes, viz.

1. Demonstratives ; Ego, tu, sui.
2. Relatives ; ille, ipse, iste, hic, is, quis, qui.
3. Possessives ; meus, tuus, suus, noster, vester.
4. Patrials or gentiles ; nostras, vestras, cujas.

Of them also two are interrogatives ; quis, cujas.

III. 1. Verbs, with respect to their figure or frame, are either simple, as, amo, I love ; or compound, as, redāmo, I love again.

2. With respect to their species or origin, are either primitive, as, lego, I read ; or derivative, as, lectitō, I read frequently.

3. With respect to their conjugation, are either regular, as, amo ; or irregular, as, volo, vis, &c.

4. With respect to their constituent parts, are either complete, as, amo ; or defective, as, inquam ; or redundant, as, edo, edis, et c., &c.

5. With respect to their persons, are either personal, as, amo ; or impersonal, as, pluēt.

6. With respect to their terminations, they either end in o, as, amo ; or in r, as, amor ; or in m, as, sum.

7. With respect to their signification, verbs are either substantive or adjective.

(1.) A substantive-verb (substantivum) is that which signifies simply the affirmation of being or existence : as, sum, fio, existo, I am.

(2.) An adjective-verb (adjectivum) is that which together with the signification of being, has a particular signification of its own ; as, amo ; i. e. sum amans, I am loving.

An adjective-verb is divided into active, passive, and neuter.

(1.) An active verb (active) is that which affirms action of its person or nominative before it ; as, amo, loquor, curro.

(2.) A passive verb (passivum) is that which affirms passion of its person or nominative before it ; as, amor.

(3.) A neuter verb (neutrum) is that which affirms neither action nor passion of its nominative ; but simply signifies the state, posture, or quality of things ; as, sto, sedeo, maneo, duro, vireo, flaveo, sapio, quiesco, &c. to stand, sit, stay, endure, to be green, to be yellow, to be wise, to rest.

An active verb is again divided into transitive and intransitive.

(1.) An active transitive verb (transitivum) is that whose action passeth from the agent to some other thing ; as, amo patrem.

(2.) An active intransitive verb (intransitivum) is that whose action passeth not from the agent to any other ; as, curro, I run ; ambulo, I walk.

When to any verb you put the question whom? or what? if a rational answer can be returned, the verb is transitive ; as, whom or what do you teach? Answer, a boy, the grammar. If not, it is intransitive ; as, what do you run, go, come, live, sleep, &c. to which no rational answer can be given, unless it be by a word of like signification, which sometimes indeed these verbs have after them ; as, vivo vitam jucundam, I live a pleasant life ; eo iter longum, I go a long journey.

NOTE 1. That the same verb is sometimes transitive, and sometimes intransitive ; as, ver incipit, the spring begins. Cic. Incipere facinus, to begin an action. Plaut.

NOTE 2. That neuter and intransitive verbs are often Englished with the sign of the passive verb ; as, caleo, I am hot ; palleo, I am pale ; Jacobus abiit, James is gone.

NOTE 3. That neuter and intransitive verbs want the passive voice, unless impersonally used, as the intransitive verbs most frequently and elegantly are ; as, pugnatur, itur, ventum est.

Though all verbs whatsoever, with respect to their signification, belong to some one or other of the foregoing classes, yet because grammarians, together with the signification of verbs, are obliged also to consider their terminations, and finding that all active verbs did not end in o, neither all passives in or, it was judged convenient to add to the former two or three other classes or kinds of them, viz. deponent, common, and neuter-passive.

(1) A deponent verb [deponens] is that which has a passive termination, but an active or neuter signification ; as, loquor, I speak ; morior, I die.

(2) A common verb [commune] is that which under a passive termination has a signification either active or passive ; as, criminator, I accuse, or I am accused ; dignor, I think, or I am thought worthy.

(3) A neuter-passive, [neutro-passivum] is that which is half active and half passive in its termination, but in its signification is either wholly passive, as, fit, factus sum, to be made ; or wholly active neuter, as, audeo, ausus sum, to dare ; gaudeo, gavisus sum, to rejoice.

8. To omit the other kinds of derivative verbs, which are not very material, there are three kinds of them derived from verbs which deserve to be remarked, viz. frequentatives, inceptives, and desideratives.

(1.) Frequentatives (verba frequentativa) signify frequency of action. They are formed from the last supine, by changing ātu into īto from verbs of the first, and u into o from verbs of the other three conjugations. They are all of the first ; as, clamito, to cry frequently, from clamo ; dormito, to sleep often, from dormio. From them also are formed other frequentatives ; as, curro, curso, cursito ; jacio, jacto, jactito ; pello, pulso, pulsito, and pulto.

(2.) Inceptives (verba inceptiva) signify that a thing is begun and tending to perfection. They are formed from the second person sing. pres. indic. by adding eo. They are all of the third conjugation, and want both preterite and supine ; as, caleo, cales, calesco, I grow or wax warm.

(3.) Desideratives (verba desiderativa) signify a desire of action. They are formed from the last supine by adding rio. They are all of the fourth conjugation, and generally want both preterite and supine ; as, cœnaturio, I desire to sup ; esurio, I am hungry, or I desire to eat.

9. Lastly, In construction, verbs receive names from their more particular signification ; as, vocative verbs, or verbs of naming, verbs of remembering, of want, of teaching, of accusing, &c.

In the preceding division of verbs, with respect to their signification, I have receded a little from the common method ; and in particular I have given a different account of neuter verbs from that commonly received by grammarians, who comprise under them all intransitive verbs, though their significations be ever so much active. But this I did partly from the reason of the name, which imports a negation both of action and passion, and partly to give a distinct view of the significations of verbs, without regard to their terminations, which in that respect are purely accidental and arbitrary.

I have also excluded from the divisions of verbs those called neutral passives [Lat. neutra passiva] because originally they are active verbs ; for the primary signification of vapulo is pereo or plero ; of exulo, extra solum eo ; of venio, venium eo ; of nubo, velo. Liceo indeed is a very singular verb, for in the active voice it signifies passively, and in the passive, actively.

PARS TERTIA.

De Sententiis sive Oratione.

SENTENTIA est quævis animi cogitatio, duabus aut pluribus vocibus simul junctis enunciata ; ut, tu legis ; tu legis libros ; tu legis libros bonos ; tu legis libros bonos domi (a).

PART THIRD.

Of Sentences or Speech.

A SENTENCE is any thought of the mind expressed by two or more words put together ; as, you read ; you read books ; you read good books ; you read good books at home.

(a) We have now arrived at the principal part of grammar ; for the great end of speech being to convey our thoughts unto others, it will be of little use to us to have a stock of words, and to know what changes can be made upon them, unless we can also apply them to practice, and

CAP. I.

De Syntaxi vel Constructione.

SYNTAXIS est recta vocum in oratione compositio.

Ejus partes sunt duæ, concordantia et regimen (b).

Concordantia est quando una dictio concordat cum altera in quibusdam accidentibus.

Regimen est quando dictio regit certum casum.

CHAP. I.

Of Syntax or Construction.

SYNTAX is the right ordering of words in speech.

Its parts are two, concord and government.

Concord is when one word agrees with another in some accidents.

Government is when a word governs a certain case.

I. DE CONCORDANTIA.

CONCORDANTIA est quadruplex.

1. Adjectivi cum substantivo.
2. Verbi cum nominativo.
3. Relativi cum antecedente.
4. Substantivi cum substantivo.

I. OF CONCORD.

CONCORD is fourfold.

1. Of an adjective with a substantive.
2. Of a verb with a nominative.
3. Of a relative with an antecedent.
4. Of a substantive with a substantive.

make them answer the great purposes for which they are intended. To the attainment of this end there are two things absolutely necessary, viz. 1. That in speech we dispose and frame our words, according to the laws and rules established among those whose language we speak. 2. That in like manner we know what is spoken or written, and be able to explain it in due order, and resolve it into the several parts of which it is made up. The first of these is called syntax or construction, and the second is named exposition or resolution. The first shows us how to speak the language ourselves, and the second how to understand it when spoken by others. —But it must be owned, that there is such a necessary connection between them, that he who is master of the first cannot be ignorant of the second.

(b) NOTE 1. That the difference between concord and government consists chiefly in this,—that in concord there can no change be made in the accidents, that is, gender, case, number, or person of the one, but the like change must also be made in the other: But in government, the first word (if declinable) may be changed, without any change in the second. In concord, the first word may be called the word directing, and the second the word directed: In government the first is called the word governing, and the second the word governed.

REGULA I.

- 1 ADJECTIVUM concordat cum substantivo in genere, numero, et casu; ut,

* Vir † bonus.

* Fœmina † casta.

† Dulce * pomum.

REG. II.

- 2 VERBUM concordat cum nominativo ante se in numero et persona; ut,

* Ego † lego.

* Tu † scribis.

* Præceptor † docet.

RULE I.

AN adjective agrees with a substantive in gender, number, and case; as,

A good man.

A chaste woman.

A sweet apple.

RULE II.

A VERB agrees with the nominative before it in number and person; as,

I read.

You write.

The master teacheth.

ANNOTATIONES.

- 3 1. VERBA substantiva, vocandi et gestus habent utrinque nominativum ad eandem rem pertinentem; ut,

1. SUBSTANTIVE verbs, verbs of naming and gesture have a nominative both before and after them, belonging to the same thing; as,

NOTE 2. That for the greater ease both of master and scholar, we have noted those words wherein the force of each example lieth, with the marks () and (†); the word directing or governing with (), and the word directed or governed with (†); or where there are two words directing or governing, the first with (*), and the second with (); and where two words directed or governed, the first with (†), and the second with (††).

Number 1. NOTE 1. That the way to find out the substantive is to ask the question who or what? to the adjective; for that which answers to it is the substantive. And the same question put to the verb or relative, discovers the nominative or antecedent.

NOTE 2. That another adjective sometimes supplies the place of a substantive; as, amicus certus, a sure friend; bona ferina, good venison. Homo being understood to amicus, and caro to ferina.

NOTE 3. That the substantive thing (negotium) is most frequently understood; and then the adjective is always put in the neuter gender, as if it were a substantive; as, triste, (supple negotium) i. e. res tristis, a sad thing; bona, (supple negotia) i. e. res bonæ, good things.

Num. 2. NOTE, That the infinitive mood frequently supplies the place of the nominative; as, mentiri non est meum, to lie is not mine (or my property).

Num. 3. (1.) Substantive-verbs are sum, fiō, forem, and existo.

(2.) Verbs of naming are these passives, appellor, dicor, vocor, nominor.

† Ego * sum †† discipulus.
 † Tu * vocaris †† Joannes.
 † Illa * incedit †† regina.

I am a scholar.
 You are named John.
 She walks [as] a queen.

2. ¶ EXCEP. Infinitivus modus accusativum ante se habet ; ut,

Gaudeo * te † valere.

2. ¶ EXCEP. The infinitive mood has an accusative before it ; as,

I am glad that you are well.

3. ¶ Esse habet eundem casum post se quem ante se ; ut,

† Petrus cupit * esse †† vir doctus.

Scio † Petrum * esse †† virum doctum.

† Mihi †† negligenti * esse non licet.

3. ¶ Esse hath the same case after it that it hath before it ; as,

Peter desires to be a learned man.

I know that Peter is a learned man.

I am not allowed to be negligent.

nuncupor ; to which add, videor, existimor, creor, constitutor, salutor, designor, &c.

(3.) Verbs of gesture are, eo, incedo, venio, cubo, sto, sedeo, evado, fugio, dormio, somnio, maneo, &c.

NOTE, That any verb may have after it the nominative, when it belongs to the same thing with the nominative before it ; as, audivi hoc puer, I heard it being (or when I was) a boy ; defendi rempublicam adolescens, non deseram senex, I defended the commonwealth (when I was) a young man, I will not desert it (now that I am) old. Cic.

Num. 4. NOTE, That when the particle that (in Lat. quod or ut) comes between two verbs, it is elegantly left out, by turning the nominative case into the accusative, and the verb into the infinitive mood ; as, aiunt regem adventare, they say (that) the king is coming ; rather than aiunt quod rex adventat ; turpe est eos, qui bene nati sunt, turpiter vivere, it is a shameful thing, that they who are well born, should live basely ; rather than, ut ii turpiter vivant. See p. 53.

Num. 5. NOTE 1. That we frequently say, licet nobis esse bonos, we may be good ; tibi expedit esse sedulum, it is expedient for you to be diligent ; nemini unquam nocuit fuisse pium, it never hurted any man that he hath been pious : But then the accusative, nos, te, illum, &c. is understood ; thus, licet nobis (nos) esse bonos, &c.

NOTE 2. That if esse, and the other infinitives of substantive-verbs, verbs of naming, &c. have no accusative or dative before them, the word that follows (whether substantive or adjective) is to be put in the nominative ; as, dicitur esse vir, he is said to be a man ; non videtur esse facturus, he seems not about to do it ; nemo debet dici beatus ante suum obitum, no man should be called happy before his death.

REG. III.

6 * RELATIVUM qui, quæ, quod, concordat cum antecedente in genere et numero; ut,

* Vir sapit † qui pauca loquĭtur.

7 1. Si nullus interveniat nominativus inter relativum et verbum, relativum erit verbo nominativus; ut,

*Præceptor * qui † docet.*

8 2. At si interveniat nominativus inter relativum et verbum, relativum erit ejus casus quem verbum aut nomen sequens, vel præpositio præcedens regere solent; ut,
*Deus † quem * colimus.*

*† Cujus * munere vivimus.*

*† Cui nullus est * similis.*

 A † quo facta sunt omnia.*

RULE III.

THE relative, qui, quæ, quod, agrees with the antecedent in gender and number; as,

He is a wise man who speaks little.

1. If no nominative come between the relative and the verb, the relative shall be the nominative to the verb; as,

The master who teacheth.

2. But if a nominative come between the relative and the verb, the relative shall be of that case, which the verb or noun following, or the preposition going before use to govern; as,
God whom we worship.

By whose gift we live.

To whom there is none like.

By whom all things were made.

ANNOTATIO.

9 ¶ Duo vel plura substantiva singularia, conjunctione (et), ¶ Two or more substantives singular coupled together with

Num. 6. NOTE 1. That the antecedent is a substantive-noun that goes before the relative, and is again understood to the relative—Wherefore it will not be amiss to teach the scholar to supply it every where; thus, Beware of idleness, which (idleness) is an enemy to virtue, cave segnitiam, quæ (segnities) est inimica virtuti. Nay Cicero himself, but especially Cæsar, frequently repeats the substantive; as, in oppidum perfugisti, quo in oppido, &c. you fled to a town, in which town, &c. Cic. Diem dicunt, quo die ad ripam Rhodani conveniant, they appoint a day, on which day they should meet upon the bank of the river Rhone. Cæs.

NOTE 2. That when the relative respects a whole sentence, it is put in the neuter gender; as, Joannes mortuus est, quod mihi summo dolori est, John is dead, which is a great grief to me.

NOTE 3. That the person of the relative is always the same with that of its antecedent; as, ego qui doceo, I who teach. Tu qui discis, you who learn. Lectio quæ docetur, the lesson which is taught.

Num. 9. NOTE 1. That when the substantives are of different genders, and signify persons, the adjective or relative plural must agree with the masculine rather than the feminine; as, pater et mater qui sunt mortui, a father and mother who are dead.

ac, atque, &c.) copulata, habent adjectivum, verbum, vel relativum plurale; ut,

* Petrus et  Joannes † qui † sunt † docti.

a conjunction (et, ac, atque, &c.) have a verb, adjective, or relative plural; as,
Peter and John who are learned.

REG. IV.

UNUM substantivum concordat cum alio, eandem rem significante, in casu; ut,

* Cicero † orator.

* Urbs † Edinburgum.

* Filius † deliciæ matris suæ (a).

RULE IV.

ONE substantive agrees 10 with another, signifying the same thing, in case; as,

Cicero the orator.

The city of Edinburgh.

A son the darling of his mother.

II. DE REGIMINE.

REGIMEN est triplex.

1. Nominum.
2. Verborum.
3. Vocum indeclinabilium.

II. OF GOVERNMENT.

GOVERNMENT is three-fold.

1. Of nouns.
2. Of verbs.
3. Of words indeclinable.

EXCEP. But if the substantives, or any of them, signify things without life, the adjective or relative plural, must be put in the neuter gender; as, divitiæ, decus, gloria in oculis sita sunt, riches, honour, and glory are set before your eyes.

NOTE 2. That when two or more nominatives are of different persons, the verb plural must agree with the first person rather than the second, and the second rather than the third: as, si tu et Tullia valetis, ego et Cicero valemus, if you and Tullia are well, I and Cicero are well.

NOTE 3. That the adjective or verb frequently agree with the substantive or nominative that is nearest them, and are understood to the rest; as, et ego in culpa sum et tu, both I and you are in the fault; or, et ego et tu es in culpa. Nihil hic deest nisi carmina, there is nothing here wanting but charms; or, nihil hic nisi carmina desunt. This manner of construction is most usual, when the different words signify one and the same thing, or much to the same purpose; as, mens, ratio, et consilium in senibus est, understanding, reason, and prudence is in old men.

NOTE 4. That collective nouns, because they are equivalent to a plural number, have sometimes the adjective or verb in the plural number; as, pars virgis casti, a part of them were scourged. Turba ruunt, the crowd rush.

(a) To these four concords some add a fifth, viz. That of the responsive, agreeing with its interrogative in case; as, quis dedit tibi pecuniam? Pater, who gave you money? My father. Quo cares? Libro, what do want? A book. But this ought not to be made a principal rule; for t^h

I. REGIMEN NOMINUM.

§ 1. Substantivorum.

REG. I.

11 UNUM substantivum regit aliud, rem diversam significans, in genitivo ; ut,

* Amor † Dei.

* Lex † naturæ.

I. GOVERNMENT OF NOUNS.

§ 1. Of Substantives.

RULE I.

ONE substantive governs another, signifying a different thing in the genitive ; as,

The love of God.

The law of nature.

ANNOTATIONES.

12 † 1. Si posterius substantivum adjunctum habeat adjectivum laudis vel vituperii, in genitivo vel ablativo poni potest ; ut,

* Vir † summæ † prudentiæ,
v. † summa † prudentia.

* Puer † probæ † indolis,
v. † proba † indole.

13 † 2. Adjectivum in neutro genere, absque substantivo, regit genitivum ; ut,

* Multum † pecuniæ.

* Quid † rei ?

1. If the last substantive have an adjective of praise or dispraise joined with it, it may be put in the genitive or ablative ; as,

A man of great wisdom.

A boy of a good disposition.

2. An adjective in the neuter gender, without a substantive, governs the genitive ; as,

Much money.

What is the matter ?

responsive, or the word that answers the question, does not depend upon the interrogative, but upon the verb or some other word joined with it ; which, because spoken immediately before, is generally understood in the answer ; thus, quis dedit tibi pecuniam ? Pater (dedit mihi pecuniam). Quo cares ? (Careo) libro.

Num. 11. NOTE 1. That of or 's is the ordinary sign of this genitive.

NOTE 2. That the relative pronouns, ejus, illius, cujus, &c. Englished, his, hers, its, their, thereof, whereof, whose, have their substantives generally understood ; as, liber ejus, (supple hominis, feminae, &c.) his book or her book. Libri eorum (supple hominum, faminarum, &c.) their books.

Num. 13. This is more elegant than multa pecunia ; quæ res ?

NOTE 1. That those adjectives which thus govern the genitive, as if they were substantives, are generally such as signify quantity ; as, multum, tantum, quantum, plus, plurimum.

NOTE 2. That plus and quid always govern the genitive, and upon that account are by many thought real substantives.

§ 2. Adjectivorum.

REG. I.

‡ ADJECTIVA verbalia vel affectionem animi significantia genitivum postulant; ut,

- * Avidus † gloriæ.
- * Ignarus † fraudis.
- * Memor † beneficiorum.

REG. II.

* PARTITIVA et partitive positæ, comparativa, superlativa, interrogativa, et quædam numeralia genitivo plurali gaudent; ut,

- * Aliquis † philosophorum.
- * Senior † fratrum.
- * Quis † nostrum?
- * Doctissimus † Romanorum.
- * Una † Musarum.
- * Octavus † sapientum.

§ 2. Of Adjectives.

RULE I.

VERBAL adjectives or 14 such as signify an affection of the mind, require the genitive; as,

- Desirous of glory.
- Ignorant of fraud.
- Mindful of favours.

RULE II.

PARTITIVES and words 15 placed partitively, comparatives, superlatives, interrogatives, and some numerals govern the genitive plural; as,

- Some one of the philosophers.
- The elder of the brothers.
- Which of us? [mans.]
- The most learned of the Romans.
- One of the Muses.
- The eighth of the wise men.

Num. 14. To this rule belong,

1. Adjectives of desire; as, cupidus, ambitiosus, avarus, studiosus, curiosus.

2. Of knowledge; as, peritus, gnarus, prudens, callidus, providus, doctus, docilis, præscius, præsagus, certus, memor, eruditus, expertus, consultus, &c.

3. Of ignorance; as, ignarus, rudis, imperitus, nescius, inscius, incertus, dubius, anxius, sollicitus, immemor.

4. Of guilt; as, conscius, convictus, manifestus, suspectus, reus.

5. Verbals in ax and ns; as, edax, capax, ferax, fugax, tenax, pervicax: And amans, cupiens, appetens, patiens, fugiens, sitiens, negligens, &c.

6. To which may be referred, æmulus, munificus, parvus, prodigus, profusus, securus.

Num. 15. NOTE 1. That it is easy to know when this rule takes place, by resolving the genitive into inter with the accusative; or de, e, x, with the ablative; as, optimus regum, the best of kings, i. e. optimus inter reges; or de, e, ex, regibus.

NOTE 2. That when there are two substantives of different genders, the partitive, &c. rather agrees with the first than the last; as, Indus fluminum maximus. Cic. Leo animalium fortissimus. Plin. Otherwise it is of the same gender, with the substantive it governs; as, pauca animalium. Unaqueque faminarum.

REG. III.

16 ADJECTIVA significantia commodum vel incommodum, similitudinem vel dissimilitudinem, regunt dativum; ut,

* Utilis † bello.

* Perniciosus † reipublicæ.

* Similis † patri.

17 † Verbalia in bilis et dis regunt dativum; ut,

* Amandus vel * amabilis † omnibus.

REG. IV.

18 * ADJECTIVA dimensionem significantia regunt accusativum mensuræ; ut,

Columna sexaginta † pedes * alta.

RULE III.

ADJECTIVES signifying profit or disprofit, likeness or unlikeness, govern the dative; as,

Profitable for war.

Pernicious to the commonwealth.

Like his father.

Verbals in bilis and dis govern the dative; as,

To be loved of all men.

RULE IV.

ADJECTIVES signifying dimension govern the accusative of measure; as,

A pillar sixty feet high.

NOTE 3. That partitives, &c. take the genitive singular of collective nouns, and do not necessarily agree with them in gender; as, præstantissimus nostræ civitatis. Cic. Nympharum sanguinis una. Virg.

NUM. 16 NOTE 1. That some of these adjectives govern also the genitive; as, amicus, inimicus, socius, vicinus, par, æqualis, similis, dis-similis, proprius, communis, &c.

NOTE 2. That adjectives signifying motion or tendency to a thing, choose rather the accusative with ad, than the dative; such as, proclivis, pronus, propensus, velox, celer, tardus, piger, &c. as,

Est piger ad pœnas princeps, ad præmia velox. Ovid.

NOTE 3. That adjectives signifying fitness or the contrary may have either of them; as, aptus, ineptus bello or ad bellum.

NUM. 17. Of or by is the ordinary sign of this dative.

NOTE. That participles of the preter tense, and passive verbs also, especially among the poets, have frequently the dative instead of the ablative with a or ab; as, nullus eorum mihi visus est, no one of them was seen by me. Non audior ulli, I am not heard by any.

NUM. 18 The adjectives of dimension are—altus, high or deep; crassus or densus, thick; latus, broad; longus, long; profundus, deep. The names of measure are, digitus, an inch; palmus, an hand-breadth; pes, a foot; cubitus, a cubit; ulna, an ell; passus, a pace, &c.

NOTE 1. That verbs signifying dimension likewise have the accusative of measure; as, patet tres ulnas, it is three ells large. Virg.

NOTE 2. That sometimes the word of measure is put in the ablative; as, fossa sex cubitis alta, duodecim lata. Liv. Venter ejus extat sesquipedo.

REG. V.

* COMPARATIVUS regit ablativum, qui resolvitur per quam; ut,

* Dulcior † melle.

* Præstantior † auro.

REG. VI.

† HÆC adjectiva, dignus, indignus, contentus, præditus, captus, et fretus: item natus, satus, ortus, editus, et similia, ablativum petunt; ut,

* Dignus † honore.

* Præditus † virtute.

* Contentus † parvo.

* Captus † oculis.

* Fretus † viribus.

* Ortus † regibus.

REG. VII.

ADJECTIVUM copię aut inopię regit genitivum vel ablativum; ut,

* Plenus † irę vel † ira.

* Inops † rationis.

RULE V.

THE comparative degree 19 governs the ablative, which is resolved by quam; as,

Sweeter than honey.*

Better than gold.

RULE VI.

THESE adjectives, dig- 20
nus, indignus, contentus, præditus, captivus, and fretus: also natus, satus, ortus, editus, and the like, require the ablat. as,

Worthy of honour.

Endued with virtue.

Content with little.

Blind.

Trusting to his strength.

Descended of kings.

RULE VII.

AN adjective of plenty or 21 want governs the genitive or ablative; as,

Full of anger.

Void of reason.

Pers. And sometimes, but rarely, in the Genitive; as, nec longiores duode-denum pedum. Plip.

Num. 19. Let the following examples be observed and imitated: Multo melior, much better. Nihilo pejor, nothing worse. Major solito, greater than usual. Quo diligentior es, eo doctior evades, the more diligent you are, the more learned you will become. Quanto superbior, tanto vilior, the prouder, the less worth. Nihil Virgilio doctius, there is none more learned than Virgil.

Num. 21. NOTE 1. That distentus, gravidus, refertus; and orbis, vacuus, viduus, choose rather the ablative; indigus, compos, impos, the genitive.

NOTE 2. That some comprehend opus and usus, when they signify necessity, under this rule; as, quid opus est verbis? what need is there of words? Ovid. Nunc viribus usus, now there is need of strength. Virg.
But it is to be remarked that these are substantive-nouns, the very same with opus, operis, a work; usus, usus, use; and have the ablative after them, because of the preposition in, which is understood. Sometimes opus is an adjective indeclinable; as, dux nobis opus est, we stand in need of a leader. It is elegantly joined with the participle perfect; as, con-

II. REGIMEN VERBORUM.

§ 1. Personalium.

REG. I.

22 † SUM quoties possessionem, proprietatem, aut officium significat, regit genitivum; ut,

* Est † regis punire rebelles.

† Insipientis * est dicere, "non putaram."

† Militum * est suo duci parere.

23 ¶ Excipiuntur hi nominativi, meum, tuum, suum, nostrum, vestrum; ut, † Tuum * est id procurare.

REG. II.

24 * MISEREOR, miseresco, et satago regunt genitivum; ut,

* Miserere † civium tuorum.

* Satagit † rerum suarum.

REG. III.

25 EST pro habeo regit dativum personæ; ut,

* Est † mihi liber.

* Sunt † mihi libri.

II. GOVERNMENT OF VERBS.

§ 1. Of Personal Verbs.

RULE I.

SUM, when it signifies possession, property, or duty, governs the genitive; as,

It belongs to the king to punish rebels.

It is the property of a fool to say, "I had not thought."

It is the duty of soldiers to obey their general.

¶ These nominatives, meum, tuum, suum, nostrum, vestrum, are excepted; as,

It is your duty to manage that.

RULE II.

MISEREOR, miseresco, and satago, govern the genitive; as,

Take pity on your countrymen.

He hath his hands full at home.

RULE III.

EST, taken for habeo, (to have) governs the dative of a person; as,

I have a book.

I have books.

sulto, maturato, invento, facto, &c. opus est, we must advise, make haste, find out, do, &c.

Num. 23. To these last may be added possessive nouns; such as, regium, humanum, belluinum, and the like; as, humanum est errare, it is incident to man to err.

NOTE. That to all these is understood, officium, opus, negotium, or some other word to be gathered from the sentence; as, me Pompei totum esse scis, you know that I am wholly Pompey's, or in Pompey's interest.—Cic. i. e. amicum, factorem, or the like.

Num. 25. This is more elegant than habeo librum, or habeo libros.

REG. IV.

SUM pro affero regit duos dativos, unum personæ, alterum rei; ut,

* Est † mihi †† voluptati.

REG. V.

VERBUM significans commodum vel incommodum regit dativum; ut,

Fortuna * favet † fortibus.
† Nemini * noceas.

RULE IV.

SUM taken for affero (to 26 bring) governs two datives, the one of a person, and the other of a thing; as,

It is (brings) a pleasure to me.

RULE V.

A VERB signifying advantage or disadvantage governs the dative; as,

Fortune favours the brave.
Do hurt to no man.

So desum is used elegantly for careo; as, desunt mihi libri, for careo libris, I want books.

Num. 26. Note. That other verbs, such as, do, duco, verto, tribuo, habeo, relinquo, &c. may have two datives; as, hoc tibi laudi datur, you are praised for this. Ne mihi vitio vertas, do not blame me.

To this may be referred such expressions as these; est mihi nomen Joanni, my name is John; which is more elegant than, est mihi nomen Joannes or Joannis.

Num. 27. This is a very general rule, and (when we signify a thing to be acquired to any person or thing) almost common to all verbs. But in a more particular manner are comprehended under it,

- Verbs signifying,
1. To profit or hurt; as, commodo, proficio, placeo, consulo, noceo, officio. But laedo, and offendo govern the accusative.
 2. To favour, to help, and their contraries; as, faveo, annuo, arrideo, assentior, adstipulor, gratulor, ignosco, indulgeo, parco, adolor, plaudo, blandior, lenocinor, palpor, studeo, supplico, &c. Also, auxilior, adminiculor, subvenio, succurro, patrocinor, medeor: Also, derogo, detraho, invideo, &c. But juvo has the accusative.

 6. Verbs compounded with satis, bene, and male; as, satisfacio, benéficio, benedico, malefacio, maledico.
 7. Sum, with its compounds; except possum.
 8. Verbs compounded with these ten prepositions; ad, ante, con, in, inter, ob, post, præ, sub, and super; as, 1. Adsto, accumbo, acquiesco, assideo, adhareo, admoveo. 2. Antecello, anteo, anteverto. 3. Consono, commisceo, condono, commorior. 4. Illudo, immorior, inhæreo, insideo, inhio, innitor, invigilo, incumbo. 5. Interpono, intervenio, intersero. 6. Obrepro, obtrecto, occumbo. 7. Postpono, posthabeo. 8. Præco,

REG. VI.

28 VERBUM active significans regit accusativum; ut,

* Ama † Deum.

* Reverere † parentes.

29 † Recordor, memini, reminiscor, et obliviscor regunt accusativum vel genitivum; ut,

* Recordor † lectionis vel † lectionem.

* Obliviscor † injuriæ vel † injuriam.

VERBA activa alium unam cum accusativo casum regentia.

30 § 1. VERBA accusandi, damnandi, et absolvendi, cum accusativo personæ, regunt etiam genitivum criminis; ut,

* Arguit † me †† furti.

† Meipsum †† inertiae * condemnno.

† Illum †† homicidii * absolvunt.

RULE VI.

A VERB signifying actively governs the accusative; as,
Love God.

Reverence your parents.

Recordor, memini, reminiscor, and obliviscor govern the accusative or genitive; as,

I remember my lesson.

I forget an injury.

ACTIVE verbs governing another case together with the accusative.

1. VERBS of accusing, condemning, and acquitting, with the accusative of the person, govern also the genitive of the crime; as,

He accuses me of theft.

I condemn myself of laziness.

They acquit him of manslaughter.

stat for excellit, præluceo. 9. Succedo, submitto, subjicio. 10. Supersto, supervenio.

NOTE 1. That to, the sign of the dative, is frequently understood.

NOTE 2. That to is not always a sign of the dative; for, 1. Verbs of local motion; as, eo, venio, proficiscor: and, 2. These verbs, provoco, voco, invito, hortor, specto, pertineo, attineo, and such like, have the accusative with the preposition ad.

NUM. 28. NOTE. That neuter and intransitive verbs have sometimes an accusative after them. 1. Of their own or the like signification; as, vivere vitam, gaudere gaudium, sitire sanguinem, olere hircum. 2. When taken in a metaphorical sense; as, ardebat Alexin, i. e. vehementer amabat.

NUM. 30. 1. Verbs of accusing are, accuso, ago, appello, arcesso, arguo, alligo, astringo, defero, incuso, insimulo, postulo, &c.

2. Verbs of condemning are, damno, condemno, convinco, &c.

3. Verbs of absolving are, solvo, absolvo, libero, purgo, &c.

NOTE 1. That the genitive may be changed into the ablative, either with or without a preposition; as, purgo te hac culpa, or de hac culpa, I clear you of this fault. Eum de vi condemnnavit, he found him guilty of a riot.

§ 2. Verba comparandi, dandi, narrandi, et auferendi, regunt accusativum cum dativo; ut,

* Narras † fabulam †† surdo.

* Eripuit † me †† mortui.

§ 3. Verba rogandi et docendi duos admittunt accusativos, priorem personæ, posteriorem rei; ut,

* Posce † Deum †† veniam.

* Docuit † me †† grammaticam.

2. Verbs of comparing, 31 giving, declaring, and taking away, govern the accusative with the dative; as,

I compare Virgil to Homer.

Give every man his due.

You tell a story to a deaf man.

He rescued me from death.

3. Verbs of asking and 32 teaching admit of two accusatives, the first of a person, and the second of a thing; as,

Beg pardon of God.

He taught me grammar.

ANNOTATIO.

§ Quorum activa duos casus regunt, eorum passiva posteriorem retinent; ut,

The passives of such active 33 verbs as govern two cases, do still retain the last of them; as,

NOTE 2. That the genitive, properly speaking, is governed by some ablative understood, such as, crimine, pœna, actione, causa; as, accusare furti, i. e. crimine furti. Condemnare capitis i. e. pœna capitis.

NOTE 3. That crimine, pœna, actione, capite, morte, scarcely admit of a preposition.

Num. 31. 1. To verbs of comparing belong also verbs of preferring or postponing.

2. To verbs of giving belong verbs of receiving, promising, paying, sending, bringing.

3. To verbs of declaring belong verbs of explaining, shewing, denying, &c.

4. Verbs of taking away are, aufero, adimo, eripio, eximo, demo, surripio, detraho, tollo, excutio, extorqueo, arceo, defendo, &c.

NOTE 1. That many of these verbs govern the dative by Num. 27.

NOTE 2. That innumerable other verbs may have the accusative with the dative, when together with the thing done is also signified the person or thing, to or for, whom it is done; as, doce mihi filium, teach me my son. Cura mihi hanc rem, take care of this affair for me.

NOTE 3. That comparo, confero, compono, have frequently the ablative with cum.

Num. 32. NOTE 1. That among the verbs that govern two accusatives, are also reckoned the following:

1. Celo; as, cela hanc rem uxorem, conceal this from your wife. Plaut. But we can say also, celo te de hac re, and, celo tibi hanc rem.

* Accusor † furti.

Virgilius * comparatur † Homēro.

* Doceor † grammaticam.

I am accused of theft.

Virgil is compared to Homer.

REG. VII.

34 § PRETIUM rei a quovis verbo in ablativo regitur; ut,

* Emi librum † duobus assibus.

* Vendidit hic † auro patriam.

Demosthenes * docuit † talento.

35 † Excipiuntur hi genitivi, tanti, quanti, pluris, minōris; ut,

† Quanti * constitit?

Asse et † pluris.

36 * Verba æstimandi regunt hujusmodi genitivos, magni, parvi, nihili, &c. ut,

* Æstimo te † magni.

RULE VII.

THE price of a thing is governed in the ablativē by any verb; as,

I bought a book for two shillings.

This man sold his country for gold.

Demosthenes taught for a talent.

These genitives, tanti, quanti, pluris, minōris, are excepted; as,

How much cost it?

A shilling and more.

Verbs of valuing govern such genitives as these, magni, parvi, nihili, &c. ut,

I value you much.

2. Verbs of clothing; as, induit se calceos, he put on his shoes. But these have more commonly the ablativē of the thing without a preposition; as, vestit se purpura, he clothes himself with purple. Induo and exuo have frequently the person in the dative, and the thing in the accusative; as, thoracem sibi induit, he put on his breast-plate.

3. Moneo; as, id unum te moneo, I put you in mind of this one thing. But unless it is some general word, (as, hoc, illud, id, &c.) moneo, admoneo, commonefacio, have either the genitive, as, admoneo te officii, I put you in mind of your duty: Or the ablativē with de; as, de hac re te sæpius admonui, I have frequently warned you of this.

NOTE 2. That verbs of asking often change the accusative of the person into an ablativē with the preposition; as, oro, exoro, peto, postulo hoc a te, I entreat this of you: Some always; as, contendo, quero, scitor, sciscitor hoc a te. Finally, some have the accusative of the person and the ablativē of the thing with de; as, interrogo, consulo, percontor, te de hac re.

NUM. 35. NOTE. That if the substantive be expressed they are put in the ablativē; as, quanto pretio? minore mercede.

NUM. 36. 1. Verbs of valuing are, æstimo, pendo, facio, habeo, duco, puto, taxo.

2. The rest of the genitives are, minoris, minimi, tanti, quanti, pluris, maioris, plurimi, maximi, nauci, floci, pili, assis, tertuncii, hujus: Also, boni after facio and consulo.

- * Caret omni † culpa.

† Utor, abutor, fruor, fungor, potior, vescor, regunt ablativum; ut,

- * Utitur † fraude.
- * Abutitur † libris.

§ 2. Regimen Verborum Impersonalium.

REG. IX.

VERBUM impersonale regit dativum; ut,

- * Expedit † reipublicz.

† EXCEP. 1. Refert et interest genitivum postulant; ut,

- * Refert † patris.
- * Interest † omnium.

He has no fault.

Utor, abutor, fruor, fungor, potior, vescor, govern the ablative; as,

He uses deceit.
He abuses books.

§ 2. The Government of Impersonal Verbs.

RULE IX.

AN impersonal verb governs the dative; as,

It is profitable for the state.
No man is allowed to sin.

EXCEP. 1. Refert and interest require the genitive; as,

It concerns my father.
It is the interest of all.

NOTE 1. That we say also, æstimo magno, parvo, supple pretio.

NOTE 2. That Alvarus excludes majoris as wanting authority. But there is an example of it to be found in Phædrus, II. 5. 35.

Multo majoris alapez mecum veneunt.

Num. 37. Sometimes they have the genitive; as, egot eris, he wants money. Hor. Implentur veteris Bacchi, they are filled with old wine. Virg.

Num. 38. To these verbs add, nitor, gaudeo, muto, dono, munero, communico, victito, beo, fido, impertior, dignor, nascor, creor, afficio, consto, prosequor, &c.

NOTE. That potior sometimes governs the genitive; as, potiri hostium, to get his enemies into his power. Potiri rerum, to have the chief rule.

Num. 39. Such as these, accidit, contingit, evenit, conducit, expedit, lubet, libet, licet, placet, displicet, vacat, restat, præstat, liquet, nocet, dolet, sufficit, &c. Together with the dative, they have commonly an infinitive after them, which is supposed to supply the place of a nominative before them.

41 † At mea, tua, sua, nostra, vestra, ponuntur in accusativo plurali ; ut,

Non † mea * refert.

42 † EXCEP. 2. Hæc quinque, miseret, pœnitet, pudet, tædet, et piget, regunt accusativum personæ, cum genitivo rei ; ut, • Misêret † me †† tui.

• Pœnitet † me †† peccati.

• Tædet † me †† vitæ.

43 † EXCEP. 3. Hæc quatuor, decet, delectat, juvat, oportet, regunt accusativum personæ cum infinitivo ; ut, • Delectat † me †† studere.

Non * decet † te †† rixari.

§ 3. Regimen Infinitivi, Participiorum, Gerundiorum, et Supinorum.

REG. X.

44 UNUM verbum regit aliud in infinitivo ; ut,

• Cupio † discere.

REG. XI.

45 PARTICIPIA, gerundia, et supina, regunt casum suorum verborum ; ut,

• Amans † virtutem.

• Carens † fraude.

But mea, tua, sua, nostra, vestra, are put in the accusative plural ; as,

I am not concerned.

EXCEP. 2. These five, miseret, pœnitet, pudet, tædet, and piget, govern the accus. of a person with the genit. of a thing ; as,

I pity you.

I repent of my sin.

I am weary of my life.

EXCEP. 3. These four, decet, delectat, juvat, oportet, govern the accusative of the person with the infinitive ; as,

I delight to study. [scold.

It does not become you to § 3. The Government of the Infinitive, Participles, Gerunds, and Supines.

RULE X. . .

ONE verb governs another in the infinitive ; as,

I desire to learn.

RULE XI.

PARTICIPLES, gerunds, and supines, govern the case of their own verbs ; as,

Loving virtue.

Wanting guile.

Num. 42. NOTE. That this genitive is frequently turned into the infinitive ; as, pœnitet me peccasse ; tædet me vivere ; and so they fall in with the following rule.

Num. 43. NOTE. That oportet is elegantly joined with the subjunctive mood, ut being understood ; as, oportet facias, (you must do it) for operet te facere.

Attinet, pertinet, and spectat, when used impersonally (which rarely happens) have the accusative with ad, as was observed above, p. 103.

Num. 44. Sometimes it is governed by adj. as, cupidus et cupiens discere.

Gerundia.

1. Gerundium in dum nominativi casus cum verbo est regitur dativum ; ut,

* Vivendum est † mihi recte.

* Moriendum est † omnibus.

2. Gerundium in di regitur a substantivis vel adjectivis ; ut,

* Tempus † legendi.

* Cupidus † discendi.

3. Gerundium in do dativi casus regitur ab adjectivis utilitatem vel aptitudinem significantibus ; ut, Charta * utilis † scribendo.

4. Gerundium in dum accusativi casus regitur a prepositionibus ad vel inter ; ut,

Promptus * ad † audiendum.

Attentus * inter † docendum.

5. Gerundium in do ablativi casus regitur a prepositionibus, a, ab, de, e, ex, vel in ; ut,

Pœna * a † peccando abs-terret.

Gerunda.

1. The gerund in dum of 46 the nominative case, with the verb est governs the dative ; as, I must live well. All must die.

2. The gerund in di is go- 47 verned by substantives or adjectives ; as, Time of reading. Desirous to learn.

3. The gerund in do of the 48 dative case is governed by adjectives signifying usefulness or fitness ; as, Paper useful for writing.

4. The gerund in dum of the 49 accus. case is governed by the prepositions ad or inter ; as, Ready to hear. [ing. Attentive in time of teach-

5. The gerund in do of 50 the ablative case is governed by the prepositions, a, ab, de, e, ex, or in ; as, Punishment frightens from sinning.

NOTE. That the verb cœpit or cœperunt is sometimes understood ; as, omnes mihi invidere, (supple cœperunt,) they all began to envy me.

Num. 46. This lative is frequently understood ; as, cundum est, (supple nobis,) we must go.

NOTE. That this gerund always imports necessity, and the dative after it is the person on whom the necessity lies.

Num. 47. 1. The substantives are such as these ; amor, causa, gratia, studium, tempus, occasio, ars, otium, voluntas, cupido, &c.

2. The adjectives are generally verbals, mentioned Num. 14.

Num. 48. The adjective of fitness is often understood ; as, non est solvendo, he is not able to pay (supple aptus or par).

NOTE. That sometimes this gerund is governed by a verb ; as, Epidicum quærendo operam ludo, I'll endeavour to find out Epidicus. Plaut.

Num. 49. NOTE 1. That it hath sometimes, but very rarely, the prepositions ob and ante ; as, ob absolvendum munus, for finishing your task. Cic. Ante domandum, before they are tamed or broken, Virg. speaking of hor-

NOTE 2. That what was the gerund in dum of the nominative will

51 † Vel sine præpositione, ut ablativus modi vel causæ; ut,

Memoria † excolendo * au-getur. [lando.

* Defessus sum † ambu-

52 6. Gerundia accusativum regentia vertuntur eleganter in participia in dus, quæ cum suis substantivis in genere, numero, et casu concordant; ut,

Petendum est pacem.

Tempus petendi pacem.

Ad petendum pacem.

A petendo pacem.

Supina.

53 † 1. Supinum in um ponitur post verbum motus; ut,
: Abiit † deambulatum.

Or without a preposition as the ablativus of manner or cause;
as,

The memory is improved by exercising it.

I am wearied with walking.

6. Gerunds governing the accusative are elegantly turned into the participles in dus, which agree with their substantives in gender, number, and case; as,

Petenda est pax.

Tempus petendæ pacis.

Ad petendam pacem.

A petenda pace.

Supines.

1. The supine in um is put after a verb of motion; as,
He hath gone to walk.

verb est, fuit, &c. becomes the accusative with esse; as, omnibus morien-dum esse novimus, we know that all must die.

Num. 52. Add to these the gerunds of fungor, fruor, and potior.

These participles in dus are commonly called gerundives.

Notæ 1. That the substantive must always be of the same case that the gerund was of.

Notæ 2. That because of its noisy sound, the gerund in di is seldom changed into the genitive plural; but either the accusative is retained;
as, studio patres vestros videndi, rather than patrum vestrorum videndorum; or it is turned into the genitive plural without changing the gerund; as, patrum vestrorum videndi studio. Thus Valla and Farnabius; but see my Gram. Maj. vol. 2. p. 276.

Num. 53. The supine in um is elegantly used with the verb eo when we signify that one sets himself about the doing of a thing; as, in mea vita tu laudem is questum? are you going to advance your reputation at the hazard of my life? Ter. And this is the reason why this supine with iri taken impersonally supplies the place of the future of the infinitive passive.

SOME GENERAL REMARKS ON THE CONSTRUCTION OF PAR- TICIPLES, GERUNDS, AND SUPINES.

Notæ 1. That participles, gerunds, and supines have a two-fold construction; one, as they partake of the nature of verbs, by which they govern a certain case after them; another, as they partake of the nature of nouns, and consequently are subject to the same rules with them; thus,

1. A participle is always an adjec. agreeing with its substan. by Num. 1.

† 2. Supinum in u ponitur post nomen-adjectivum ; ut
* Facile † dictu.

§ 4. Constructio Circumstantialium.

1. Causa, Modus, et Instrumentum.

REG. XII.

† CAUSA, modus, et instrumentum ponuntur in ablativo ; ut,

- * Palleo † metu.
- * Fecit † suo more.
- * Scribo † calámo.

2. The supine in u is put 54 after an adjective-noun ; as,
Easy to tell or to be told.

§ 4. The Construction of Circumstances (a).

1. The Cause, Manner, and Instrument.

RULE XII.

THE cause, manner, and 55 instrument are put in the ablative ; as,
I am pale for fear.
He did it after his own way.
I write with a pen.

2. A gerund is a substantive, and construed as follows. (1.) That in dum of the nominative, by Num. 2. Of the accusative by Num. 68. (2.) That in di, by Num. 11 or 14. (3.) That in do of the dative, by Num. 16. Of the ablative, by Num. 69, 71, or 53.

3. A supine is also a substantive. (1.) That in um governed by ad understood, by Num. 68. (2.) That in u governed by in understood, by Num. 71.

NOTE 2. That the present of the infinitive active, the first supine, and the gerund in dum, with the preposition ad, are thus distinguished:—The supine is used after verbs of motion ; the infinitive after any other verbs ; the gerund in dum with ad after adjective-nouns. But these last are frequently to be met with after verbs of motion ; and poets use also the infinitive after adjectives.

NOTE 3. That the present of the infinitive passive, and the last supine are thus distinguished : The supine hath always an adjective before it ; which the infinitive hath not, unless (as I said) among poets.

Num. 55. NOTE 1. That the cause is known by the question cur ? or quare ? why ? wherefore ? &c. The manner by the question quomodo ? how ? And the instrument by the question quocum ? wherewith ?

(a) Adjective-nouns, but especially verbs, have frequently some circumstances going along with them in discourse ; the most considerable whereof, with respect to construction, are these five : 1. The cause or reason why any thing is done. 2. The way or manner how it is done. 3. The instrument or thing wherewith it is done. 4. The place where. 5. The time when it is done.

NOTE 2. That the preposition is frequently expressed with the cause and manner ; as, præ gaudio, for joy. Propter amorem, for love. Ob culpam, for a fault. Cum summo labore, with great labour. Per dedecus, with disgrace. But the preposition (cum) is never added to the instrument ; for we cannot say, scribo cum calamo ; cum oculis vidi.

NOTE 3. But here we must carefully distinguish between the instrument and what is called ablativus comitatus, or, ablative of concomitance. i. e. signifying that something was in company with another ; for

REG. XIII.

56 ‡ 1. NOMEN oppidi ponitur in genitivo, cum questio fit per ubi; ut,

* Vixit † Romæ.

* Mortuus est † Londīni.

57 ‡ EXCEP. Si vero sit tertiæ declinationis, aut pluralis numeri, in ablativo effertur; ut,

* Habitat † Carthagine.

* Studuit † Parisiis.

58 § 2. Cum questio fit per quo, nomen oppidi in accusativo regitur; ut,

* Venit † Edinburgum.

* Profectus est † Athēnas.

59 ‡ 3. Si quærat per unde vel qua, nomen oppidi ponitur in ablativo; ut,

* Discessit † Aberdonia.

* Laodicæa iter † faciebat.

2. Place.

RULE XIII.

THE name of a town is put in the genitive, when the question is made by ubi (where); as,

He lived at Romæ.

He died at London.

EXCEP. But if it be of the third declension, or of the plural number, it is expressed in the ablative; as,

He dwells at Carthage.

He studied at Paris.

2. When the question is made by quo (whither), the name of a town is governed in the acc. as,

He came to Edinburgh.

He went to Athens.

3. If the question be made by unde (whence), or qua (by or through what place), the name of a town is put in the ablat. as,

He went from Aberdeen.

He went through Laodicea.

the preposition (cum) is generally expressed; as, ingressus est cum gladio, he entered with a sword; i. e. having a sword with him or about him.

NOTE 4. That to cause some refer the matter of which any thing is made; as, clypeus ære fabricatus, a shield made of brass. But (except with the poets) the preposition is for the most part expressed.

NOTE 5. That to manner some refer the adjunct, i. e. something joined to another thing; as, terra amena floribus, a land pleasant with flowers. Mons nive candidus, a hill white with snow.

NOTE 6. That to instrument some refer; conficior dolore, inedia, &c. Prosequor odio, amore. &c. Afficio te, honore, contumelia, &c. Lacesso verbis asperis, &c.

Num. 56, &c. NOTE 1. That the preposition is frequently added to names of towns (especially when the question is quo? unde? or qua?) and sometimes omitted to names of countries, provinces, &c.

¶ These rules concerning names of towns may be thus expressed:

The name of a town after { IN or AT
TO or UNTO
FROM or THROUGH } is put { Genitive or Ablative:
Accusative.
Ablative.

When it is of the third declension, or the plural number.

‡ 4. Domus et rus eodem modo quo oppidorum nomina construantur; ut, 4. Domus et rus are constructed the same way as names of towns; as,

Manet domi, he stays at home. Domum revertitur, he returns home. Domo accersitus sum, I am called from home. Vivit rure or ruri, he lives in the country. Abiit rus, he is gone to the country. Rediit rure, he is returned from the country.

5. Nominibus regionum, provinciarum et aliorum locorum, non dictis, præpositio fere additur; ut, 5. To names of countries, provinces, and other places, not mentioned, the preposition is generally added; as,

UBI? Natus in Scotia, in Fifa, in urbe, &c.

QUO? Abiit in Scotiam, in Fifam, in (vel ad) urbem, &c.

UNDE? Rediit e Scotia, e Fifa, ex urbe, &c.

QUA? Transit per Scotiam, per Fifam, per urbem, &c.

ANNOTATIO.

‡ Distantia unius loci ab alio ponitur in accusativo, interdum et in ablativo; ut, The distance of one place from another is put in the accusative, and sometimes in the ablative; as,

*Glasgua * distat Edinburgo triginta † millia passuum.* Glasgow is thirty miles distant from Edinburgh.
‡ Iter v. † itinere unius diei. One day's journey.

3. *Tempus.*3. Time.

REG. XIV.

RULE XIV.

‡ 1. TEMPUS ponitur in ablativo, cum quæstio fit per quando; ut, 1. TIME is put in the ablative, when the question is made by quando (when); as,
* Venit † hora tertia. He came at three o' clock.

But when at signifies about or near a place, we make use of the preposition ad; as, bellum quod ad Trojam gesserat. Virg.

NOTE 2. That humi, militia, and belli are also used in the genitive, when the question is made by ubi? as, procumbit humi, he lies down on the ground. Domi militiaque una fuimus, we were together both at home and abroad, or, in peace and war. Ter. Belli domique agitabatur, was managed both in peace and war. Sal.

NOTE 3. That when the name of a town is put in the genitive in urbe is understood, and therefore we cannot say, natus est Romæ urbis nobilis, but urbe nobili.

Num. 63 and 64. These two rules may be thus expressed:

- 64 ‡ 2. Cum questio fit per quamdiu, tempus ponitur in accusativo vel ablativo, sed sæpius in accusativo; ut,
 * Mansit paucos † dies.
 Sex † mensibus * abfuit.

2. When the question is made by quamdiu (how long), time is put in the accusative or ablative, but oftener in the accusative; as,
 He staid a few days.
 He was away six months.

De Ablativo Absoluto.

REG XV.

- 65 ‡ SUBSTANTIVUM cum participio, quorum casus a nullo alia dictione pendet, ponuntur in ablativo absoluto; ut,
 * Sole † oriente fugiunt tenebræ.
 * Opere † peracto, ludemus.

Of the Ablative Absolute.

RULE XV.

A SUBSTANTIVE with a participle, whose case depends upon no other word, are put in the ablative absolute; as,
 The sun rising (or whilst the sun rises) darkness flies away.
 Our work being finished (or when our work is finished) we will play.

III. CONSTRUCTIO VOCUM INDECLINABILIIUM.

1. Adverbiorum.

- 66 ‡ 1. ADVERBIA junguntur verbis, participiis, nominibus, et aliis adverbis; ut, Bene scribit.

III. THE CONSTRUCTION OF WORDS INDECLINABLE.

1. Of Adverbs.

1. ADVERBS are joined to verbs, participles, nouns, and other adverbs; as,
 He writes well.

1. Nouns that denote a precise term of time are put in the ablative.

2. Nouns that denote continuance of time are put in the accus. or abla.

NUM. 65. NOTE 1. This abl. is called absolute or independent, because it is not directed or determined by any other word; for if the substantive (which is principally to be regarded) have a word before that should govern it, or a verb following after, to which it should be a nominative then the rule does not take place.

NOTE 2. That having, being, or a word ending in ing, are the ordinary signs of this ablative.

NOTE 3. That (to prevent our mistaking the true substantive) when a participle perfect is Englished by having, we are carefully to advert whether it be passive or deponent. If it be passive, we are to change it into being, its true English. If it be deponent, there needs no change, for having is the proper English of it. The use of this note will appear by the following example:

Fortiter pugnans.
 Servus egregie fidelis.
 Satis bene.

Fighting bravely. [ful.
 A servant remarkably faith-
 Well enough.

† 2. Adverbia quædam temporis, loci, et quantitatis, regunt genitivum; ut,

- Pridie illius † diei.
- Ubique † gentium.
- Satis est † verborum.

† 3. Quædam adverbia derivata regunt casum primitivorum; ut,

† Omnium * elegantissima loquitur.

Vivere * convenienter † naturæ.

2. Some adverbs of time, place, and quantity, govern the genitive; as,

- The day before that day.
- Every where.
- There is enough of words.

3. Some derivative adverbs govern the case of their primitives; as,

- He speaks the most elegantly of all.
- To live agreeably to nature.

2. Præpositionum.

2. Of Prepositions.

1. PRÆPOSITIONES ad, apud, ante, &c. accusativum regunt; ut,

- Ad † patrem.

2. Præpositiones a, ab, abs, &c. regunt ablativum; ut,

- A † patre.

3. Præpositiones in, sub, super, et subter, regunt accusativum, cum motus ad locum significatur; ut,

Eo * in † scholam.

* Sub † mœnia tendit. Virg.

Incidit * super † agmina. Id.

Ducit * subter † fastigia tecti. Id.

1. THE prepositions ad, 69 apud, ante, &c. govern the accusative; as,

To the father.

2. The preposit. a, ab, abs, 70 &c. govern the accusative; as,

From the father.

3. The prepositions in, 71 sub, super, and subter, govern the accusative when motion, to a place is signified, as,

I go into the school.

He goes under the walls.

It fell upon the troops.

He brings (him) under the roof of the house.

James, having said these things, departed, } Jacobus hæc locutus abijt. Dep.
 James, these things being said, departed, } Jacobus his dictis abijt. Pass.

Having promised a great reward, } pallicitus magnam mercedem. Dep.
 A great reward being promised, } magna mercede promissa. Pass.

NOTE 4. That when there is no participle expressed in Latin, existente (being) is understood; as, me puero, I being a boy Saturno rege, Saturn being king. Civitate nonnumquam libera, the state not being yet free.

72 ¶ At si motus vel quies in loco significetur, in et sub regunt ablativum; super et subter vel accusativum vel ablativum; ut,	¶ But if motion or rest in a place be signified, in and sub govern the ablative; super and subter either the accusative or ablative; as,
Sedeo vel discorro * in † schola.	I sit or run up and down in the school.
Recūbo vel ambūlo * sub † umbra.	I lie or walk under the shadow.
Sedens * super † arma. Vir.	Sitting above the arms.
† Fronde * super viridi. Id.	Upon the green grass.
Venæ * subter † cutem dispersæ. Plin.	The veins dispersed under the skin.
* Subter † littore. Catul.	Beneath the shore.

NOTE 5. That the participle may be resolved into dum, cum, quando, si, postquam, &c. (while, seeing, when, if, after,) with the verb, either in English or Latin.

¶ The prepositions, with the cases they govern, are contained in the following verses.

1. Hæ quantum adasciscunt casum sibi præposituræ.
Ad, penes, adversum, cis, citra, adversus, et extra,
Ultra, post, præter, juxta, per, pone, secundum,
Ergo, apud, ante, secus, trans, supra, propter, et intra,
Queis addas contra, circum, circa, inter, ob, infra.
2. Hæ sextum poscunt; a, cum, tenus, abs, ab, et absque,
Atque palam, pro, præ, clam, de, e, ex, sine, coram.
3. Sub, super, in, subter, quantum sextumque requirunt.

NOTE 1. That versus and usque are put after their cases; as, Italiam versus, towards Italy. Oceanum usque, as far as the ocean. But (as we have already observed, page 80) these are properly adverbs, the preposition ad being understood.

NOTE 2. That tenus is also put after its case; as, mento tenus, up to the chin.

NOTE 3. That tenus governs the genitive plural: 1. When the word wants the singular; as, Cumarum tenus, as far as (the town) Cumæ.— 2. When we speak of things of which we have naturally but two; as, crurum tenus, up to the legs.

NOTE 4. That a and e are put before consonants, ab and ex before vowels and consonants, abs before t and q.

NOTE 5. That subter hath very rarely the ablative, and only among poets.

NOTE 6. That in English in is commonly the sign of the ablative; into of the accusative.

NOTE 7. In for erga, contra, per, supra, ad, &c. governs the accusative; as, amor in patriam. Quid ego in te commisi? Crescit in dies singulos. Imperium regum in proprios greges. Hor. Pisces in canam empti. But in for inter governs the ablative; as, in amicis habere. Sall.

Sub for circa governs the accusative; as, sub canam.

Super for ultra, præter, and inter, governs the accusative; as, super Garamantas. Virg. Super gratiam suam. Sall. In sermone super canam.

†. For de, it governs the ablative; as, super hac re nimis. Cic.

4. ¶ Præpositio in compositione eundem sæpe casum regit quem extra ; ut,

* Adeamus † scholam.

* Exeamus † schola.

3. Interjectionum.

§ 1. INTERJECTIONES
O, heu, et proh, regunt vocativum, interdum accusativum ; ut,

* O formōse † puer !

* Heu † me misērum !

§ 2. Hei et væ regunt dativum ; ut,

* Hei † mihi !

* Væ † vobis !

4. Conjunctionum.

† 1. CONJUNCTIONES et, ac, atque, nec, neque, aut, vel, et quædam aliæ, connectunt similes casus et modos ; ut,

Honōra † patrem * et † matrem.

Nec † scribit, * nec † legit.

2. Ut, quo, licet, ne, utīnam, et dummōdo subjunctivo modo fere semper adhærent ; ut,

Lego * ut † discam.

* Uīnam † sapēres.

4. ¶ A preposition often- 73 times governs the same case in composition that it does without it ; as,

Let us go to the school.

Let us go out of the school.

3. Of Interjections.

1. THE interjections O, 74
heu, et proh, govern the vocative, and sometimes the accusative ; as,

O fair boy !

Ah wretch that I am !

2. Hei and væ govern the 75
dative ; as,

Ah me !

Wo to you !

4. Of Conjunctions.

THE conjunctions et, ac, 76
atque, nec, neque, aut, vel, and some others, couple like cases and moods ; as,

Honour your father and mother.

He neither writes nor reads.

2. Ut, quo, licet, ne, utī- 77 nam, and dummōdo are for the most part joined with the subjunctive mood ; as,

I read that I may learn.

I wish you were wise.

Num. 73. NOTE. That this rule only takes place when the preposition may be dissolved from the verb, and put before the case by itself ; as, alloquor patrem i. e. loquor ad patrem. And even then the preposition is frequently repeated ; as, exire e finibus suis. Cæs.

Num. 76. To these add quam, nisi, præterquam, an, and adverbs of likeness. The reason of this construction is because the words so coupled depend all upon the same word, which is expressed to one of them, and understood to the other.

Num. 77. To these add all indefinite words, that is, interrogatives, whether nouns, pronouns, adverbs, or conjunctions, when taken in a do-

EXPLANATION.

ALL construction is either TRUE or APPARENT, or (as grammarians express it) JUST or FIGURATIVE. TRUE construction is founded upon the essential properties of words, and is almost the same in all languages. APPARENT construction entirely depends upon custom ; which either for elegance or despatch, leaves out a great many words otherwise necessary to make a sentence perfectly full and grammatical. The first is comprised in these few fundamental rules, and more fully branched out in the larger syntax. The other is also interspersed through the larger syntax, but distinguished from that which is true by a (+).

The cases mentioned in the rules of the larger syntax immediately discover the rules of this summary to which they respectively belong ; those that are true without any ellipsis ; those that are figurative by having their ellipsis supplied as follows, as they are numbered in the margin.

To RULE II, are reduced Num. 13, supple negotium. Num. 14 and 47, sup. de causa, gratia, or in re, negotio. Num. 15, sup. e numero. Num. 21, sup. de negotio. Num. 22 and 23, sup. officium, negotium, &c. Num. 24, sup. (1) sat. taken from the verb ; (2) de causu, &c. Num. 29, sup. memoriam, notitiam, verba, &c. Num. 30, sup. de crimine, pana, &c. Num. 35 and 36, sup. pro re, or pretio aris. Num. 40, sup. inter negotia, and res [fert] se ad negotia. Num. 42, sup. res, negotium, &c. Num. 56, sup. in urbe. Num. 60, [domi] sup. in adibus. Num. 66, these adverbs seem to be taken for substantive-nouns.

To RULE III, is reduced Num. 73, sup. malum est ; or these interjections are used as substantives.

To RULE IV, belong Num. 18, 53, and 62, sup. ad. Num. 33, sup. quod ad. Num. 41, i. e. est inter mea negotia; refert [or res fert] se ad meu negotia, &c. Num. 58, sup. ad or in. Num. 64, sup. per. Num. 73, sup. sentio, lugeo, &c.

Num. 34, sup. pro. Num. 37, 38, sup. a, ab, de, e, ex. Num. 51, and 55, sup. præ, cum, a, ab, e, ex, &c. Num. 54, sup. in, or de. Num. 57, sup. in. Num. 59, sup. a, ab, e, ex. Num. 62, sup. in. Num. 64, sup. in, or pro. Num. 65, sup. sub, cum, a, ab.

NOTE 1. That under verbs must also be comprehended participles, gerunds, and supines; because the general signification of the verb is included in them.

NOTE 2. That as a consequence of this, a learned grammarian ingeniously supposes that the dative and infinitive are always governed by a verb, and, that when they seem to be governed by a noun, the participle existens is understood; as, utilis (existens) bello. Pollio prædium (existens) reis. Dignus (existens) amari.

NOTE 3. That the vocative is properly no part of a sentence, but the case by which we excite one to hear or execute what we say. Therefore when the vocative is put before the imperative, as frequently happens, the nominative tu, or vos is understood; and that even though these words be already expressed in the vocative; as, tu Jacobe lege, i. e. O tu Jacobe, tu lege.

NOTE 4. That the vocative is sufficient of itself, and does not necessarily require the interjection O. See Vossius, lib. 7, cap. 69, and Sanctius, lib. 4, de Ellipsi Verb. Audio, et Narro.

CHAP II.

OF EXPOSITION OR RESOLUTION.

EXPOSITION or RESOLUTION is the unfolding of a sentence, and placing all the parts of it, whether expressed or understood, in their proper order, that the true sense and meaning of it may appear.

I. A SENTENCE is either simple or compound.

1. A simple sentence is that which hath one finite verb in it.

2. A compound sentence is that which hath two or more such verbs in it, joined together by some couples.

These couples are of four sorts. 1. The relative qui. 2. Some comparative words, such as, tantus, quantus; talis, qualis; tam, quam, &c.

3. Indefinite words (see page 85, 86, and 113). 4. Conjunctions.

In a simple sentence there are two things to be considered. 1. Its essential. 2. Its accidental parts.

(1.) The essential parts of a sentence are a nominative and a verb.

(2.) The accidental parts are of four kinds. 1. Such as excite attention, as the vocative and exciting particles; as, O, en, ecce, heus, &c. 2. Such as serve to introduce a sentence, or to shew its dependence upon what was said before; as, jam, hactenus, quandoquidem, cum, dum, interea, &c. 3. Such as limit the general and indefinite signification either of the nominative or verb, and these are substantive-nouns. 4. Such as qualify explain them, viz. adjectives, adverbs, and prepositions, with their cases. Sometimes a part of a compound sentence supplies the place of those two last kinds of words.

II. The order of words in a sentence is either natural or artificial.

1. Natural order is when the words of a sentence naturally follow one another in the same order with the conceptions of our minds.

Artificial order is when words are so arranged as to render them most agreeable to the ear, but so as the sense be not thereby obscured.

III. A sentence may be resolved from the artificial into the natural order by the following rules.

1. Take the vocative, exciting, and introductory words where they are found.

2. The nominative.

3. Words limiting or explaining it, i. e. words agreeing with, or governed by it, or by another successively (till you come to the verb) where they are found.

4. The verb.

5. Words limiting or explaining it, &c. where they are found, to the end of the sentence.

6. Supply every where the words that are understood.

7. If the sentence be compound, take the parts of it severally, as they depend upon one another, proceeding with each of them as before.

EXAMPLE. Vale igitur, mi Cicero, tibi que persuade esse te quidem mihi carissimum; sed multo fore cariorum, si talibus monumentis præceptisque latabere. Cic. Off. lib. 3.

Farewell then my (son) Cicero, and assure yourself that you are indeed very dear unto me; but shall be much dearer, if you shall take delight in such writings and instructions.

This compound sentence is resolved into these five simple sentences.

[1.] Igitur mi (filii) Cicero, (tu) vale, [2.] et (tu) persuade tibi te esse quidem carissimum (filium) mihi; [3.] sed (tu persuade tibi te) fore cariorum (filium mihi in) multo (negotio), [4.] si (tu) latabere talibus monumentis, [5.] et (si tu latabere talibus) præceptis.

NOTE 1. That interrogative words stand always first in a sentence, unless a preposition come before them.

NOTE 2. That negative words stand immediately before the verb.

NOTE 3. That relatives are placed before the word by which they are governed, unless it be a preposition.

NOTE 4. That the subjunctive mood is used in compound sentences.

NOTE 5. That the parts of a compound sentence are separated from one another by these marks called interjections. 1. Those that are smaller, named clauses, by this mark [,], called a comma. 2. Those that are greater, named members, by this mark [:], called a colon, or this [;], called a semicolon. 3. When a sentence is thrown in, that has little or no connexion with the rest, it is inclosed within what we call a parenthesis, marked thus ().

But when the sentence, whether simple or compound, is fully ended, if it be a plain affirmation or negation, it is closed with this mark [.] called a point. If a question be asked, with this mark [?] called a point of interrogation. If wonder or some other sudden passion be signified, with this mark [!], called a point of admiration.

PART IV.

OF PROSODY.

PROSODY teaches the quantity of syllables.

The quantity of a syllable is the space of time taken up in pronouncing it.

That part of grammar which treats of the quantity and accent of syllables, and the measures of verse is called PROSODY.

Syllables, with respect to their quantity are either long or short.

A long syllable in pronouncing requires double the time of a short ; as, tēndĕrĕ.

Some syllables are COMMON.

A common syllable is that which, in verse, is sometimes long, and sometimes short ; as the second syllable in volucris.

A vowel is said to be long or short by nature, which is always so by custom.

In polysyllables or long words, the last syllable except one is called the penultima, or by contraction, the penult, and the last syllable except two, the antepenultima.

When the quantity of a syllable is not fixed by some particular rule, it is said to be long or short by AUTHORITY, that is, according to the usage of the poets. Thus le in lēgo is said to be short by authority, because it is always made short by the Latin poets.

In most Latin words of one or two syllables, according to our manner of pronouncing, we can hardly distinguish by the ear a long syllable from a short. Thus le in lēgo and lēgi seems to be sounded equally long ; but when we pronounce them in composition, the difference is obvious ; thus, perlēgo, perlēgi.

The rules of quantity are either general or special. The former apply to all syllables, the latter only to some certain syllables.

GENERAL RULES.

1. A vowel before another vowel is short ; as, mĕus, alius ; so nihil, h in verse being considered only as a breathing. In like manner in English, crĕate, bĕhave.

EXCEP. 1. I is long in fio, fiĕbam, &c. unless when followed by r ; as, fieri, fierim.

EXCEP. 2. E having an i before and after it, in the fifth declension, is long ; as, speciĕi. So is the first syllable in āer, dīus, ēheu, and the penultima in aulāi, terrāi, &c. in Pompĕi, Cāi, and such like words ; but we sometimes find Pompei in two syllables.

EXCEP. 3. The first syllable in one and Diana is common ; so likewise is the penult of genitives in ius ; as, illius, unius, &c. to be read long in prose. Alius in the genitive is always long ; alterius, short.

In Greek words, a vowel before an other is sometimes short ; as, Danæ, idæa, Simōis, &c. sometimes long ; as, Lycæon, Cytheræa, Medæa, Darius, Amphion, Ixion, elegia, Antiochia, Alexandria, &c. But chorea, platea, canopeum, and Malea, a proper name, are common.

In English it is also often lengthened ; as in science, idæa.

2. A vowel before two consonants, or before a double consonant, is long (by position, as it is called) ; as, arma, fallo, axis, gaza, māior ; the compounds of jugum excepted ; as, bijūgus, quadrijūgus, &c.

When the foregoing word ends in a short vowel, and the following begins with two consonants or a double one, that vowel is sometimes lengthened by position ; as,

Ferte citi flammæ, date vela, scandite muros. Virg.

But this rarely occurs.

A vowel before a mute and a liquid is common ; as the first syllable in agris, and the middle in pharetra, podagra ; but in prose we usually pronounce it short.

To make this rule hold, three things are requisite. The vowel must be naturally short, the mute must go before the liquid, and be in the same syllable with it. Thus, a in patris is made common in verse, because a in pater is naturally short, or always so by custom ; but a in matris is always long, because long by nature or custom in mater. In like manner the penult in salūbris, ambulācrum, is always long : because they are derived from salus, salūtis, ambulātum. So a in arte, ablus, &c. is long by position, because the mute and the liquid are in different syllables.

L and r only are considered as liquids in Latin words ; m and n do not take place except in Greek words.

3. A contracted syllable is long ; as, cōgo, for coāgo ; alius, for aliius ; tibicen, for tibiicen ; it for iit ; sōdes, for si audes ; nōlo, for non volo ; bigæ, for bijūgæ, &c.

4. A diphthong is always long ; as, aurum, Cæsar, Eubœa, &c. Only præ in composition, before a vowel, is short ; as, præire.

We often find two vowels in the same syllable short ; as, linguimus, sanguinis, &c. but these commonly are not reckoned diphthongs, perhaps improperly.

In English we pronounce several of the diphthongs short, by sinking the sound of one vowel ; but then there is properly no diphthong.

SPECIAL RULES.

I. Concerning the FIRST and MIDDLE SYLLABLES.

Preterites and Supines of Two Syllables.

5. Preterites of two syllables lengthen the former syllable ; as, Vēni, vīdi, vīci.

Except these six, bībi, scīdi, from scindo ; fīdi, from findo ; tūli, dēdi, stēti.

6. Supines of two syllables lengthen the former syllable ; as, Vīsum, cāsum, mōtum.

Preterites Doubled.

7. Preterites which double the first syllable, have both the first syllables short ; as, cēcīdi, tētīgi, pēpūli, pēpēri, dīdīci, tūtūdi ; except cēcīdi, from cædo ; pēpēdi, from pēdo ; and when two consonants intervene ; as, fēfēlli, tētēndi, &c.

INCREASE OF NOUNS.

A noun is said to increase, when it has more syllables in any of the oblique cases than in the nominative ; as, rex, rēgis. Here re is called the increase or crement, and goes through all the other cases. The last syllable is never esteemed a clement.

Some nouns have a double increase, that is, increase by more syllables than one ; as, iter, itīnēris.

A noun in the plural is said to increase, when in any case it has more syllables than the genitive singular ; as, gener, genēri, genērōrum.

Nouns of the first, fourth, and fifth declensions, do not increase in the singular number, unless when one vowel comes before another ; as, fructus, fructūi ; res, rēi ; which fall under Rule 1.

Second Declension.

8. Nouns of the second declension which increase, shorten the penultima ; as, gener, genēri ; vir, vīri ; satur, satūri ; except Iber, Ibēri ; and its compound, Celtiber, Celtibēri.

L

9. Nouns of the third declension which increase, make a and o long, e i and u short; as, pietātis, honōris; muliēris, lapīdis, murmuris.

The chief exceptions from this rule are marked under the formation of the genitive in the third declension. But here perhaps it may be proper to be more particular.

1. Nouns in x, which have the genitive in gis, shorten the crement ; conjux, -ūgis ; remex, -īgis ; Allobrox, -ōgis ; Phryx, Phrygis. But lex, lēgis ; and rex, rēgis, are long ; and likewise frūgis.

Increase of the Plural Number.

10. Nouns of the plural number which increase, make a e and o long ; but shorten i and u ; as, musārum, rērum, dominōrum ; regibus, portibus ; except bobus or bubus, contracted for bōvibus.

INCREASE OF VERBS.

A verb is said to increase, when any part has more syllables than the second person singular of the present of the indicative active ; as, amas, amāmus, when the second syllable ma is the increase or crement ; for the last syllable is never called by that name.

A verb often increases by several syllables ; as, amas, amābāmini ; in which case it is said to have a first, second, or third increase.

11. In the increase of verbs, a e and o are long, i and u short ; docēre, amātōte ; legimus, sūmus, volūmus.

Except do and its compounds of the first conjugation, which have the first increase short; as, dāre, dāmus, dābāmus, circundāre, venundābo, &c.

The poets sometimes shorten dēdērunt and stētērunt, and lengthen rimus and ritis, in the future of the subjunctive; as, Transieritis aquas. Ov. All the other exceptions from this rule are marked in the formation of the verb.

The first or middle syllables of words, which do not come under any of the foregoing rules, are said to be long or short by authority; and their quantity can only be discovered from the usage of the poets, which is the most certain of all rules.

In the first and middle syllables of words, however, the most frequent mistakes in quantity are committed. They therefore merit particular attention.

Remarks on the Quantity of some other First and Middle Syllables of Words.

1. Patronymics in ides and ades usually shorten the penult; as, Priamides, Atlantiades, &c. Unless they come from nouns in eus; as, Pelides, Tydides, &c.

Adjectives in acus, icus, idus, and imus, for the most part shorten the penult; as, Ægyptiācus, academīcus, lepīdus, legītīmus; also superlatives; as, fortissimū, &c. Except opācus, amīcus, aprīcus, pudīcus, medicus, postīcus, fīdus, infīdus, (but perfidus of per and fīdes, is short) bīmus, quadrīmus, patrīmus, matrīmus, opīmus; and two superlatives, īmus, prīmus.

4. Adjectives in alis, anus, arus, ivus, orus, osus, lengthen the penult; as, dotālis, urbānus, avārus, æstīvus, decōrus, arenōsus. Except barbārus, opipārus.

5. Verbal adjectives in ilis shorten the penult; as, agīlis, facilis, &c. But derivatives from nouns usually lengthen it; as, anīlis, civilis, herīlis, &c. To these add, exilis, subtilis; and names of months, Aprīlis, quintīlis, sextilis. 8. Adverbs in tim lengthen the penult ; as, oppidātum, virktim, tribūtum. Except affātum, perpētum, and stātum.

9. Desideratives in urio shorten the antepenultima, which, in the second and third person, is the penult ; as, esūrio, esūris, esūrit ; but other verbs in urio lengthen that syllable ; as, ligūrio, ligūris ; scatūrio, scatūris, &c.

II. FINAL SYLLABLES.

A in the end of a word not declined by cases is long ; as, amā, frustrā, prætoreā, ergā, intrā ; except itā, quā, ejā, postea, putā (adverb), and sometimes, though more rarely, the prepositions contrā, uktrā, and the compounds of ginta ; as, trīgintā, &c.

B D L M R T

17. B, D, L, M, R, and T, in the end of a word, make the foregoing vowel short; as, āb, apūd, semēl, prēcōr, caput.

M final anciently made the foregoing vowel short; as, militum octo, Ennius. But by later poets, m in the end of a word is always cut off, when the next word begins with a vowel; thus, milit' octo; except in compound words; as, circūmago, circūmeo.

The following words are long; sāl, sōl, nīl, pār, fār, lār, nār, cūr, fūr; also nouns which have eris in the genitive; cratēr, vēr, lbēr; likewise, aēr, æthēr; to which add Hebrew names, as, Jōb, Daniēl, David.

EXCEP. 4. Tethys is sometimes long, and nouns in ys, which have likewise yn in the nominative; as, Phorcys, Trachys.

The last syllable of every verse is common; or, as some think, necessarily long, on account of the pause or suspension of the voice, which usually follows it in pronunciation.

THE QUANTITY OF DERIVATIVE AND COMPOUND WORDS.

DERIVATIVES.

21. Derivatives follow the quantity of their primitives; as,

Amicus from āmo .		Exūlo from exul ūlis .
Auctiōnor auctio -ōnis .		Pāvidus pāveo .
Auctōro auctor -ōris .		Quirīto quiris -itis .
Audītor audītum .		Radīcor radix -icis .
Auspīcor auspex -icis .		Sospīto sospes -itis .
Caupōnor caupo -ōnis .		Nātura nātus .

Decōrus decor -ōris .		Decōro decus -ōris .

EXCEPTIONS.

1. Long from short.

Dēni from dēcem .	Suspīcio from suspīcor .	Mōbilis from mōveo .
Fōmes fōveo .	Sēdes sēdeo .	Hūmor hūmus .
Hūmanus hōmo .	Sēcus sēcus .	Jūmentum jūvo , &c.
Rēgula rēgo .	Pēnuria pēnus .

2. Short from long.

Nōta from nōtus .	Lūcerna from lūceo .
Vādum vādo .	Dux , dūcis dūco .
Fīdes fīdo .	Stābilis stābam .
Sōpor sōpio .	Dītio dis , dītis .

COMPOUNDS.

22. Compounds follow the quantity of the simple words which compose them; as, dēdūco of dē and dūco. So prōfēro, antēfēro, consōlor, dēnōto, dēpēcūlor, dēprāvo, despēro, despūmo, desquāmo, ēnōdo, ērūdio, exūdo, incēro, inhūmo, investigo, pręgravo, pręnato, rēlēro, apparo, appāreo, concāvus, pręgravis, dēsōlo, suffōco, diffīdit from diffīndo, and diffīdit from diffīdo, indīco and indīco, permānet from permāneo, and permānet from permāneo, effōdit in the present, and effōdit in the perfect; so exēdit and exēdit; devēnit and devēnit; devēnimus and devēnimus; effūgit and effūgit, &c.

The change of a vowel or diphthong in the compound does not alter the quantity; asyncīdo from in and ēdo; incīdo from in and ēdo; suffōco from sub and foxo, fauci. Unless the letter following make it fall under some general rule; as, admitto, pērcello, dēsōculor, prōhibeo.

EXCEP. 1. Agnitum, cognitum, dejūro, pejūro, ianūba, pronūba, male-dīcus, vpredīous, nihīlum, semisōpītus; from nōtus, jūro, nūbo, dico, ni-hīl and sōpio; ambītus, a participle from ambio, is long; but the substantives ambītus and ambītio are short; Connubium has the second syllable common.

EXCEP. 2. The preposition pro is short in the following words; prōfundus, prōfugio, prōfuga, prōnepos, prōneptis, prōfestus, prōfari, prōfiteor, prōfānus, prōfecto, prōcella, prōtervus, and prōpāgo, a lineage; pro in prōpāgo, a vine-stock or shoot, is long. Pro in the following words is doubtful; propago (to propagate), propino, prōfundo, propello, propulso, procūro, and Proserpina.

EXCEP. 3. The inseparable prepositions se and di are long; as, sēparo, dīvello; except dīrimo, dīsertus. Re is short; as, rēmīto, rēsēro; except the impersonal verb, rēsert.

EXCEP. 4. E, i, and o, in the end of the former compounding word are usually shortened; as, nēfas, nēque, patēfacio, &c., omnipotens, agrieōla, significo, &c., duōdēcim, hōdie, sacrōsanctus, &c. But from each of these there are many exceptions. Thus i is long, when it is varied by cases; as, quīdam, quīvis, tantīdem, eīdem, &c. And when the compounding words may be taken separately; as, ludimagister, lucrīfacio, sīquis, &c. Ilem in the masculine is long, in the neuter short; also ubīque, ibīdem. But in ubīvis and ubicunque the i is doubtful.

ACCENT.

Accent is the tone of the voice with which a syllable is pronounced.

In every word of two or more syllables, one syllable is sounded higher than the rest, to prevent monotony or an uniformity of sound, which is disagreeable to the ear.

When accent is considered with respect to the sense, or when a particular stress is laid upon any word, on account of meaning, it is called emphasis.

There are three accents, distinguished by their different sounds; acute, grave, circumflex.

1. The acute or sharp accent raises the voice in pronunciation, and is thus marked [´]; as, prófero, prófer.

2. The grave or base accent depresses the voice, or keeps it in its natural tone, and is thus marked [˘]; as, doctè. This cent properly belongs to all syllables which have no other

3. The circumflex accent first raises, and then sinks the voice in some degree on the last syllable ; and is therefore placed only upon long syllables. When written it has this mark, made up of the two former [^] ; as, amāre.

The accents are hardly ever marked in English books, except in dictionaries, grammars, spelling-books, or the like, where the acute accent only is used.

The accents are likewise seldom marked in Latin books, unless for the sake of distinction ; as in these adverbs, aliquo, continuo, doctè, unà, &c. to distinguish them from certain cases of adjectives, which are spelled in the same way. So poëtâ, gloriâ, in the ablative ; fructûs, tumultûs, in the genitive ; nostrûm, vestrûm, the genitive of nos and vos ; ergô, on account of ; occidit, he slew ; Pompili, for Pompilii ; amâris, for amaveris, &c.

VERSE.

A verse is a certain number of short and long syllables disposed according to rule.

It is so called, because when the number of syllables requisite is completed, we always turn back to the beginning of a new line. The parts into which we divide a verse, to see if it hath its just number of syllables, are called feet.

A verse is divided into different feet, rather to ascertain its measure than to regulate its pronunciation.

FEET.

Poetic feet are either of two, three, or four syllables. When a single syllable is taken by itself, it is called a caesura, which is commonly a long syllable.

1. Feet of Two Syllables.

Spondeus	consists of two long ; as, omnēs .
Pyrrhichius	two short ; as, dēs .
Iambus	a short and a long ; as, amāns .
Trocheus	a long and a short ; as, scroûs .

2. Feet of Three Syllables.

Dactylus	consists of a long and two short ; as, scribēre .
Anapæstus	two short and a long ; as, pētās .
Amphimæter	a long, a short, and a long ; as, chāritās .
Tribrachys	three short ; as, dōmīnūs .

(The Following are not much used.)

Molossus ,	dēlectānt.	Bacchius ,	dolōrēs.
Amphibrachys ,	hōnōrē.	Antibacchius ,	pēluntūr.

3. Feet of Four Syllables.

Antispastus,	Alēxāndēr.	Pæon primus,	tēmpōribūs.
Ionicus minor,	prōpērābānt.	Pæon secundus,	pōtēntiā.
Ionicus major,	cālcārībūs.	Pæon tertius,	ānīmāiūs.
Proceleusmaticus,	hōmīnībūs.	Pæon quartus,	čč'ērīās.
Dispondeus,	ōvātōrēs.	Epitritus primus,	vōlūptātēs.
Dijambus,	āmānītās.	Epitritus secundus,	pānītētēs.
Choriambus,	pōntīfīcēs.	Epitritus tertius,	dīscōrdīās.
Ditrocheus,	cāntīlēnā.	Epitritus quartus,	fōrtūnāiūs.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF VERSE.

1. HEXAMETER.

The Hexameter or Heroic verse, consists of six feet. Of these the fifth is a dactyle, and the sixth a spondee: all the rest may be either dactyles or spondees:

Lūdērē | quæ vël. | lēm cālā. | mō pēr. | nīsīt ā. | grēsti. Virg.
Infān. | dūm, Rē- | gīnā jū. | bēs rēnō. | vārē dō. | lōrem. Id.

A regular Hexameter line cannot have more than seventeen syllables, or fewer than thirteen.

Sometimes a spondee is found in the fifth place, whence the verse is called Spondaic; as,

Cā. ā Dē. | ūm sōbō. | lēs, māg- | nūm Jōvīs | mērē. | mēntum. Virg.

Sometimes there remains a superfluous syllable at the end. But this syllable must either terminate in a vowel; or in the consonant m with a vowel before it; so as to be joined with the following verse, which in the present case must always begin with a vowel; as,

Omniā | Mērcūrī. | ō sīmī. | līs vō. | cēmquē cō. | lōrēmque
Et flavos crines. — Virg.

2. PENTAMETER.

The Pentameter verse consists of five feet. Of these, the two first are either dactyles or spondees, the third always a spondee, and the fourth and fifth an anapaustus; as,

Nātū. | rē sēquī. | tūr sē. | mīnā quīs. | quē sūx. Propert.
Cārmīnī. | būs vī. | vēs tēm. | pūs īn ōm. | nē mēis. Ovid.

But this verse is more properly divided into two hemisticks or halves: the former of which consists of two feet, either dactyles or spondees and a cæsura; the latter always of two dactyles and another cæsura; thus,

Nātū. | rē sēquī. | tūr | sēmīnā | quīsquē sū. | x.
Cārmīnī. | būs vī. | vēs | tēmpūs īn | ōmnē mē. | is.

3. ASCLEPIADEAN.

The Asclepiadean verse consists of four feet; to wit, a spondee, twice a choriambus, and a Pyrrhichius; as,

Mēcē | nās ātāvīs | ēdītē rē. | gībūs. Hor.

But this verse may be more properly measured thus: In the first place, a spondee; in the second a dactyle; then a cæsura; and after that two dactyles; thus,

Mæcē- | nās atq. | vīs | edītē | rēgibus.

4. GLYCONIAN.

The Glyconian verse has three feet; a spondee, a choriambus, and a Pyrrhichius; as,

Nāvis | quæ tibi crē- | ditum,— Hor.

Or it may be divided into a spondee and two dactyles; thus,

Nāvis | quæ tibi | crēditum,—

5. SAPPHIC.

The Sapphic verse has five feet; viz. a trochee, spondee, dactyle, and two trochees; thus,

Intē- | gēf vī- | tæ, scēlē- | risquē | pūrus. Hor.

6. ADONIAN.

An Adonian verse consists only of a dactyle and a spondee; as,

Jūpītēr | ūrget. Hor.

7. PHARECRATIAN.

The Pharecratian verse consists of three feet; a spondee, dactyle, and spondee; thus,

Nigris | æquorā | vēntis. Hor.

8. PHALEUCIAN.

The Phalæcean verse consists of five feet; viz. a spondee, dactyle, and three trochees; as,

Sūmmām | nē mētū- | ās dĩ- | ĕm, nēc, | ōptes. Mart.

9. THE GREATER ALCAIC.

The Greater Alcaic (called likewise Dactylic) consists of four feet; a spondee or iambus, iambus and cæsura, then two dactyles: as,

Virtūs | rēpūl- | sz | nēcūā | sōrdīdæ. Hor.

10. ARCHILOCHIAN.

The Archilochian Iambic verse consists of four feet. In the first and third place, it has either a spondee or iambus; in the second and fourth, always an iambus; and in the end, a cæsura; as,

Nēc sū | mīt, aut | pōnīt | sēcū- | res. Hor.

11. THE LESSER ALCAIC.

The lesser Dactylic Alcaic consists of four feet; namely, two dactyles and two trochees; as,

Arbītrī- | ō pōpū | lārīs | auræ. Hor.

Of the above kinds of verse, the two first take their names from the number of feet of which they consist. All the rest derive their names from those by whom they were either first invented, or frequently used.

There are several other kinds of verse, which are named from the feet by which they are most commonly measured; such as the Dactylic, Trochaic, Anapæstic, and Iambic. The last of these is most frequently used.

12. IAMBIC.

Of Iambic verse there are two kinds. The one consists of four feet, and is called by a Greek name, Dimeter; the other consists of six feet, and is called, Trimeter. The reason of these names is, that among the Greeks two feet were considered only as one measure in Iambic verse; whereas the Latins measured it by single feet, and therefore called the Dimeter, quaternarius; and the Trimeter, senarius. Originally this kind of verse was purely Iambic, i. e. admitted of no other feet but the iambus; as,

Dimeter, Inâr- | sît xs- | tûô- | sÿs. Hor.

Trimeter, Sûls | ôt ip- | sâ Rô- | mâ vî- | rîbûs | rûit. Id.

But afterwards, both for the sake of ease and variety, different feet were admitted into the uneven or odd places, that is, in the first, third, and fifth places, instead of an iambus, they used a spondee, a dactyle, or an anapæstus, and sometimes a tribrachys. We also find a tribachys in the even places, i. e. in the second place, and in the fourth; for the last foot must always be an iambus; thus,

Dimeter, Cānîdî- | ă trăc- | tāvît | dăpes. Hor.

Vîdē- | rē prōpē- | rântēs | dōmum. Id.

Trimeter, Quôquô | scēlēs- | tî rûî- | tîs aut | cûr dēx- | tēria. Hor.

Pāvîdûm- | quē lēpō- | r' aut ād- | vēmām | lăquēō grēm. Id.

Alîtî- | bûs ât- | quē cānî- | bûs hōmî- | cîd' Hēc- | tōrem.

In comic writers we sometimes find an Iambic verse consisting of eight feet, therefore called Tetrameter or Octonarius.

A verse which hath just the number of feet requisite, is called Versus Acatalecticus, an Acatalectic verse; if a syllable be wanting, it is called Catalecticus; if there be a syllable too much, it is called Hypercatalecticus or Hypermeter.

NOTE. It is not of great importance, whether these names, and several others of the same nature which follow, be remembered by the learner or not. They are here made use of and explained, that they may not appear strange, when they occur in other books.

COMBINATION OF VERSES.

The different kinds of verses are variously combined in poems.

A poem which has only one kind of verse, is called by a Greek name, Monocolon; that which has two kinds, Dicolon; and that which has three kinds of verse, Tricolon.

That which consists of two kinds of verse, and always after two lines returns to the first, is called Dicolon Distrophon; as when a single pentameter is alternately placed after a hexameter, which is named Elegiac verse, because it was first applied to mournful subjects; thus,

Flebilis, indignos, Elegiâ, solve capillos,

Ah! nimis ex vero nunc tibi nomen erit. Ovid.

M

When a poem consists of two kinds of verse, and after three lines returns to the first, it is called Dicolon Tristrophon; when after four lines, Dicolon Tetrastrophon; as,

Auream quisquis mediocritatem
Diligit, tutus caret obsoleti
Sordibus tecti; caret invidendâ
Sobrius aulâ. Hor.

When a poem consists of three kinds of verse, and after three lines always returns to the first, it is called Tricolon Tristrophon; but if it returns after four lines, it is called Tricolon Tetrastrophon; as when after two greater dactylic alcaic verses are subjoined an archilochian iambic and a lesser dactylic alcaic; which is named the Carmen Horatianum, or Horatian verse, because frequently used by Horace; thus,

Virtus recludens immeritis mori
Cœlum, negatâ tentat iter viâ:
Cætusque vulgares, et udam
Spernit humum fugiente pennâ.

Any of these parts of a poem, in which the different kinds of verse are comprehended, when taken by itself, is called a Strophe, Stanza, or Staff.

SCANNING.

The measuring of verse, or the resolving of it into the several feet of which it is composed, is called Scanning; as,

Spond.	Dact.	Spond.	Spond.	Dact.	Spond.
Fēlix	qui pōtū-	it rē-	rūm cōg-	nōacērē	causās, &c.

FIGURES IN SCANNING.

The several changes made upon words to adapt them to the verse, are called Figures in Scanning. The chief of these are the Synalepha, Ecthipsis, Synæresis, Dieræsis, Synstole, and Diastole.

1. Synalepha is the cutting off of a vowel or diphthong, when the next word begins with a vowel; as,

Conticuere omnes, intentique ora tenebant. Virg.

To be scanned thus,

Cōntīcū- | ēr' ōm- | nēs īn- | tēntī- | qu' ōrā tē- | nēbant.

The Synalepha is sometimes neglected; and seldom takes place in the interjections, ō, heu, ah, pro, vā, vah, hei; as,

O pater, ō hominum, Divūmque æterna potestas. Virg.

2. Ecthipsis is, when m is cut off, with the vowel before it in the end of a word, because the following word begins with a vowel; as,

O curas hominum! O quantum est in rebus inane! Pers.

Thus,

O | cū- | rās hōmī- | n'! ō quan- | t' est īn | rēbūs īn- | anē!

3. Syneresis is the contraction of two syllables into one, which is likewise called Crisis; as, Phæthon for Phaethon. So ei in deinde, Pompei; oi in proinde; æa in aurea; thus,

Aurea percussum virgâ, versumque venenis. Virg.

4. Diaeresis divides one syllable into two; as, Troïæ for Trojæ; Perseus for Perseus; millus for milvus.

5. Systole is when a long syllable is made short; as, the penult in tulērunt; thus,

Matri longa decem tulerunt fastidia menses. Virg.

6. Diastole is when a syllable usually short is made long; as the last syllable in amôr in the following verse:

Confidant, si tantus amôr, et mœnia condant.

To these may be subjoined the Figures of Diction, as they are called, which are chiefly used by the poets, though some of them likewise frequently occur in prose.

1. When a letter or a syllable is added to the beginning of a word it is called Prothesis; as, gnavus for navus; tetuli for tuli. When a letter or syllable is interposed in the middle of a word, it is called Epenthesis; as, relligio for religio; induperator for imperator. When a letter or syllable is added to the end, it is called Paragoge; as, dicier for dici.

2. If a letter or syllable be taken from the beginning of a word it is called Aphæresis; as, natus for gnatus; tenderant for tetenderant. If from the middle of a word, it is called Syncope; as, dixti for dixisti; deum for deorum. If from the end, Apocope; as, videsn' for videsne; Antonî for Antonii.

3. When a letter or syllable is transposed, it is called Metathesis; as, pistris for pristis; Lybia for Libya. When one letter is put for another, it is called Antithesis; as, faciundum for faciendum; olli for illi; voltis for vultis.

But what particularly deserves attention in scanning verse, especially hexameter, is the Cæsura.

Cæsura is when after a foot is completed, there remains a syllable at the end of a word to begin a new foot: as,

S. D. S.
At rē- | gīnā grā- | vī jām- | dūdūm', &c.

The Cæsura is variously named according to the different parts of the hexameter verse in which it is found. When it comes after the first foot, or falls on the third half foot, it is called by a Greek name, Triemimēris: When on the fifth half foot, or the syllable after the second foot, it is called Penthemimēris. When it happens on the first syllable of the fourth foot, or the seventh half-foot, it is called Hepthemimēris. And when on the ninth half-foot, or the first syllable of the fifth foot, it is called Enneemimēris.

All these different species of Cæsura sometimes occur in one verse; as, Illē lā-tūs nŭv-ēm mōl-lī fūl-tūs hŷā-cīntho. Virg.

But the most common and beautiful Cæsura is the penthemim; on which some lay a particular accent or stress of the voice in reading an hexameter verse thus composed, whence they call it the Cæsural pause; as,

Tityre, dum rede-O, brevis est via, pasce capellas. Virg.

When the Cæsura falls on a syllable naturally short, it renders it long as the last syllable of fultus in the fore-going example.

The chief melody of a hexameter verse in a great measure depends on the proper disposition of the Cæsura. Without this, a line consisting of the number of feet requisite, will be little else than mere prose; as, Rōmæ mænīā tērrūyt īmpīgēr Hānnībāl ārmīs. Ennius.

The ancient Romans, in pronouncing verse, paid a particular attention to its melody. They not only observed the quantity and accent of the several syllables, but also the different stops and pauses which the particular turn of the verse required. In modern times we do not fully perceive the melody of Latin verse, because we have now lost the just pronunciation of that language, the people of every country pronouncing it in a manner similar to their own. In reading Latin verse, therefore we are directed by the same rules which take place with respect to English verse.

The tone of the voice ought to be chiefly regulated by the sense. All the words should be pronounced fully; and the cadence of the verse ought only to be observed, so far as it corresponds with the natural expression of the words. At the end of each line there should be no fall of the voice, unless the sense requires it; but a small pause, half of that which we usually make at a comma.

DISTICHORUM DE MORIBUS.

LIBER I.

Dei cultus præcipuus.

SI Deus est animus, nobis ut carmina dicunt,
Hic tibi præcipuè sit purâ mentē colendus.

Somnolentia vitanda.

Plus vigila semper, nec somno deditus esto ;
Nam diuturna quies vitiis alimenta ministrat.

Cohibenda lingua.

Virtutem primam esse puta compescere linguam ;
Proximus ille Deo, qui scit ratione tacere.

Sibi ipsi conveniendum.

Sperne repugnando tibi tu contrarius esse ;
Conveniet nulli qui secum dissidet ipse.

Nemo temere culpandus.

Si vitam inspicias hominum, si denique mores,
Cum culpas alios ; nemo sine crimine vivit.

Utilitas divitiis anteposenda.

Quæ nocitura tenes, quamvis sint chara, relinque ;
Utilitas opibus præponi tempore debet.

Mores pro tempore mutandi.

Et levis* et constans, ut res expostulat, esto ;
Temporibus mores sapiens sine crimine mutat.

* al. constans aut levis, repugnan-te metro.

Uxori non semper assentiendum.

Nil temere uxori de servis crede querenti ;
Sæpe etenim mulier, quem conjux diligit, odit.

Instandum correctione animi.

Cumque mones aliquem, nec se velit ipse moneri,
Si tibi sit charus, noli desistere cœptis.

Stulti verbis non vincuntur.

Contra verbosos noli contendere verbis ;
Sermo datur cunctis, animi sapientia paucis.

Amicus sibi quisque primus.

Dilige sic alios, ut sis tibi charus amicus ;
Sic bonus esto bonis, ne te mala damna sequantur.

Rumores spargere vetitum.

Rumores fuge, ne incipias novus auctor haberi ;
Nam nulli tacuisse nocet, nocet esse locutum.

Fides aliena non promittenda.

Rem tibi promissam certò promittere noli ;
Rara fides idè est, quia multi multa loquuntur.

Judex quisque sit sui.

Cum te aliquis laudat, judex tuus esse memento
Plus aliis de te, quàm tu tibi credere noli.

Beneficiorum ratio.

Officium alterius multis narrare memento ;
Atque aliis cum tu benefeceris, ipse sileto.

Senio bene gesta referenda.

Multorum cum facta senex et dicta recensens
Fac tibi succurrent, juvenis quæ feceris ipse.

Suspicionis labes.

Ne cures si quis tacito sermone loquatur ;
Conscius ipse sibi de se putat omnia dici.

In prosperis de adversis cogitandum.

Cùm fueris felix, quæ sunt adversa caveto;
Non eodem cursu respondent ultima primis.

Mors alterius non speranda.

Cùm dubia et fragilis sit nobis vita tributa,
In morte alterius spem tu tibi ponere noli.

Animus in dono æstimandus.

Exiguum munus cum dat tibi pauper amicus,
Accipito placidè, plenè et laudare memento.

Paupertas toleranda.

Infantem nudum cùm te natura creârit,
Paupertatis onus patienter ferre memento.

Mors non formidanda.

Ne timeas illam, quæ vitæ est ultima finis;
Qui mortem metuit, quod vivit perdit id ipsum.

Amicorum ingratitude fugienda.

Si tibi pro meritis nemo respondet amicus,
Incusare Deum noli, sed te ipse coerce.

Frugalitas.

Ne tibi quid desit quæsis utere parcè;
Utque quod est serves, semper tibi deesse putato.

Promissio iterata molesta.

Quod præstare potes, ne bis promiseris ulli;
Ne sis ventosus, dum vis bonus esse videri.

Ars arte deludenda.

Qui simulat verbis, nec corde est fidus amicus;
Tu quoque fac simile; sic ars deluditur arte.

Blandiloquentia suspecta.

Noli homines blando nimium sermone probare;
Fistula dulce canit, volucrum dum decipit anceps.

Liberi artibus instruendi.

Cùm tibi sint nati, nec opes; tunc artibus illos
Instrue, quò possint inopem defendere vitam.

Res quomodo æstimandæ.

Quod vile est, carum; quod carum est, vile putato,
Sic tibi nec cupidus, nec avarus habebis ulli.

Culpata non facienda.

Quæ culpæ soles, ea tu ne feceris ipse;
Turpe est doctori cum culpa redarguit ipsum.

Concedenda petenda.

Quod justum est petito, vel quod videatur honestum;
Nam stultum est petere id quod possit jure negari.

Nota ignotis non commutanda.

Ignotum tibi tu noli præponere notis ;
Cognita iudicio constant, incognita casu.

Dies quisque supremus putandus.

Cùm dubia incertis versetur vita periclis,
Pro lucro tibi pone diem quocunque* laboras.

* al. quicunque.

Obsecundandum amicis.

Vincere cum possis, interdum cede sodali ;
Obsequio quoniam dulces retinentur amici.

Amicitiae mutua officia.

Ne dubites, cum magna petas, impendere parva ;
His etenim rebus conjungit gratia charos.

Amicitia rixas odit.

Litem inferre cave cum quo tibi gratia juncta est.
Ira odium generat, concordia nutrit amorem.

Castigatio sine ira.

Servorum ob culpam cum te dolor urget in iram,
Ipse tibi moderare, tuis tu parcere possis.

Patientiâ vincendum.

Quem superare potes, interdum vince ferendo :
Maxima enim morum semper patientia virtus.

Quæsitâ sunt servanda.

Conserva potius, quæ sunt jam parta labore ;
Cum labor in damno est, crescit mortalis egestas.

Consulendum sibi in primis.

Dapsilis interdum notis, et charus amicis ;
Cum fueris felix, semper tibi proximus esto.

LIBER II.

Prefatio.

TELLURIS si fortè velis cognoscere cultus,
Virgilium legito. Quodd si mage nôsse laboras
Herbarum vires, Macer has tibi carmine dicet,
Corporis ut cunctos possis depellere morbos.
Si Romana cupis et civica noscere bella.
Lucanum quæras, qui Martis prælia dixit.
Si quis amare velis, vel discere amare legendo,
Nasonem petilo. Sin autem cura tibi hæc est
Ut sapiens vivas, audi quæ discere possis,
Per quæ semotum vitiis traducitur ævum.
Vrgo ades, et quæ sit sapientia discere legendo.

De omnibus bene merendum.

Si potes, ignotis etiam prodesse memento ;
Utilius regno est meritis acquirere amicos.

Arcana Dei non scrutanda.

Mitte arcana Dei, cœlumque inquirere quid sit :
Cum sis mortalīs, quæ sunt mortalia cura.

Mortis timor gaudia vitæ pellit.

Linque metum lethi, nam stultum est tempore in omni
(Dum mortem metuis) amittere gaudia vitæ.

Iracundia cavenda.

Iratus de re incertâ contendere noli :
Impedit ira animum ne possit cernere verum.

Expendendum ubi opus est.

Fac sumptum properè, cum res desiderat ipsa :
Dandum etenim est aliquid, cum tempus postulat aut res.

Fortuna modica tutior.

Quod nimium est fugito, parvo gaudere memento :
Tuta mage est puppis medico quæ flumine fertur.

Occulta vitia reticenda.

Quod pudeat socios prudens celare memento :
Ne plures culpent id, quod tibi displicet uni.

Occulta tandem revelantur.

Nolo putes pravos homines peccata lucrari :
Temporibus peccata latent, sed tempore parent*.

Imbecilitas virtute compensatur.

Corporis exigui vires contemnere noli :
Consilio pollet cui vim natura negavit.

Cedendum potiori ad tempus.

Cui sciēris non esse parem te, tempore cede :
Victorem a victo superari sæpe videmus.

Rixandum cum familiaribus non esse.

Adversus notum noli contendere verbis :
Lis minoris verbis interdum maxima crescit.

Fortuna non quærenda sorte.

Quid Deus intendat, noli perquirere sorte :
Quid statuatur de te, sine te deliberat ipse.

Luxus odium generat.

Invidiam nimio cultu vitare memento :
Quæ si non lædit, tamen hanc sufferre molestum est.

Animus non deponendus ob iniquum iudicium.

Esto animo forti, cum sis damnatus iniquè.
Nemo diu gaudet, qui iudice vincit iniquo.

* i. e. apparent,
vulgo patent,
contra metri
legem.

Reconciliatis līs non refricanda.

Litis præteritæ noli maledicta referre :
Post inimicitias iram meminisse malorum est.

Teipsum neque lauda nec culpa.

Nec te collaudes nec te culpaveris ipse ;
Hoc faciunt stulti, quos gloria vexit inanis.

Parsimonia.

Utere quæsitis parcè cum sumptus abundat ;
Labitur exiguo, quod partum est tempore longo.

Supercilium nonnunquam deponendum.

Insipiens esto, cùm tempus postulat aut res ;
Stultitiam simulare loco prudentia summa est.

Neque prodigus neque avarus esto.

Luxuriam fugito, simul et vitare memento
Crimen avaritiæ ; nam sunt contraria famæ.

Loquaci parum credendum.

Noli tu quædam referenti credere semper ;
Exigua iis tribuenda fides qui multa loquuntur.

Ebrius vinum non accuset.

Quæ potu* peccas, ignoscere tu tibi noli ;
Nam nullum crimen vini est, sed culpa bibentis.

* al. potus.

Amicis consilia credenda.

Consilium arcanum tacito committe sodali ;
Corporis auxilium medico committe fideli.

Successus malorum non te offendat.

Indignos noli successus ferre molestè ;
Indulget fortuna malis ut lædere possit.

Futuros casus prævidendos.

Prospice, qui veniunt, hos casus esse ferendos.
Nam levius lædit, quicquid prævidimus antè.

Animus in adversis spe fovendus.

Rebus in adversis animum submittere noli ;
Spem retine ; spes una hominem nec morte relinquit.

Opportunitas cùm contingit tenenda.

Rem tibi quam nosis aptam dimittere noli ;
Fronte capillatâ, post est occasio calva.

Futura ex præteritis colligenda.

Quod sequitur specta, quodque imminet antè, videto ;
Illum imitare deum, qui partem spectat utramque.

Vitæ ratio habenda.

Fortius ut valeas, interdum parcior esto ;
Pauca voluptati debentur, plura saluti.

Multitudini cedendum.

Judicium populi nunquam contempseris unus ;
Ne nulli placeas, dum vis contemnere multos.

Valetudo curanda.

Sit tibi præcipue, quod primum est, cura salutis ;
Tempora ne culpes, cum sis tibi causa doloris.

Somnia non observanda.

Somnia ne cures ; nam mens humana quod optat,
Dum vigilans sperat, per somnum cernit id ipsum.

LIBER III.

Prefatio.

Hoc quicumque voles carmen cognoscere, lector,
Quum præcepta ferat quæ sunt gratissima vitæ,
Commoda multa feres. Sin autem spreveris illud,
Non me scriptorem, sed te neglexeris ipse.

Dandam esse operam literis.

INSTRUE præceptis animum, nec discere cesses ;—
Nam sine doctrinâ vita est quasi mortis imago.

Moribus captanda fama.

Fortunæ donis semper parere memento ;
Non opibus bona fama datur, sed moribus ipsis.

Recte agendo aliorum linguas ne timeas.

Cum rectè vivas, ne cures verba malorum ;
Arbitrii nostri non est quod quisque loquatur.

Amici crimen celandum.

Productus testis, salvo tamen antè pudore,
Quantumcunque potes, celato crimen amici.

Blandiloquentia suspecta.

Sermo blandos blâsosque cavere memento ;
Simplicitas veri sana* est, fraus ficta loquendi.

* Scal. fama, i. e.

ma.

Ignava vita fugienda.

Segnitiam fugito, quæ vitæ ignavia fertur ;
Nam cum animus languet, consumit inertia corpus.

Animus fessus relaxandus.

Interpone tuis interdum gaudia curis ;
Ut possis animo quemvis sufferre laborem.

Malo animo neminem reprehendas.

Alterius dictum, aut factum, ne carpseris unquam ;
Exemplo simili ne te derideat alter.

Hæreditas augenda.

Quod tibi sors dederit tabulis suprema notato ;
Augendo serva ; ne sis quem fama loquatur.

Senectus sit munifica.

Cùm tibi divitiæ superant in fine senectæ,
Munificus facito vivas, non parcus amicis.

Verba attendenda, non os loquentis.

Utile consilium dominus ne despice servi,
Nullius sensum, si prodest, tempseris unquam.

Præsenti utendum fortunâ.

Rebus et in censu si non est quod fuit antè,
Fac vivas contentus eo quod tempora præbent.

Uxor spe dotis non quærenda.

Uxorem fuge ne ducas sub nomine dotis ;
Nec retinere velis, si cœperit esse molesta.

Alieno sapere exemplo.

Multorum disce exemplo quæ facta sequaris,
Quæ fugias ; vita est nobis aliena magistra.

Nihil ultra vires.

Quod potes, id tentes ; operis ne pondere pressus
Succumbat labor, et frustra tentata relinquant.

Consentire videtur qui tacet.

Quod nōsti haud rectè factum, nolito silere ;
Ne videre malos imitari velle tacendo.

Rigor favore temperandus.

Judicis auxilium sub iniquâ lege rogato ;
Ipsæ etiam leges cupiunt ut jure regantur.

Feras quæ tuâ culpâ pateris.

Quod meritò pateris, patienter ferre memento ;
Cùmque reus tibi sis, ipsum te judice damna.

Multa legenda, sed cum judicio.

Multa legas facito ; perlectis perlege* multa ;
Nam miranda canunt, sed non credenda poetæ.

* al. negligē.

Modestè in convivio loquendum.

Inter convivas fac sis sermone modestus ;
Ne dicare loquax, dum vis urbanus haberi.

Iracundia uxoris non formidanda.

Conjugis iratæ nolito verba timere ;
Nam lacrymis struit insidias, dum fœmina plorat.

Quæsitis utendum, non abutendum.

Utere quæsitis, sed ne videaris abuti ;
Qui sua consumunt, cùm deest, aliena sequuntur.

Mors non formidanda.

Fac tibi proponas mortem non esse timendam ;
Quæ bona si non est, finis tamen illa malorum est.

Uxor proba, si loquax, ferenda.

Uxoris linguam, si frugi est, ferre memento ;

Pietas erga parentes.

Nec matrem offendas, dum vis bonus esse parenti.

LIBER IV.

Suspicio statim expendenda.

Amicus cordis medicus.

Auxilium a notis petito, si fortè laboras ;
Nec quisquam melior medicus, quàm fidus amicus.

GULIELMI LILII MŌNITA PÆDAGOGICA :

SIYE,

CARMEN DE MORIBUS AD SUOS DISCIPULOS.

QUI mihi discipulus, puer, es, cupis atque doceri,
Huc ades, hæc animo concipe dicta tuo.
Mane citus lectum fuge, mollem discute somnum ;
Templa petas supplex et venerare Deum.
Attamen in primis facies sit lota manusque ;
Sint nitidæ vestes, comptaque cæsaries.
Desidiam fugiens, cū te schola nostra vocārit,
Adsis ; nulla pigræ sit tibi causa moræ.
Me Præceptorem cū videris ore saluta,
Et condiscipulos ordine quosque tuos.
Tu quoque fac sedeas, ubi te sedisse iubemus :
Inque loco, nisi sis jussus abire, mane.
Ac magis ut quisque est doctrinæ munere clarus,
Hoc magis is clarâ sede locandus erit.
Scalpellum, calami, atramentum, charta, libelli,
Sint semper studiis arma parata tuis.
Si quid dictabo, scribes : at singula rectè :
Nec macula, aut scriptis menda sit ulla tuis.
Sed tua nec laceris dictata aut carmina chartis
Mandes, quæ libris inseruisse decet.
Sæpe recognoscas tibi lecta, animoque revolvās :
Si dubites, nunc hos consule, nunc alios.
Qui dubitat, qui sæpe rogat, mea dicta tenebit :
Is qui nil dubitat, nil capit inde boni.
Disce, puer, quæso : noli dediscere quicquam :
Ne mens te insimulet conscia desidïæ.
Sisque animo attentus : quid enim docuisse juvabit,
Si mea non firmo pectore verba premas ?
Nil tam difficile est quod non solertia vincat :
Invigila, et parta est gloriâ militiæ.
Nam veluti flores tellus, nec semina profert,
Ni sit continuo victa labore manûs :
Sic puer, ingenium si non exercitet, ipsum
Tempus et amittit, spem simul ingenii.
Est etiam semper lex in sermone tenenda,
Ne nos offendat improba garrulitas.
Incumbens studio, submissâ voce loqueris :
Nobis dum reddis, voce canorus eris.
Et quæcunque mihi reddes, discantur ad unguem :
Singula et abjecto verbula redde libro.

Nec verbum quisquam dicturo suggerat ullum :
 Quod puero exitium non mediocre parit.
 Si quicquam rogit, sic respondere studebis,
 Ut laudem dictis et mereare decus.
 Non linguâ celeri nimis, aut laudabere tardâ :
 Est virtus medium, quod tenuisse juvat.
 Et quoties loqueris, memor esto loquare Latinè :
 Et veluti scopulos barbara verba fuge.
 Præterea socios, quoties te cunque rogabunt,
 Instrue : et ignaros ad mea vota trahe.
 Qui docet indoctos, licet indocilissimus esset,
 Ipse brevi reliquis doctior esse queat.
 Sed tu nec stolidos imitabere Grammaticastros,
 Ingens Romani dedecus eloquii :
 Quorum tam fatuus nemo, aut tam barbarus ore est,
 Quem non auctorem barbara turba probet.
 Grammaticas rectè si vis cognoscere leges,
 Discere si cupias cultiùs ore loqui :
 Addiscas veterum clarissima scripta virorum,
 Et quos auctores turba Latina docet.
 Nunc te Virgilius, nunc ipse Terentius optat,
 Nunc simul amplecti te Ciceronis opus :
 Quos qui non didicit, nil præter somnia vidit,
 Certat et in tenebris vivere Cimmeriis.
 Sunt quos delectat (studio virtutis honestæ Posthabito) nugis tempora conterere :
 Sunt quibus est cordi, manibus, pedibusve sodales,
 Aut alio quovis sollicitare modo :
 Est alius, qui se dum clarum sanguine jactat,
 Insulso reliquis improbat ore genus.
 Te tam prava sequi nolim vestigia morum :
 Ne tandem factis præmia digna feres.
 Nil dabis aut vendes, nil permutabis emesve,
 Ex damno alterius commoda nulla feres.
 Insuper et nummos, irritamenta malorum,
 Mitte aliis : puerum nil nisi pura decent.
 Clamor, rixa, joci, mendacia, furta, cachinni,
 Sint procul a vobis : Martis et arma procul.
 Nil penitus dices, quod turpe, aut non sit honestum :
 Est vitæ ac pariter janua lingua necis.
 Ingens crede nefas cuiquam maledicta referre,
 Jurare aut magni nomina sacra Dei.
 Denique servabis res omnes atque libellos,
 Et tecum, quoties isque redisque, feres.
 Vel causas faciunt quæcunque nocentem,
 Et nobis displicuisse potes.

ORATIO DOMINICA, Matth. vi.

PATER noster, qui es in cælis, 1. Sanctificetur nomen tuum. 2. Veniat regnum tuum. 3. Fiat voluntas tua, quemadmodum in cælo, sic etiam in terra. 4. Panem nostrum quotidianum da nobis hodie. 5. Et remitte nobis debita nostra, sicut et nos remittimus debitoribus nostris. 6. Et ne nos inducas in tentationem, sed libera nos a malo; quia tuum est regnum, et potentia, et gloria, in secula. Amen.

Passus sub Pontio Pilato, crucifixus, mortuus et sepultus, descendit ad inferna. 5. Tertio die resurrexit a mortuis. 6. Ascendit ad cælos, sedet ad dextram Dei Patris Omnipotentis. 7. DECALOGUS (SIVE LEX DEI).

Locutus est Deus omnia verba hæc. Exod. xx.

EGO sum Dominus Deus tuus, qui eduxi te ex Ægypto, e domo servitutis. I. Non habebis deos alienos in conspectu meo.

II. Ne sculpas tibi simulacrum, nec ullam imaginem effingas eorum, quæ aut supra sunt in cælo, aut infra in terrâ, aut in aquis sub terrâ; neque incurves te illis, neque colas ea. Ego enim sum Dominus Deus tuus, fortis, zelotes, vindicans peccata patrum in filios, idque in tertiâ et quartâ progenie eorum qui oderunt me, et misericordiâ utens in milesimam eorum qui diligunt me, et observant præcepta mea.

III. Ne usurpes nomen Domini Dei tui temere. Neque enim Dominus dimittet eum impunitum, qui nomen ejus vanè usurpaverit.

IV. Memento diem Sabbati sanctifices. Sex diebus operaberis, et facies omne opus tuum. At septimo die Sabbatum erit Domino Deo tuo. Non facies ullum opus, nec tu, nec filius tuus, nec filia tua, nec servus tuus, nec ancilla tua, nec jumentum tuum, nec advena qui est intra portas tuas. Nam sex diebus fecit Deus cælum, terram, et mare, et quæcunque in iis sunt; requievit autem die septimo, ideoque benedixit diei Sabbati, et sanctificavit eum.

V. Honora patrem tuum et matrem tuam, ut diu vivas in terra, quam tibi Dominus Deus tuus daturus est.

VI. Non occides.

VII. Non committes adulterium.

VIII. Non furaberis.

IX. Non dices contra proximum tuum falsum testimonium.

X. Non concupisces domum proximi tui, non concupisces uxorem proximi tui, nec servum ejus, nec ancillam, nec bovem, nec asinum, nec quicquam eorum quæ sunt proximi tui.

SUMMA LEGIS, Matth. xxii. 34.

PHARISÆI, quum audivissent quòd Jesus silentium imposuisset Sadducæis, congregati sunt pariter. 35. Et interrogavit eum unus ex iis qui erat legis peritus, tentans eum, et dicens, 36. "Præceptor, quod præceptum maximum est in lege."

37. JESUS autem dixit illi, "Ut diligas Dominum Deum tuum, ex toto corde tuo, et ex totâ animâ tuâ, et ex omni cogitatione tuâ. 38. Hoc est præceptum maximum et primum. 39. Secundum autem est simile illi; nempe, Ut diligas proximum tuum sicut teipsum. 40. Ex his duobus præceptis pendent Lex et Prophetæ."

Quæ sunt illa?

Baptismus et sacra Cœna Domini.

INSTITUTIO BAPTISMI.

Cujus hæc sunt verba. Matth. xxviii. 19 Mark xvi. 15.

ITE et docete omnes gentes, baptizantes eos, In nomine Patris, et Filii, et Spiritus Sancti. Qui crediderit et baptizatus fuerit, servabitur; Qui non crediderit, condemnabitur. Et docete eos, ut custodiant quicquid mandavi vobis; et ecce ego vobiscum sum omnibus diebus usque ad consummationem sæculi.

Hæc promissio repetitur, cùm Scriptura Baptismum nominat Lavacrum regenerationis, et ablutionem peccatorum. Tit. iii. 5. Acts xxii. 16.

INSTITUTIO CŒNÆ DOMINI.

Cujus hæc sunt verba. 1 Cor. xi. 23.

"GO enim accepi a Domino nostro id quod tradidi vobis; Quod Dominus noster Jesus Christus, eâ nocte quâ proditus est, accepit panem; et actis, fregit, ac dixit; "Accipite, manducate, hoc est corpus meum, quod pro vobis frangitur ; Hoc facite ad memoriam mei." Itidem et poculum, postquam cœnasset, dicendo : " Hoc poculum est novum illud fœdus per meum sanguinem ; Hoc facite, quotiescunque biberitis, in mei recordationem." Quotiescunque enim ederitis panem hunc, et poculum hoc biberitis, mortem Domini annuntiabitis, usque quò venerit. Itaque quisquis ederit panem hunc, vel biberit poculum Domini indignè, reus est corporis et sanguinis Domini. Probet autem quisque seipsum, et ita de de pane illo edat, et de poculo illo bibat. Nam qui edit et bibit indignè, damnationem sibi ipsi edit et bibit, quia non decernit corpus Domini.

Hæc promissio a Paulo exprimitur, cùm inquit,

POCULUM gratiarum actionis, quo gratias agimus, nonne communio est sanguinis Christi ? Panis quem frangimus, nonne communio est corporis Christi ? Quoniam unus panis, unum corpus, multi sumus. Nam omnes unius panis participes sumus.

Two Prayers to be taught unto Children at School, with a Form of blessing God before and after Meat.

MORNING PRAYER.

O GOD ! I praise thee for the creation of the world, and for the redemption of mankind by thy son Jesus Christ, and for thy many favours bestowed on me : Thou didst safely take me from the womb, and hast ever since cared for me ; Thou hast afforded me the means of grace, and called me to the hope of glory.

But, O most merciful Father ! I, a poor and miserable sinner, conceived in sin, and brought forth in iniquity, have gone astray from thee ; I have not cared to know thee, and to do thy will, but have done my own will, and followed my own foolish and sinful inclinations, and do therefore deserve thy wrath and curse. O Lord have mercy upon me, turn me unto thee, and grant me repentance and forgiveness of all my sins, for Jesus Christ's sake. Let it from henceforth become my chief care to please thee, and to seek thy kingdom and righteousness. Work in me a true faith, a lively hope, and a fervent charity ; make me humble, meek, patient, sober, and just, and loving to all men, submissive and obedient to them that are over me, and well content and thankful in every condition of life. Grant that I may daily grow in the knowledge, love, and fear of thee. Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me.

I thank thee, O Lord ! for thy care of me this night ; watch over me this day ; keep me mindful that I am always in thy sight ; and grant that through the whole course of my life I may be holy and harmless in all manner of conversation ; that when this short and frail life is at an end, I may be made partaker of everlasting life, through the merits of Jesus Christ, our Lord, in whose name and words I pray, Our Father, which art in heaven, &c.

EVENING PRAYER.

MOST gracious God ! what shall I render unto thee for thy many and great benefits bestowed on me ? Though I have been an undutiful and disobedient servant unto thee, thou hast continued thy care and kindness for me ever since I was born, and hast preserved me to this day : Let me never forget thy goodness, but grant that I may thereby be led to repentance and amendment of life. Preserve me from every thing that is displeasing to thee. O Lord ! keep me from cursing, swearing, and lying,—from pride, stubbornness and idleness. Work in me an utter dislike of all uncleanness, of gluttony and drunkenness, of all malice and envy, of strife and contention, of deceit and covetousness. Give me grace to deny all ungodliness and worldly lusts, and to live godly, righteously, and soberly in this present world. Cause me to understand and to consider the laws and life of thy son Jesus Christ, that I may do his will, and follow his steps. Let not the cares of this life, nor the love of riches, nor evil company, nor the corrupt customs of the world withdraw me from the obedience of thy laws ; but strengthen and establish me by thy holy spirit, that I may live and die thy faithful servant.

O Lord ! send thy gospel through the world ; pour out plenteously the spirit of truth, holiness, and peace on all people ; bless the church and nation ; guide our rulers and magistrates ; sanctify and assist the ministers of the gospel ; visit all that are in trouble and sanctify their afflictions to them ; be gracious to all my kindred, friends, and neighbours ; and bless and forgive all mine enemies.

Lord ! watch over me this night, and keep me ever mindful that I am shortly to die and come to judgment, that I may without delay turn to thee, and pass the time of my sojourning here in thy fear.—Good Lord ! hear me, and grant these my desires, and what else thou knowest to be needful for me, for the sake of Jesus Christ our Lord ; in whose name and words I pray, Our Father, &c.

GRACE BEFORE MEAT.

O LORD, be merciful unto us, and pardon our sins ; sanctify these thy good benefits, that we, by the sober and thankful use of them, may be enabled for thy service, through Jesus Christ our Lord and Saviour.—Amen.

GRACE AFTER MEAT.

We thank and praise thee, O Lord, the giver of all good ! who hast at this time fed our bodies ; stir up in us a greater care for our souls ; and grant that our short lives, which are so carefully sustained by thy bounty, may be spent in doing thy will. Lead us safely through this vain and sinful world, in which we are pilgrims and strangers, and at length bring us to everlasting rest through Jesus Christ.—Amen.
